MR. WILLIAM DICKINSON BUCKNER

Preface

THE following pages have been written, that the records of an old and well known Virginia family might be preserved in true and simple form, not only as a reference book, but as a fraternal bond of good fellowship among the different branches of the family.

For sixteen years, William Dickinson Buckner, Esq., has gathered in a systematic manner, notes, manuscripts and records pertaining to the family, with the ultimate intention of printing them in suitable form. The accumulation of this data having assumed such formidable array, and the exigencies of his business precluding the actual compilation of the work by Mr. Buckner himself, the task of pruning the old, and gathering additional material was placed in my hands. To Mr. Buckner, however, the thanks of the members of the family should be rendered, for it is entirely owing to his determination to accomplish that which he had set out to do, and the furnishing of the necessary finances that this work has been brought to a successful completion.

The family chronicler is prone to set forth in glowing colors the good deeds of one's ancestors, and to gloss over those of more doubtful lustre. It can, however, be truthfully said, that a painstaking examination of old records in America and England has failed to reveal a "hidden Buckner skeleton."

We have standards of excellence which we never attain, and if some of our own flesh and blood have reached the higher ideals which we have set for ourselves, it should serve as an incentive for us to press forward in healthy emulation of noble traits.

We frequently read about family traits and family characteristics. How for generations one family has been a race of soldiers; another of clergymen; another of statesmen; another of lawyers, and another of merchants. A perusal of these pages will show that the Buckners are a combination of all of the above. It will show that the first of the name in America was one of the most respected merchants and progressive colonists. That his son as a Major of militia did his duty in repelling the attacks of blood thirsty Indians.

That another descendant was a fellow soldier with the great Washington. That in the defence of "a cause" they believed to be just and right, the Buckner blood was freely shed. That other descendants gave to Virginia, Kentucky and Missouri some of the ablest lawyers and staunchest statesmen that those states have ever known. It will show that they were "makers of men."

In preparing this history of the family, so many members have rendered help and encouragement that it would be impossible to enumerate them all by name. To Howard Randolph Bayne, Esq., most grateful acknowledgments are due for his assistance on the Ashby and Strother families. To the late Dr. James H. Buckner of Cincinnati, whose interest in the family history was most profound. To Mrs. Simon Bolivar Buckner; Mrs. Murray F. Tuley of Chicago; Mrs. Mildred Buckner McCay of Baltimore; Thomas Aylette Buckner, Esq., of New York; William Buckner McGroarty, Esq., of Washington, and Alvaro F. Gibbens, Esq., of Parkersburg, W. Va., our thanks are especially rendered.

The Buckner coat of arms depicted on the frontispiece is the one ascribed by Papworth and Burke to the Buckners of Berkshire, England. While there is no documentary evidence to show that the early Buckners of Virginia used armorial bearings, yet the records prove that they as descendants of the Berkshire family had a just right to use it had they valued such insignia.

No claim is made that the following pages are free from errors. The book aims to present a faithful record of the history of a family, and wherein it fails, the fault is not always to be imputed to the compiler, who may have been misled by incomplete information. Genealogy is a history of ourselves, and as CHAUCER truthfully says—"T'is not renomee of auncestres, but gentil dedes that make ye gentil man."

" People will not look forward to posterity, who never look backward to their ancestors."

—Edmund Burke,

The English Buckners

It is always true that honorable ancestry only aggravates the blame for a degenerate present. It is also true, that it is at all times wise and proper to illuminate and study the virtues of past ages, if we purpose in so doing, to set them before us as a model to imitate for the future.

In such a spirit, and with such a purpose we have endeavored to trace the history of John Buckner of Virginia, who, like a patriarch of old, with his children and children's children around him, became part of that band of empire builders, who carved out of the primeval wilderness the cornerstone, on which is still being upreared the temple of the best civilization of the nations.

The earliest mention of the name Buckner, in the existing records of Virginia, is that of John Buckner of York County, who patented 1,000 acres of land in Gloucester County in the year 1667. The latter county was formed from York in 1642, but its records previous to 1820, have been destroyed by fire, so that any clue they may have contained is forever lost.

The next of the name is Philip Buckner, a brother of John. His name is first mentioned in the records of Gloucester County in 1669. Then comes Nathaniel Buckner of Stafford County in 1680, and Anthony Buckner of Stafford in 1678, who patented land in Rappahannock in 1672-3.

In an endeavor to establish the identity of these Buckners, an exhaustive search of the English records was made, and the result has been the unearthing of various wills, and entries in Parish Registers, pertaining to the family.

As a matter of fact, the main object of the English search has been to ascertain, what connection, if any, John Buckner of Virginia had with a certain Thomas Buckner, who was a member of the "Raleigh Expedition," in the unsuccessful attempt to establish a settlement on the Western Continent in the year 1585.

What became of this Thomas Buckner after the failure of the expedition, whether he was one of the unfortunates of the colony, who died on the soil of what is now the State of North Carolina, or whether he lived to return to England, and tell of the attractions of the New World beyond the Atlantic Ocean, has hitherto been a matter of conjecture.

Until the production of this present work, the only detailed account of the Buckners consisted of a skeleton outline of the family which appeared a number of years ago in the Richmond Critic. This slight sketch was not only incomplete, but recent original research shows it to have been erroneous in several important particulars.

The article in the Critic makes mention of a work entitled "A Royal Descent," by Miss Thomasine Elizabeth Sharpe, and published by her in London in 1875. A copy of this work is in the Library of the British Museum. Amongst the many pedigrees given therein, is one of a Buckner family, which the author states had its origin in Westphalia. The first of the name, Richard Buckner, was born there in 1695, came to England, and died an Alderman of Chichester in 1772.

As a tradition is prevalent amongst some of the American Buckners that the immediate forefathers of John Buckner, the immigrant, were of German descent, it may be remarked en passant, that the ancestors of John Buckner are now known to have been in England 150 years before Richard Buckner of Westphalia was born. This fact does away with any surmise as to the close kinship of John and Richard.

It will readily be seen by the veriest tyro in the study of genealogy, that an attempt to find the parent stem of an American family, settled in this country since the middle of the seventeenth century, was a stupendous task.

The only clue to work upon was the fact, that Thomas Buckner of the "Raleigh Expedition," was believed to have been born in, or contiguous to the City of London. The search commenced, therefore, amongst the Middlesex records, and from thence to the surrounding counties. It was not, however, until the counties of Berks and Bucks were approached that anything tangible came to light. Then was unearthed what was thought to be the earliest will of an English Buckner—that of Richard Buckner of Cumnor, Berks, whose will is dated as far back as 1548. This Richard may be styled the founder of the American family, for beyond him we have been unable to go, although there is little doubt that the family had been living in the neighborhood of Cumnor for several generations previous to 1548. The phraseology of the will, and the amount of property bequeathed by the testator is conclusive that he was no immigrant from Germany, but rather that he and his ancestors had belonged to the class of stout English yeomanry for many years.

The County of Berkshire may justly be considered as the home of the Buckners. From thence they spread to picturesque Oxfordshire, and as the parent stem gradually dwindled in the mother country, its transplanted branches settled in the beckoning West, there to become in the fullness of time makers of men and history.

As we have stated before, of the first Buckners who came to Virginia, at least two of them were brothers—John and Philip. Of the other two—Nathaniel and Anthony—nothing is known, although it is extremely probable that there was some degree of consanguinity between all of them. The christian names of John, Philip and Anthony are found in the English records.

Richard Buckner of Cumnor

In the S. W. of the County of Berkshire, and three and one-half miles from the City of Oxford, nestles the quiet little village of Cumnor. Possibly from its settlement, until the time of the Parliamentary Wars, its handful of inhabitants had pursued the "even tenour of their ways," and then as now, when the day's work was o'er, would gaze across the valley and descry in the distance, silhouetted against the evening sky, the "City of towers and spires," which from the days of King Alfred in 879, had been noted as a seat of learning.

It was this modest little hamlet that was the home of the Buckners, and from it in later years went forth the sons, some to rise to high emolument and honor in the Church of England, others to forsake husbandry for the more exciting life of barter and commerce in the Metropolis of the Old World, which finally ended in their migration to the Colony of Virginia.

The founder of the family was Richard Buckner, and unfortunately we know but little about him. It is evident from his will that he was a man of some considerable property, and of high standing in the community, for a son, daughter and granddaughter married into the best of the county families. The date of his birth is unknown, but it was most likely previous to 1500, as he died in 1548, at which time he was a grandfather. His will, which is on file in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, is as follows :

Will of Rychard Buckner

"Rychard Buckner, of Cumnor, Co. Berks., Sept. 4, 1548.

"Thomas my eldest son to kepe the oldeman Thomas and Elizabeth his sister. To Thomas and John my sonnes the (s) state at Raccote for my yeres answering the lorde his rente.

"John my son to occupy the third part of Whiteley in the parish of Cumnor.

"To Mr. Bery, to Johan my doughter, to Johan's two doughters, to my doughter Mary and her sister Elizabeth my house of Lechlade.

"My children Thomas, John, William, Mary and Agnes my lands in Whiteley, and to be executors.

"Mr. Laurence Berry, Mr. Richard Ruffin and William Secole to be overseers."

Proved March 1, 1548-9, by Thomas Buckner.

(F. 27 Populwell) Prerogative Court of Canterbury.

We come to the conclusion that Richard Buckner was a widower, as there is no mention of his wife. It is also interesting to note that his son Thomas signs his name—Bukener. The first clause in the will, "the oldeman Thomas and Elizabeth" probably refers to two old servants, for in those days the surname of a dependent or retainer was rarely used, and he evidently requests his son to keep them in his service.

Thomas, the eldest son, mentioned in the above will, married Dorothy, one of the daughters of William Anne, Esq., and Anne Denton, his wife, of North Aston, Oxfordshire. This information we learn from the Herald's Visitation of Oxfordshire, made by Richard Lee in 1574.

Thomas Buckner inherited a portion of the estate of Whiteley.

His wife Dorothy died in 1586, as her estate was administered upon by her husband in that year. He soon followed her, as his will is dated March 10, 1587-8. Proved April 11. In it he leaves his estate to his daughter Dorothy, and makes his brother John Buckner, executor. She was evidently the only living child, and is probably the Dorothy Buckner whose estate at Cumnor is administered upon in 1598.

As Richard Buckner names on two occasions his son John immediately after Thomas, it is natural to suppose that he was the second son. There are no entries in the Parish Register of Cumnor of a sufficiently early date, to denote the marriages of the children of Richard Buckner. It is quite likely that the marriages did not take place in Cumnor, as that of the eldest son Thomas occurred at the seat of his wife's parents at North Aston, Oxford.

John Buckner, the second son, died in 1599 (Will dated Nov. 26. Proved Dec. 30. Book (J. P. C. C.). He leaves "portion of my lands at Whitely left me by my father, to my nephew William Buckner of Chawley, and my nephew John Buckner of Botley; my nephew Francis Barry; my sister Mary."

William Buckner of Cumnor, third son of Richard Buckner, died in 1558. His will is as follows:

Thomas Buckner.

Hugh Buckner, a son of the above William of Cumnor, resided in the City of Oxford. According to the "Registrum Universitatis, Oxon," he took the oath as Bailiff, Oct. 2, 1592; and on Nov. 25, 1596, appeared before the Vice-Chancellor for examination in a claim that he had presented of the amount of £20. His sister Rose had married in 1553, Thomas Smyth, gent., who was Mayor of the city at the time of his death in 1601. Agnes Smyth, a daughter of Rose Buckner, married Ralph Flexney, who also became Mayor of Oxford, and who died in 1624.

If Hugh Buckner left a will, no record of it has been found, but in the Parish Registers of St. Aldates, and of the Church of St. Mary, Oxford, there are various entries pertaining to his children and grandchildren, and the issue of his sister Rose.

the slightest mention of their habitation in Virginia, with the possible exception of a Thomas Buckner, Alderman of London, of whom we will speak later.

The names John, William, Thomas and Richard occur in every generation of the Buckner lines in England, and also in the first generation in Virginia. It is true that they were common in all families, but we do not observe any deviation from this rule until we find that of Hugh Buckner of Oxford, which name seems to have ended with him. In his son Anthony we get a name that is next found in Virginia, viz.: Anthony Buckner, who patented lands in Rappahannock County in 1672. In the Canterbury records there are letters of administration on the estate of Anthony Buckner of Cumnor, Berks, in 1643. This is probably the Anthony who was son of Hugh, and who was baptized in 1575. The Anthony Buckner of Virginia may have been his son.

There is little doubt that John Buckner of Virginia was a well educated and progressive man. This may be accounted for from the fact that he was born and presumably educated in Oxford, although we find no evidence that he was ever at the University. The environments of the seat of learning, must have had some effect upon his character as he was the first man to introduce the printing press into the Colony of Virginia.

John Buckner was in Gloucester County, Virginia, as early as 1667, and in 1669 his brother Philip had a "headright" in the same county. We find no trace of the name Philip in any of the English records after the year 1667, and there is not a scrap of evidence to show that either of them married after they came to Virginia. There seems to be, however, prima facie evidence that they married in England. Let us see what this is.

John Buckner was born in Oxford in 1631. During his life in Virginia he was the agent of various London merchants, so that it is probable he was a resident of London for a time at least, previous to his leaving England. In the "Registry of the Vicar General of Canterbury" is the following entry:

"July 10, 1661. John Buckner of St. Sepulchre's, citizen and salter of London, Bach. about 31, and Debora Ferrers of West Wickham, Bucks, about 19; with consent of her mother, now wife of Andrew Hunt of the same, at West Wickham."

If the above John and Debora Buckner resided in London and had issue, it is natural to suppose that some record of their births would be found. On the contrary, this is the first and last that we hear of them, which tends to the conclusion that this is the John Buckner of Virginia, and that he and his wife went there very soon after their marriage.

Other evidence in favor of this theory, is the age of the male applicant, which is given as "about 31." This agrees with the birth of John Buckner in 1631, which would make him about 31 years old at this time—1661. Again, the residence of the bride is stated to be "West Wickham," Bucks. The County of Buckingham adjoins that of Berkshire, and West Wickham and Cumnor are but a few miles apart, and it is not unreasonable to imagine that John Buckner would find a bride in the vicinity in which he was born, and his ancestors had lived and died.

We now turn to the presumed marriage of Philip Buckner. If he married in England it probably took place before 1669, in which year he is on record as being in Gloucester County, Va.

Outside of the entry of his baptism in 1639 at St. Mary's, Oxford, the name of Philip does not appear in any records until 1667, and after that not at all. The name Philip was unique at this period in the Buckner family in England, but in Virginia it has been carried down for generations, since the first Philip went there.

In the Parish Register of St. James, Clerkenwell, is the following entry: "July 15, 1667, Philip Buckner and Elizabeth Sadler, married."

From this issue also, no records of birth can be found in England. So that we may conclude that this was the Philip Buckner who was in Virginia in 1669.

We have unfortunately no evidence in the Virginia records to strengthen our supposition as to these two marriages. For when John Buckner died in 1695, he left no will, and at the death of Philip Buckner in 1700, although he left a will, there is no mention of his wife, in fact, the phraseology of the document is proof that he was a widower.

Having shown the descent of John and Philip from Richard Buckner of Berks, we turn to the Thomas Buckner who was a member of the "Raleigh Expedition" in 1585.

He was without doubt one of the Berkshire family of the name, but his exact identity is not quite clear. He was certainly not a son of Richard Buckner of Cumnor, as his eldest son Thomas was dead in 1587. It is possible that he may have been a nephew.

In further confirmation that he was a member of the Berkshire Buckners, is the marriage of his daughter Mary Buckner to Rowland Holt of Berks and London. The issue of this marriage was a son Thomas, doubtless named after his grandfather.

Thomas Holt became Recorder of Reading, Berks, and was Knighted at Windsor Castle, April 16, 1680. Sir Thomas Holt, married Susan, daughter of John Peacock, of Cumnor, Berks, and the eldest son of this marriage was Sir John Holt, Knt., who became Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench in 1699. He purchased the manor of Redgrave in Suffolk, from Sir Robert Bacon. Sir John died in 1709 and was buried at Redgrave. He married a sister of Sir John Cropley. His will dated in 1709, leaves to Lady Holt £700 per annum, £3,000 in money and all jewels and household goods. He leaves £200 per annum to his sister, and to his brother Rowland Holt, £1,000 per annum, and his real estate to his nephews, John, Thomas, Rowland and Henry, and £7,000 to be divided between his brother's younger sons and daughters. It will, therefore, be seen that the grandson of Mary Buckner was an extremely wealthy man.

Thomas Buckner resided in Threadneedle Street, near the Royal Exchange. He married Jan. 24th, 1590, Elizabeth Crackplace. He was an influential merchant and an Alderman of the City and a staunch friend of the celebrated Thomas Harriot, with whom he had been a companion in one of Raleigh's first expeditions to Virginia in 1585.

Thomas Harriot was born at Oxford in 1560. He was a mathematician and astronomer, and was for a time tutor to Sir Walter Raleigh, who appointed him to the office of geographer in the second expedition to Virginia. He published in 1588 an account of his travels.

In 1621, Harriot resided with his friend Thomas Buckner, at whose house he died July 2 of that year. He made Thomas Buckner one of the executors of his will. After a lengthy preamble, it recites, "I give unto Mrs. Buckner wife unto Thomas Buckner, Mercer, at whose house being in St. Christopher's Parish I nowe lye, and hereafter nomenate one of my Executors, the some of fiftene poundes, towards the repacons of some damagues that I have made, or for other uses as shee shall thincke convenient. Item: I give unto Mr. John Buckner their eldest sonne, the some of five poundes."

In the "Accomptes of the Church Wardens of the Paryshe of St. Chrystofer's, in London," are the following entries:

"For Anno 1622. Received of Mr. Thomas Buckner, being the gift of Mr. Harriot. £4, paid to the poore."

"For Anno 1626. Received of Mr. Thomas Buckner for the erecting of Mr. Herriot, his monument in the Chauncell, the some of one pound."

Thomas Buckner died intestate in 1634. His children were:

- I. John Buckner.
- II. Thomas Buckner, matriculated at Magdalen Coll, Oxford, graduated B. A., Dec. 15, 1614; M. A., June 28, 1617; B. D., July 7, 1627; D. D., March 15, 1638-9. (Incorporated at Cambridge 1621). Prebendary of Winchester 1635; Chaplain to Archbishop Abbott; Rector of Mersham, Surrey, 1632, and of Chevening, Kent, from 1633 until his death Jan. 21, 1644-5.
- III. William Buckner, born 1605; matriculated Oct. 13, 1621, at Christ Church, Oxford. B. A., Oct. 21, 1623; M. A., June 13, 1626. Rector of Hertingfordbury, Herts, 1630.
- IV. Mary Buckner, baptised Nov. 15, 1609, married Rowland Holt, Gent., of London, and had issue, Sir Thomas Holt, Recorder of Reading.
- V. Elizabeth Buckner, baptised July 12, 1612, buried July 17.

Going back to the first Richard Buckner of Cumnor, he mentions in his will his daughter Jane, or as it is written, "my daughter Johan and her two daughters."

Jane Buckner married Lawrence Barry of Ensham, County of Oxon, gent., and owner of Hampton Gay. In the Herald's Visitation in 1574, no mention is made of the two daughters, nor are their names given in the Visitation of 1634. It is evident the daughters died previous to 1574, but were alive in 1548 at the time of their grandfather's death. From Jane Buckner's second son, Francis, descended her grandson, Vincent Barry, of Thame, Oxon, 1634, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Scroope of Wormesley, County of Oxon. She was a descendant of Lord Scroope of Bolton.

Sir Richard Scroope (or Scrope), first Lord Scroope of Bolton, was a participant in the celebrated controversy with Sir Robert Grosvenor in 1385-90, concerning his right to bear the same arms as Scrope.

In the year 1385 an English army, under the King in person, invaded Scotland. Among the banners displayed on this occasion was that of Sir Richard Scrope, a distinguished soldier and statesman, who, besides being present at several of the greatest battles of his time, had held the office of treasurer, steward of the King's household, and twice chancellor of England. His arms were, "azure a bend or." To his high indignation he found in the camp a knight, Sir Robert Grosvenor, bearing the same coat. A dispute followed, when Grosvenor maintained his right; and the matter was referred to a court of chivalry, composed of the constable and marshall of England, with other nobles, knights, and learned clerks, the Duke of York and the Earl of Salisbury among them. Many sittings were held; much evidence collected and heard on either side. Scrope brought forward the more numerous and distinguished array, leading off with John of Gaunt. Other deponents on his part were Le Counte de Derby, afterwards Henry IV.; the Earl of Northumberland and a Sir Henry de Percy, in whom we recognise the Harry Hotspur of history and ballad; and if not most noble, most famous of all—Geffray Chaucere, esquier. At length, in 1389, the Duke of Gloucester, as constable, gave sentence in favor of Scrope. The controversy became the most notable in heraldic history in regard to the right of two families to the same arms.

Richard Buckner's eldest son, Thomas, married Dorothy Anne, and by this alliance the Buckners were connected with a very ancient Oxfordshire family. His wife being descended from the Giffords, Fosters and Dentons, all families of great antiquity, and long settled in Oxon and Berks.

It must not be thought that the Buckners strayed no further afield than their home counties, for in the Prerogative Wills of Ireland, there is recorded the will of John Bucknor, gent., of Limerick, 1671; and William Buckner of Coolefin, County Waterford, Esq., 1700. Who they may be, we have not endeavored to ascertain, as the dates of their demise are not early enough for our purpose.

The name Buckner can be traced in the English records to a period anterior to 1548, although we might have considerable difficulty in making satisfactory connections. To cite the words of Ashmole, "in our public Records lye matter of Fact, in Full Truth, and therewith the Chronological part, carried on, even to days of the month; so that an industrious Searcher may thence collect considerable matter for new History, rectifie many mistakes in our old, and in both gratifie the world with unshadowed verity."

In what are known as the "Close Rolls," we find that a fief was divided in 1309 between Joan and Margaret, daughters and co-heirs of Hugh de Mortimer, descended through an heiress from Osbern Fitz Richard, lord of the fief in Domesday Book, to whose father, a Norman favorite of Edward the Confessor, a castle called "Richards' Castle" derived its name. Joan de Mortimer was the wife at this time of Thomas de Bocknor—or as we call it now—Buckner. His arms were "Argent on a chevron azure, three lions rampant of the first." Crest: A pheon erm.

There is also a Sir Thomas de Bukenore, Kt., whose seal is affixed to his grant of the manor of Bredhurst, Kent. It is without date, but from collateral evidence, we conjecture it to be late Edward I., or early Edward II., i. e., about A. D., 1300.

In the Surrey records there is a rent of nine marks in the parish of St. Olave's in Southwark, by deed sealed. It is dated "Ffolkestane, on Tuesday on the morrow of St. John the Baptist. in the fifth year of the reign of the Lord the King Edward III. (A. D. 1331) to Durandus de Wydmerpole and John de Bykenore, son and heir of Sir John de Bykenore, Kt., and their heirs forever."

Oldest Buckner Will

The most ancient of the Buckner wills that has been discovered is that of a Robert Buknore who died in 1365. His will is recorded at the Court of Hustings, London, and is as follows:

Robert Buknore of the parish of Derteford. Dated at Derteford, April 8, 1365, Probated May 6, 1365.

Bequests to St. Edmund's Chapel at Derteford; the high altar of the church at Derteford, its chaplains, etc.

To Robert de Louthe a pair of swans swimming at Portebrugge, and to Edmond Lambyn and Richard Stone, a pair of swans swimming in Stoneham Ree.

To William de Kyrkeby he leaves his big horse "Bayard" and three quarters of barley.

To John Boch six quarters of the same, his new rayed cloak and his rayed tunic.

The Buckners of Chichester

ACCORDING to Miss Sharpe, in her work, "A Royal Descent," Richard Buckner, the first one in England of this line, was born in Westphalia in 1695; came to England and died an Alderman of the City of Chichester in 1772, aged 77 years. He married Mary Saunders, born 1701; died in 1772.

Both of whom are buried at St. Andrew's,

Chichester. According to a pedigree in the Herald's College, Mary Saunders was the daughter of ——— Saunders of Boxgrove, County Sussex, Yeoman. Richard and Mary Buckner had issue two sons:

- I. JOHN BUCKNER, D. D., born 1734. Consecrated Lord Bishop of the See of Chichester in 1798, one of the oldest Bishoprics in England. The See was transferred from Selsea to Chichester in the year 1083, by Stigand, 23d Bishop of Selsea. The Bishop's Palace stands to the west of the Cathedral Church, both of which suffered greatly on the capture of the city by Sir William Waller in 1642, when Bishop King was sent a prisoner to London, and the Parliamentary troops took possession of the Palace. He found it on his return to the See nearly reduced to ruin, and his own fortunes were probably at too low an ebb to permit him to undertake its restoration. This was partially effected in the following century by Bishop Waddington, who recast the whole of the main building, and this was again repaired in 1800 by Bishop Buckner. The Bishop married a Miss Heron, who died in 1789, aged 49 years. His Lordship died at the age of 90, leaving no issue, and is buried in Chichester Cathedral.
- II. CHARLES BUCKNER, R. N., of Clewer Villa, Clewer, Berks, Vice-Admiral of the White, was instrumental in suppressing the mutiny at the Nore in 1797, and was offered a Baronetcy for his services, but declined in favor of the next in command. Admiral Buckner died in 1811. He was twice married, but by his second wife, Anne, daughter of Thomas Frewen, Esq., of Northiam, and widow of her cousin, Charles Frewen, he had no issue. During her first widowhood, she was with her nephew, William Jenkin, in France at the time of the great Revolution. They were incarcerated for eight months in the Château of St. Germain, and escaped by the aid of a false passport on the death of Robespierre. She died in 1826, and is buried at Northiam.

Admiral Buckner's first wife was Mary, daughter of the Rev. John Parke, Vicar of Ampport, and Prebendary of Chichester. He graduated at St. John's College, Cambridge, in 1707; M. A., 1711; B. D., 1718, and married Ann, only daughter of Thomas Jenkin, Esq., Barrister-at-Law. Issue by first wife :

- E. Richard Buckner, C. B., of Wyke House, Chichester, died March 13, 1837, and is buried in Chichester Cathedral. He was Lieutenant-Colonel of the Royal Artillery and a Commander of the Bath. Served and was wounded in the Peninsula War. Married Nov. 15, 1802, at St. James's, Westminster, Mary Marsh Pierce, died Dec. 24, 1852, and is buried in Chichester Cathedral. She was born in 1775, and was the daughter of John Pierce, Esq., of Canterbury, who was the son of Sampson Pierce, Esq., of Doddington, Kent, and descended from Gabriel Pierce, Esq., of Charing, died 1669. Said to be of the same family as Maximilian de Béthune, Duc de Sully, the Minister of Henry IV., King of France. She died 1858. He married secondly, Oct. 25, 1861, his cousin, Emma Roberta Pierce. The Virginia Buckners

John Buckner of Gloucester County

HE earliest mention of the name of Buckner in Virginia is that of John Buckner, to whom was granted in 1667, a land patent of 194 acres in Gloucester County. In 1668 he was granted additional land, and from then on, to the time of his death, he was constantly adding to his landed estate.

John Buckner, who may be regarded as the head of the family in America, was a member in 1671 of the vestry of Petsworth Parish, Gloucester. It is evident that he soon became prominent in the civil affairs of the Colony, as he was a Member of the House of Burgesses in 1683, as well as being Clerk of Gloucester County.

It is certain that he was a man of progressive ideas, and his name will always be remembered in connection with the introduction of the first printing press, which he was instrumental in bringing to Virginia. His efforts in this line were not appreciated by the Council, as the following extract from the Minutes will show:

"Feb. 21, 1683.

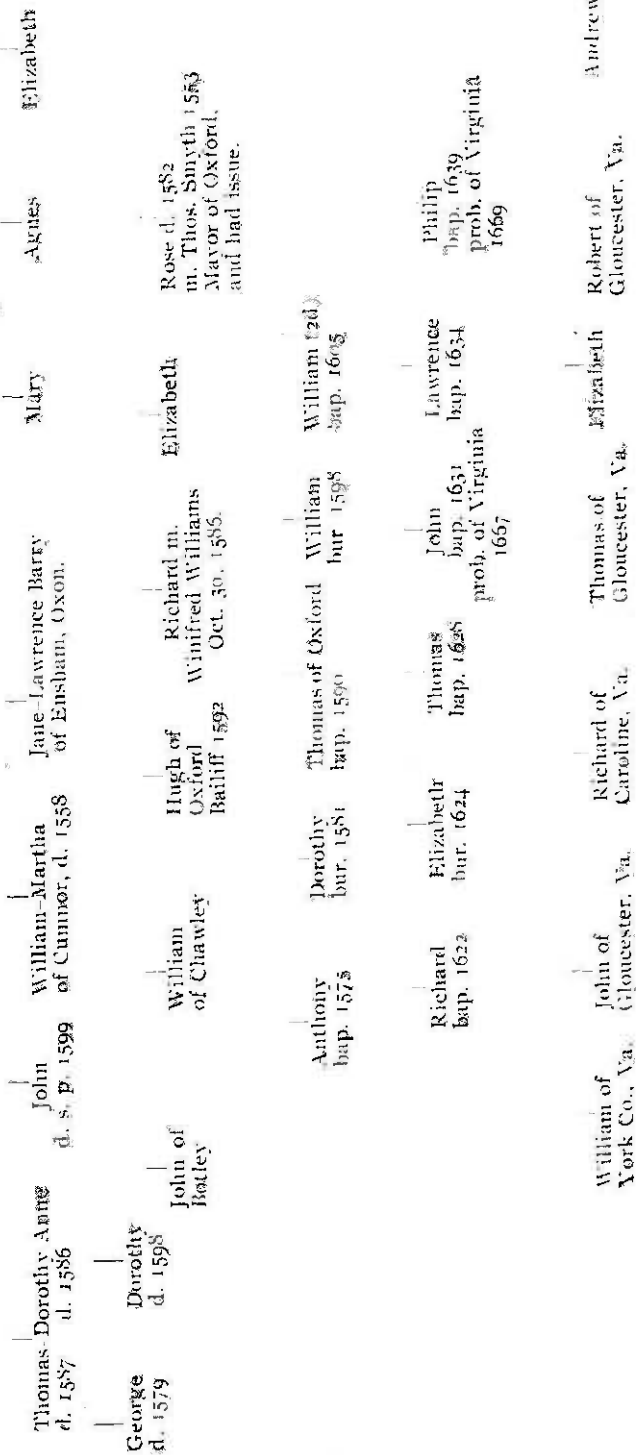

"John Buckner was summoned before the Council for his presumption in printing the Acts of Assembly made in Nov. 1682, without a license.

"He made answer, that he had given the printer orders to print nothing without the Governor's license, and had only struck off a couple of sheets for His Excellency's approbation. The Board was satisfied therewith, but ordered Buckner and William Nulhead the printer, to enter into bond for £100, to print nothing further until the King's pleasure was known. Recorded Sept. 29, 1684."

Buckner of Berkshire, England and Virginia

RICHARD BUCKNER of Cummor and Whitley, Co. Berks.
Will dated 1548

The following abstracts of letters, taken from the Fitzhugh MSS. and written by Col. William Fitzhugh to John Buckner, are of more than passing interest, and upon perusal, one must perforce agree with the gallant Colonel that a "dumb negro, who was bad at work, and worse at talking," was but a poor bargain.

Dec'r 3rd, 1681.

Mr. John Buckner

Sir: I was intended the last general court to have waited on you, in order to have taken care for your payment what I am indebted to you, but in my going was straitened in time and my coming home earnest to be here. I have now taken this opportunity by Mr. John Withers to send you bills of Major Robert Beverlys for £20, 5, 0, which I suppose before this time he has taken care with you about his promised payment in your hands at the passing of the bills. Esqr. Wormley likewise at the same time assured me that he would take care to pay you £20 more upon my account, which I doubt not but before this he has done; what remains I will hereafter take care honestly to pay, but hope you will make me some abatement for your Dumb Negro that you sold me; had she been a new Negro, I must have blamed my fate not you; but one that you had two years, I must conclude you knew her qualities which is bad at work and worse at talking and took the opportunity of the softness of my Messenger to quit your hands of her. I will freely give you the £3, 5, 0 overplus of £20 that he gave for her to take her again and will get her conveyed to your hands or hope if my offer be not acceptable you will make me some abatement of so bad a bargain. * * * * *

Sir, Your Obdt.

WILLIAM FITZHUGH.

The next letter seems to indicate that John Buckner had met with some loss, either of a business or family nature. It may refer to the death of his wife, but its precise meaning, of course, we will probably never know.

March 14, 1686-7.

I three days since, received yours of the 7th of March last, and do as truly condole your present affliction and past losses therein mentioned, as I heartily thank you for your Kindness and trouble therein expressed both in the preventing Sir Robert's note and the return of the £3 bills inclosed. I wish both yourself and family perfect health and full Recovery. Sr. the inclosed protest will speak its own business. I have been already so often troublesome to you, and yet continue, that I want expressions to beg pardon and have no other refuge left than to assure you if any of your business lies this way, I shall court all occasions to assure you, I am sincerely

Your servant

WILLIAM FITZHUGH.

Beyond fragmentary mention in the county records, we know but little of John Buckner's life in Virginia. We gather that he was factor or attorney for various London merchants, and that his business relations with the best families in the Colony were of an intimate and extensive nature. He was a large property holder as the following abstracts show:

Land Grants

Rappahannock County

May 2, 1671. Mr. John Buckner and Mr. Thomas Royston, 2000 acres in Rappahannock County, on south side of the Rappahannock River, and adjoining the land of Mr. Lawrence Smith in the freshes.

Sept. 9, 1671. Mr. John Buckner, Mr. Robert Bryan and Mr. Thomas Royston, 3553 acres in Rappahannock adjoining the land of John Prosser, called Golden Vale.

As stated in a previous chapter, it is believed that John Buckner was married in England in 1661, and that his wife was Debora Ferrers of West Wickham, Bucks. It is quite likely that most of his children were born in Virginia, and as he was a vestryman of Petsworth Parish the records of their baptism would naturally be entered in the Church Register of that parish. Only the vestry book in a very dilapidated condition remains, containing the vestry-meetings from 1677 to 1793, and it is from its worn and faded pages that we learn of the official position that John Buckner held in the church. In the Land Grants of Rappahannock County there is a grant to Mr. Richard Buckner, son of Mr. John Buckner. It is quite likely that Richard was the eldest son, for if he was born in 1662, he would be 20 years of age at the time of the grant, which was in 1682. John Buckner's son, John, Jr., obtained a grant in 1691, eleven years after his brother Richard, so he was presumably a younger brother.

In addition to his four sons, it is believed that John Buckner had a daughter named Elizabeth. She married James Williams, a lawyer, who was born in England. Their daughter Mary, born Dec. 25, 1695, married first, Orlando Jones, who d. s. p. She married secondly, June 23, 1720, John James Flournoy, born Nov. 17, 1685. He died March 23, 1740, and his wife died one or two days later. They had issue:

- I. Elizabeth Julia Flournoy, born Dec. 5, 1721; married Thomas Spencer.
- II. Gideon Flournoy, born March 19, 1723; married in 1748 Jane Frances Sabourin.
- III. Samuel Flournoy, born Oct. 4, 1724; married April 9, 1748, Elizabeth Harris.
- IV. John Flournoy, born Dec. 9, 1726; married Sept. 2, 1755, Camilla Ballexserd.
- V. David Flournoy, born Sept. 3, 1728; died Oct. 18, 1757, d. s. p. He was Captain of Militia, and first Sheriff of Prince Edward County.
- VI. Rachel Flournoy, born Sept. 25, 1730; died Aug. 28, 1741.
- VII. Mathew Flournoy, born June 21, 1732.
- VIII. Mary Flournoy, born Feb. 23, 1735; married William Booker.
- IX. A daughter, born Nov. 25, 1736; died in six weeks, unbaptised.
- X. Thomas Flournoy, born Nov. 20, 1738.

We find from the records, that the known issue of John Buckner consisted of four sons and one daughter. They are treated under separate headings, and as the date of birth is conjectural, two of the sons, Richard and Thomas, are placed last, as their descendants are more numerous than are those of William and John Buckner, Jr.

Issue of John Buckner

- I. William Buckner.
- II. John Buckner, Jr.
- III. Richard Buckner.
- IV. Thomas Buckner.

John Buckner the immigrant died about 1695, for although we can find no will, there is an inventory of his estate recorded in Essex County under date of Feb. 10, 1695.

"A gentleman well bred and of good name."

William Buckner of York County

WILLIAM BUCKNER, one of the sons of John Buckner, was for many years a prominent merchant of Yorktown, in addition to being an important man in the civil and military affairs of the Colony of Virginia. It is impossible to give the primogeniture of any of the sons of John Buckner. Neither has it been possible to ascertain with any degree of certainty whether they were born in England or in Virginia. In the present history of the family, William Buckner has been placed first amongst the sons, for the reason that the direct male line ends with his own two sons, the descendants of his daughter Elizabeth being the only ones distinctly traceable.

From existing records, we learn that William Buckner was Deputy Surveyor for Stafford County in 1691, and a Justice of the Peace for York County in 1694. He was also an officer of Militia, for at a meeting of the Court of Claims for York, Oct. 11, 1697, he is called Captain William Buckner, and in subsequent years is given the rank of Major. In the years 1698 and 1699 he was a member of the House of Burgesses, and during these sessions he took an active part in the revision of the laws of the Colony. He was a member of the Assembly in 1714, and from 1708 to 1716 held office as Deputy Surveyor-General for the College of William and Mary.

It is evident from the important positions that he held that he was a man of superior attainments, and we can get some slight idea of his character from the fact, that he refused to take the prescribed oaths to King William and Queen Mary, alleging that he had previously taken the oath of allegiance to King James II.

The following entries from the first Order Book of Stafford County are of interest :

"At a Court held for the County of Stafford at the house of Mr. Thomas Elsey, November 14th, 1690. Present—Col. Wm.

Fitzhugh, Mr. Samuel Haward, Capt. George Mason, Mr. John Withers, Mr. Edward Thomason, Mr. Wm. Buckner, and Mr. Matthew Thompson, Justices.

vs.

Thomason.

Wm. Buckner, Attorney of Thomas Starke and Nicholas Haward, merchants in London, complains against Edward Thomason of this County, gentleman, in a plea of debt for that the said Edward Thomason stands indebted to the plaintiff in the qualification aisd the sum of Four Hundred and Eighty pounds of tobacco as by the audit between Mrs. Mary Massey and the plaintiff will appear for which the plaintiff hath brought his action against the said Edward Thomason this cost of suit and etc."

"At a Court held for the County of Stafford at the house of Thomas Elsey, August 12th, 1691. Mr. Wm. Buckner, being by this Court desired to take the oaths appointed instead of the oaths of allegiance and supremacy and likewise the oath of a Justice of Peace for this County, he refused it alleging that whereas he had formerly taken the oaths of allegiance and supremacy to King James the Second, in this county cannot now, in his conscience think himself fairly discharged from the said oaths in the life of King James, and therefore humbly desires to be excused from his being obliged to take the said oaths until hereafter he may in his conscience be better satisfied concerning the same."

"At a Court held for Stafford County October, 7th, 1691. Ordered, that Mr. Wm. Buckner, Deputy Surveyor of this County, shall on Thursday next, being the 15th of this inst., October, 1691, repair to the Malachy Peale Neck, being the place allotted by Act of Assembly for the towne and Port of this County, and shall then and there survey and lay out the said towne or Port according to law to the intent that all the gentlemen of, and all other of the inhabitants may take up such lots or lot as he and they desire, that the houses and Port may proceed and goe on effectually according to the true intent and meaning of the Act in that case made and provided, at the last session of the assembly held at James City."

"At a Court held for Stafford County, November, 11th, 1691. Wm. Buckner complains against Jonah Revet in a plea of debt for that is to say, that he stands indebted to the plaintiff in the sum of Four Hundred and Twenty pounds of tobacco due bill under hand and seal, wherefore the plaintiff brought his action against the said Revet the defendant and prays judgment against him for his said debt with costs. And the said Jonah Revet the defendant by Henry Merest his attorney, came into Court and confessed judgment unto John Withers the then appointed attorney for the said Wm. Buckner for the said sum of Four Hundred and Twenty pounds of tobacco due as aforesaid."

In the York County records we find the following entry in regard to the building of a windmill:

"John Lewis, Esq., and Madam Elizabeth Lewis, wife of said John Lewis, Esq., sell to William Buckner one acre of land at a point near Yorktown, on York River, just below a small creek formerly known as Townshend's Creek, and sometimes it is called in ancient patents Martue's Creek, but now it is called Yorktown Creek, one chain and a half on the river bank, for a windmill, to enter if the mill is not kept up, to grind for the donors 12 bbls. of Indian corn without toll."

Dated July 16, 1711.

Major William Buckner is believed to have married Catherine Ballard. She may have been a daughter or sister of Col. Thomas Ballard of York County, who was born 1630; died 1689. Col. Ballard was Clerk of York County for many years after 1652, was Burgess for James City, 1666, member of the Council in 1675, and Speaker of the House of Burgesses in 1680 and 1682. He was also High Sheriff of York County.

Major William Buckner died at Yorktown, and his will was proved there May 1, 1716. He left three children, two sons and a daughter, the sons being under legal age at the time of their father's death. Issue:

- I. William Buckner.
- II. John Buckner, Jr.
- III. Elizabeth Buckner.

I. Of the two sons of Major William Buckner, but little is known. William died young, leaving his share of the estate to his brother John. His will is in the York Court records. After a brief preamble, it reads—"I give unto my loving brother John Buckner all ye estate I die possessed of real and personal, and doe appoint my sd. loving brother my whole and sole exr. of this my last will and testament." Dated Dec. 17, 1722. In the parish register of St. Paul's, Stafford County (now King George), is the entry of death of a William Buckner under date of Nov. 14, 1729. On the same day and year is also recorded the death of Elizabeth Buckner. This Elizabeth could not, however, have been the daughter of Major William Buckner, who married Col. Drury Stith, as she bore her husband children after the year 1729.

II. JOHN BUCKNER, JR., was a Justice of York County from 1729 to 1741, and Burgess in 1736. During the latter part of his life he resided in King George County, where he died about 1748.

The inventory of his estate was recorded in Stafford County Oct. 11, 1748. The total value of the personal property being £805. Not included in the appraisement were, "two negroes at Drury and Griffin Stith's; about 80 hogs in Stafford; seventeen silver spoons, and eighty volumes of books." His nephew, John Stith, was executor.

There is recorded in Northumberland County a deed from Griffin Stith, conveying certain land in York, which his uncle, John Buckner, had left to him in his will, which is stated to be on record in King George County. As the will books of King George—which was originally part of Stafford County are missing, it is impossible to say if John Buckner left direct issue or not.

III. ELIZABETH BUCKNER, daughter of William and Catherine (Ballard) Buckner, married Colonel Drury Stith of Brunswick County, who died in 1770. Colonel Stith, married secondly, Elizabeth, widow of Thomas Eldridge, by whom he had issue, Edmunds Stith, who died in 1789. Issue by first marriage:

- I. Griffin Stith, of whom presently.
- II. Buckner Stith of Brunswick County. (For issue see Stith Family.)
- III. John Stith, born March 20, 1724; died May 29, 1773, s. p.
- IV. Drury Stith, married Fanny Love.
- V. Bathurst Stith, born Sept. 19, 1729.
- VI. Thomas Stith, born Dec. 29, 1731. He was a Burgess in 1771.
- VII. Dudley Stith.
- VIII. *Elizabeth Stith, born June 23, 1754; married (1st) Henry Fitzhugh of Fitzhughburg; (2d) Henry Fitzhugh of Bellair.

* It seems hardly possible that she could have been the daughter of Elizabeth Buckner, as the latter is believed to have been born about 1698 or 1700, which, if correct, would make her 56 years of age at the time of her daughter's birth. She was either born about 1734, or if 1754 is the proper date, then she was more likely to have been a daughter by Col. Drury Stith's second wife, Elizabeth Eldridge.

GRIFFIN STITH, eldest child of Colonel Drury and Elizabeth (Buckner) Stith, was born Nov. 28, 1720. He resided in Northumberland County, where he died in 1784. Married Aug. 19, 1743, Mary, daughter of William and Catherine Blackley of Williamsburg. William Blackley died in 1736, and is buried in Bruton Churchyard. Mrs. Catherine Blackley died Oct. 25, 1771, aged 73 years, and is also buried at Bruton. Issue :

1. Catherine Stith, born Aug. 5, 1744; died Aug. 23, 1744.
2. Elizabeth Buckner Stith, born July 16, 1745; married John Stringer.
3. John Buckner Stith, born Jan. 3, 1747; died Dec. 22, 1766, and was buried in Bruton Parish Churchyard.
4. Griffin Stith, born Aug. 24, 1753; died 1794; married and left issue.
5. Drury Stith, born Jan. 19, 1755; died July 16, 1789; married Mary Jacob.
6. William Stith of Northumberland County, died 1794; married Sarah Smith.
7. Susanna Stith, of whom presently.
8. Lucy Stith, married Mark W. Pringle.
9. Janet Carson Stith, d. s. p.

—The Rivals.

John Buckner, Jr., of Gloucester County

For all the children of John Buckner, the immigrant, we know the least concerning his son, John Buckner, Jr.

Unlike his brothers, he does not seem to have aspired—or at all events, does not appear to have occupied any high civil or military position in the affairs of the Colony, but evidently contented himself with more peaceful avocations, and the supervision of his estate.

We know that his estate must have been quite extensive. On Oct. 20, 1691, he was granted 3125 acres in old Rappahannock County, "on the south side of Golden Vale creek," adjoining his land, and the lands belonging to himself, Bryan and Royston. In this grant he is alluded to as "John Buckner, Jr., of Gloucester County."

In April, 1702, he was granted 3080 acres of land on Herring Creek, in Pamunkey Neck, King and Queen County.

On Dec. 23, 1714, "John Buckner of Gloucester, gent., and Robert Ballard of King and Queen County, are granted 400 acres of land on the south fork of the Mattaponi, in King and Queen County.

There is a tradition that his wife was Ann Ballard, but nothing certain is known about this. That her Christian name was Ann is ascertained from a deed which she made in Essex County, dated July 17, 1727, in which she mentions two of her sons—John and William—as well as her husband, John Buckner.

There is some doubt as to the number of children of John and Ann Buckner. There may have been only the two sons mentioned in the above deed, but if his son William is the William Buckner of Gloucester County, Va., who removed to Maryland, it is evident that he had six other children. The records of Baltimore County, Md., show that William Buckner received deeds from Thomas Todd and William Todd, trustees of Thomas Todd, deceased, late of Baltimore County. This William Buckner married Patience Colgate Sept. 20, 1724, but died Aug. 17, 1731, leaving one daughter, who died young. (Register of St. Paul's Parish, Baltimore County.) His widow married George Elliott, June 12, 1732. In 1733, Thomas and Philip Buckner, Ann, Elizabeth and Mary Buckner, and Charles Debrois and Christian, his wife, of Virginia, brothers and sisters of said William Buckner, petition against George Elliott and Patience, his wife.

If they are the children of John Buckner, Jr., it is probable they were of legal age in 1733, and it is also evident that their father was dead at that time.

There is a deed in Essex County dated July 17, 1727, in which John Buckner of St. Paul's Parish, Stafford County, gives "500 acres in St. Mary's Parish, Essex County, to my son, William Buckner, being part of the tract given me by my mother, Ann Buckner." This William is thought to have been the William Buckner who died in St. Paul's Parish, Stafford, Nov. 14, 1729 (see Parish Register), and that he left no issue.

The names of the children are strongly in favor of their being the offspring of John Buckner, Jr., as it is quite probable that he called them by the names of his near relatives. His son William for his uncle William of York; son Thomas for his uncle Thomas of Gloucester; son Philip for his great-uncle Philip of Stafford; daughter Ann for her own mother; Elizabeth after her aunt Elizabeth, wife of Richard Buckner of Essex.

We have no records to show the time of death of John Buckner, Jr. There is in Stafford County the inventory of the estate of a John Buckner, which was recorded Oct. 11, 1748, the value of the estate being £805. This may refer to John Buckner, Jr. Although, if he died previous to 1733—as it seems reasonable from the evidence to conclude that he did—it is strange that 15 years elapsed before an inventory of his estate was recorded. Yet, on the other hand, such instances of delay are found to have been fairly frequent in those days.

Taking the stand, therefore, that John Buckner, Jr., and Ann, his wife, had eight children, the line of descent would be as follows :

- I. John Buckner of St. Paul's Parish, Stafford County. In 1727 he gave to his son William Buckner 500 acres in St. Mary's Parish, Essex County, "part of the tract given me by my mother Ann Buckner."

It is believed that this son William is the William Buckner who died in St. Paul's Parish Nov. 14, 1729. (St. Paul's Parish Register.) He was probably not alive at the time of his father's death, as the will of the latter specifically mentions his only daughter, Susanna, and his wife, Elizabeth, to whom he leaves all his estate.

The will of John Buckner is dated Jan. 24, and was proved in Stafford County Oct. 10, 1752. His widow, Elizabeth, evidently married a second time, as there is on record a marriage contract under date Nov. 3, 1759, between Captain Zachariah Brazier and Elizabeth Buckner, widow.

- II. William Buckner removed to Maryland, where he was a Justice of the Peace for Baltimore County in 1729. He married Patience Colgate Sept. 20, 1724, and died Aug. 17, 1731, leaving issue a daughter, who died young. His widow married George Elliott, June 12, 1732. In 1733, Thomas, Philip, Ann, Elizabeth and Mary Buckner, and Charles Debrois and Christian, his wife, of Virginia, brothers and sisters of said William Buckner, petition against George Elliott and Patience, his wife.
- III. Thomas Buckner, believed to have resided in Caroline County, 1732.
- IV. Philip Buckner.
- V. Ann Buckner.
- VI. Elizabeth Buckner.
- VII. Mary Buckner.
- VIII. Christian Buckner, married Charles Debrois.

*"It is indeed a desirable thing to be well descended,
but the glory belongs to our ancestors."*

—Plutarch,

Richard Buckner of Essex County

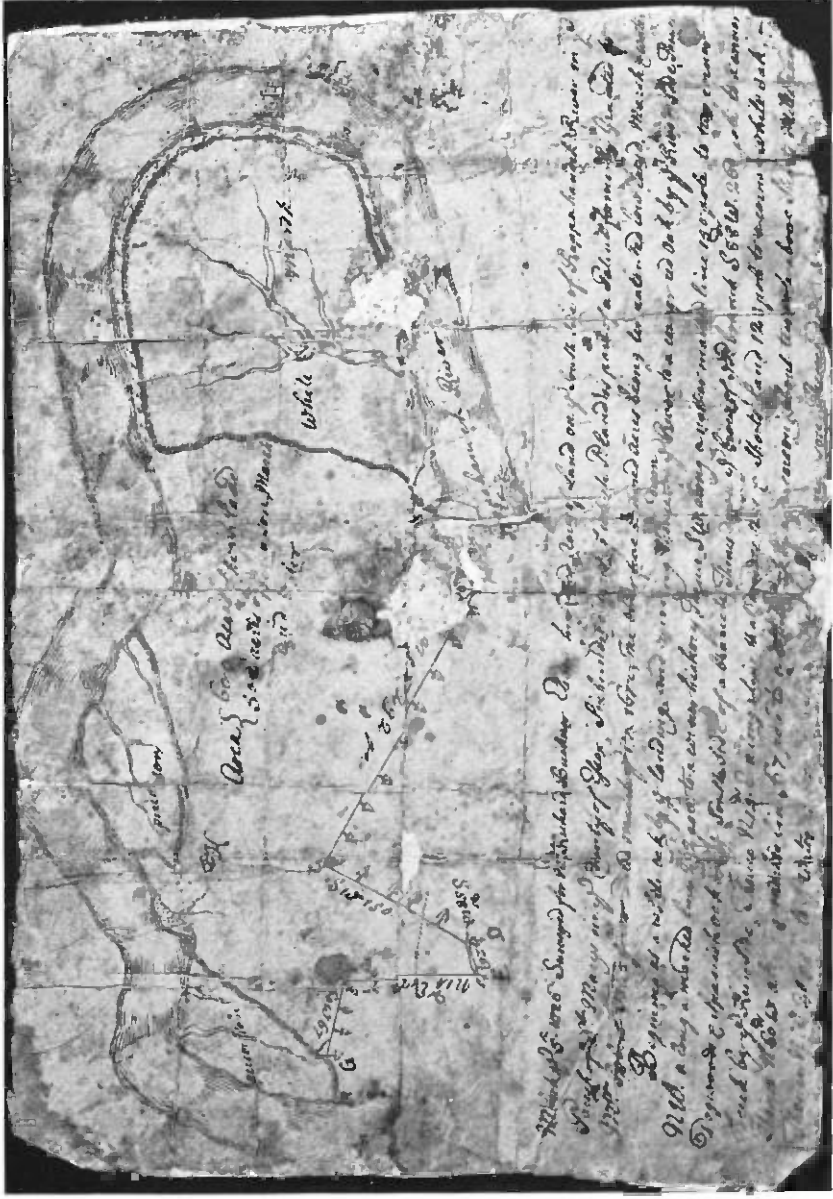

RICHARD BUCKNER, probably the eldest son of the first John Buckner, was the owner of 500 acres of land in Rappahannock County on Sept. 22, 1682, it being part of a tract called "Golden Vale." Either he, or his son, also named Richard, patented lands in King and Queen County, viz.: 70 acres to Richard Buckner of Essex, Feb. 1, 1720; and 4500 acres in Drysdale Parish, Oct. 28, 1723. His residence was in Essex County, as a grant dated 1709, gives to him an island containing 20 acres on the north side of the Rappahannock River in Richmond County, lying near the plantation where said Buckner resides, about two miles below Taliaferro's Mount. On Aug. 17, 1715, he patented 179 acres in St. Mary's Parish, Essex, "adjoining the two tracts belonging to said Buckner of 1000 and 300 acres."

Essex County was formed from old Rappahannock in 1692, and Richard Buckner was Clerk of the new County of Essex in 1703 and again in 1712. Whether he was Clerk continuously during that period is not definitely known, as the records of the county are incomplete, but the recorded dates of his appointment are still on file. He was also Clerk of the House of Burgesses in 1714.

Of the four sons of John Buckner, Richard stands out prominently, from the fact, that his descendants were more conspicuous in the affairs of the colony and afterwards of the republic.

Richard Buckner is said to have married Elizabeth Cooke of Gloucester County, but there is no documentary evidence to prove this assertion. It is believed that Richard's daughter, Elizabeth Buckner, also married a Cooke, viz.: Mordecai Cooke—son of Mordecai Cook the immigrant—who was Sheriff of Gloucester in 1698, and Justice and Burgess in 1702 and 1714. The traditions of the Cooke family are, that Mordecai married a Miss Buckner and left at least one son.

RICHARD BUCKNER'S SURVEY—1726

Richard Buckner's will was proved in Caroline County March 4, 1733, by Elizabeth (probably his wife), and Richard Buckner his executors. His known issue being:

- I. Richard Buckner.
- II. Philip Buckner.
- III. John Buckner.
- IV. William Buckner.
- V. Elizabeth Buckner, who presumably married Mordecai Cooke (2d).

The above named sons were the founders of the Caroline County branch of the family, their descendants now being settled in nearly every Southern and Western state. Major Richard Buckner (2d), the eldest son, was Justice in 1732, Sheriff of Caroline County in 1753, and Major of Militia in 1777. He died in the latter year, his will being proved in Caroline County Dec. 14. He married Elizabeth Aylett, a daughter of William Aylett, and sister of John Aylett of King William County, and had issue:

- I. Aylett Buckner.
- II. Francis Buckner.
- III. Richard Buckner (3d).

I. AYLETT BUCKNER was born in Caroline County in 1745, and afterwards removed to Fauquier County. He married Judith Presley Thornton a daughter of Anthony Thornton of "Ormesby" Caroline County, and Sarah Taliaferro, his first wife.

Aylett Buckner was commissioned Major of Militia for Fauquier County in May, 1778; Justice of the Peace 1791; Sheriff 1794. He was alive in 1802, as there is on record a deed of gift of certain negroes to John T. Taylor on Dec. 2d of that year. Aylett and his wife, Judith Buckner, had issue;

- I. Richard Aylett Buckner.
- II. Colonel Thornton Buckner, who was member of the House of Delegates from Fauquier County from 1815 to 1818. According to a deed of gift on record Oct. 30, 1801, his wife's name was Sally.
- III. John Buckner.

JUDGE RICHARD AYLETT BUCKNER, born in Fauquier County Feb. 5, 1784; died in Greensburg, Ky., in 1849; married Elizabeth Lewis Buckner, daughter of William Buckner of Taylor

County, Surveyor-General of the State of Kentucky, and nephew of President James Madison. She died in 1868 at Memphis, Tenn. Issue:

In 1876 he was admitted to the bar at St. Charles, Mo., and since 1884 has practiced his profession at Dermott, Ark., after having lived several years in the states of Missouri and Kentucky. In 1880 and 1884 he was a delegate to the National Republican Conventions from Missouri and Kentucky respectively. In 1895 he was nominated by the Republicans for State Senator from the 15th Senatorial District, and in 1898 he was nominated by the Democrats and elected as Senator from the 15th Senatorial District of Arkansas. Senator Buckner married Oct. 28, 1878, Miss Anna Crenshaw, who was born in 1853 at St. Louis, Mo., and has issue one daughter, Nanna Richard Buckner, born May 28, 1880, at Greensburg, Ky.

PHILIP BUCKNER was the second son of Richard Buckner, Clerk of Essex County, and Elizabeth, his wife, and the grandson of John Buckner the immigrant. His residence was in Louisa County where he died in 1762. He married Jane Aylett, widow of Christopher Robinson and sister of John Aylett of King William County. GENERAL SIMON BOLIVAR BUCKNER of Rio, Kentucky, soldier and statesman, was born in Hart County April 1, 1823. His first wife was Mary Kingsbury of Connecticut, born Feb. 24, 1831, died Jan. 1873, and by whom he had one child, Lily Buckner, born June 1858, died 1893. She married Morris B. Belknap of Louisville, by whom she had Gertrude, Walter, Lily and Morris Belknap.

General Buckner married secondly, June 10, 1885, Delia H. Claiborne of Richmond, Va., by whom he has issue an only son, Simon Bolivar Buckner, Jr., born July 18, 1886, at Glens Lily, Hart County, and who is now a cadet at the Military Academy at West Point.

General Buckner was appointed a cadet at West Point, June 1840; graduating in 1844, when he was appointed 2nd Lieutenant of the 2nd Infantry. From Sept. 1845 he was Assistant Professor of Ethics at West Point, until his assignment as 2nd Lieutenant of the 6th Infantry, May 9, 1846. He joined the Army in Mexico, Aug. 1846, and participated in the siege of Vera Cruz, also taking part in the following battles: Cerro Gordo, San Antonio, Cherubusco, Molino del Rey, Chapultepec, Garita de Belen, the skirmish of Amazoque, and the final capture of the City of Mexico. He was breveted 1st Lieutenant for gallant and meritorious conduct at the battle of Cherubusco, August 20th, in which engagement he was wounded, and on Sept. 8, 1847, was breveted Captain for gallant conduct at the battle of Molino del Ruy.

At the close of the Mexican War, he was appointed Assistant Instructor in Infantry Tactics, a position he occupied for two years until his promotion as 1st Lieutenant in the Line in 1850. In 1851 he was in command of Fort Atkinson, Indian Territory, and in 1852 was Captain of the Staff in the Subsistence Department stationed in New York City, until 1855, in which year he resigned from the army.

In 1860, General Buckner was Inspector General of Kentucky,

GENERAL SIMON BOLIVAR BUCKNER

during which period he organized the Kentucky State Guard. At the breaking out of the Civil War, he was offered by President Lincoln the commission of Brigadier General in the United States Army, which he declined, and casting his fortunes with the Confederacy was appointed Brig. Gen. C. S. A., Sept. 1861, occupying Bowling Green, Ky., with the Confederate forces on the 18th of that month. Ordered by Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston to reinforce Generals Floyd and Pillow at Ft. Donelson, Tenn., both of whom were his senior commanders, he participated in the different actions at Ft. Donelson, and on the surrender of that garrison, which was deemed inevitable by every member of the council of war, was sent as a prisoner of war to Ft. Warren in Boston Harbor where he remained until July 30th when he was exchanged, and coming to Richmond was immediately promoted to the rank of Major-General.

General Buckner then reported to Gen. Bragg at Chattanooga and was assigned to the command of a division in Hardee's corps. He made the campaign in Kentucky under Gen. Bragg and was selected by the latter to receive the surrender of the U. S. garrison at Munfordville. At the battle of Perryville he commanded a division and returned with Gen. Bragg's army to middle Tennessee. In December, 1862, he was ordered to Mobile to command the Department of Southern Alabama, and in May, 1863, held command of the Departments of East Tennessee and South West Virginia with headquarters at Knoxville. Joining his forces with those of Gen. Bragg in December, he participated in the campaign of '63; commanding a corps composed of the divisions of Gens. Stewart and Preston in the battle of Chickamauga. Early in the spring of '64 he reported to Gen. Longstreet, and was directed to join the army of Gen. Lee. In Sept., 1864, he was promoted to Lieutenant General and assigned to the command of a corps in the Trans-Mississippi Department, remaining there till the close of the war, when he located temporarily in New Orleans and entered commercial and editorial life. In 1868 he returned to Kentucky and for sometime was chief editor of the Louisville Courier, but in 1872 he returned to his native county and old home.

In 1887 General Buckner was elected Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky for a term of four years. During his term as Governor, he was chosen by the people of his county without opposition, a member of the Constitutional Convention, and in 1896 was nominated by the Indianapolis Convention for Vice-President on the ticket of the Gold Democracy.

Possibly, no better estimate of the life and character of General Buckner could be given than the one penned by Mr. Morton M. Cassedy, whose father, General Cassedy, served on General Buckner's staff during the Civil War. This sketch was written during the campaign of 1896, but was never published.

"Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, the candidate of the National Democracy for Vice-President of the United States, perhaps typifies more completely than any other individual the principles of Democracy as they are understood in his native State, Kentucky, where those principles have ever been cherished in their purity. A sketch of this hero of Kentuckians would be incomplete without some reference to the history of the State which has delighted to honor and be honored by him; and such a reference is the more appropriate in view of the foremost position taken by, and most gracefully accorded to Kentucky in the present struggle for the preservation of the integrity of the Democratic party. Not only are both National candidates natives of Kentucky, but at the recent Indianapolis convention the recognition given to the Kentucky delegation was out of all proportion to its size and the electoral vote it represented. One of the delegates was modestly expressing to an Eastern delegate his appreciation of and surprise at this honor, when the gentleman whom he addressed said:

"Yes; that is as it should be. In this country we have Democracy everywhere; but it is a Democracy with a dialect. In Kentucky the accent is pure."

"The compliment was the more deserved that in the present crisis Kentucky had been the first State to protest in indignant, unequivocal terms against the debauchery of Democracy attempted at Chicago, and presented to the country, as the white-plumed bearer of the unstained standard of a militant Democracy, the name of Simon Bolivar Buckner—a name accepted with acclaim the country over. Democracy is but the expression for individual manhood in its political relation; and no more dignified embodiment of this idea can be found than in the person of Gen. Buckner.

"Kentuckians may reflect with pride that in every great national crisis their State has stood boldly forth to preserve the Constitution, to declare the majesty of the law, and equally to insist on the Constitutional limitations of the powers of the general Government, leaving to the State and to the citizen a responsible freedom that shall not be surrendered so long as the spirit of Jefferson and Jackson shall animate the minds of men. The Kentucky Resolutions of 1798, offered by John Breckinridge, but believed to have been written by Jefferson himself, directed against the 'alien and sedition laws' then recently passed, were really an interpretation of the Federal Compact, declaring that the Constitution was the measure of the powers of the General Government. Many of the men who shaped the political thought of Kentucky had been students under Jefferson and were in close touch with him. His writings disclose that he was nearly concerned for the political welfare of the young Commonwealth. The seed they planted still bears fruit in the Buckners of to-day.

"At the outbreak of the Civil War Kentucky's position, however chimerical and impractical, was strictly within the Constitutional lines, and was a dignified assertion of State autonomy. At the close of the war she was the first to proclaim: 'The war is over; let us have peace.' Who but a Kentuckian formulated the expression: 'A tariff for Revenue only?' And is not the Star-Eyed Goddess native there? Who presented her image in maiden panoply as a better object for the view than the bloody shirt of the evil days of Reconstruction? And, of all Kentuckians, who more manfully accepted the verdict of the war, recognizing defeat without complaint and meeting in the fullest measure the duties imposed by the new order, than Simon Bolivar Buckner?"

"In the formation of so fullrounded a character as his, many influences work; and in such a man we may see the epitome of a people. It is in this view that an account of his surroundings and antecedents must be considered. Among these is an early experience in the history of Kentucky, which offers an instructive parallel to the present political madness. Prior to 1818 there was only one bank in the State, its early commerce having been conducted by barter or the use of Spanish money. The period following the war of 1812 and 15 was one of remarkable commercial activity, and the Legislature in 1818 chartered forty-six banks, with a capital of nearly nine millions. In two years nearly all of these were wrecks, and the one sound bank suspended payment. In 1820 the bank charters were annulled, the people being left under a great burden of debt. To relieve this condition the Legislature chartered the Bank of the Commonwealth, after a long and bitter debate, in which the debtors contended that the State could by some mysterious power, restore their fortunes. So the Commonwealth Bank was allowed to issue notes not payable in specie. It put out three millions of circulating paper, which was made a legal tender for all debts. Of course this paper fell to less than its face value. Creditors refused to receive it; and then the courts were appealed to, they decided that the Legislature could not impair the obligations of a contract, and such notes could not be made a legal tender for payment of debts already existing. Then came a fierce outcry, 'the will of the people' had been set at naught. The judiciary was threatened; the judges barely escaped impeachment. In 1824 a Governor was elected by the Radicals, who secured control of the Legislature and repealed the laws creating the Supreme Court. It was very like what it is proposed to do in 1896. A furious campaign ensued, with the result that common honesty and common sense carried the day. Fiatism, an attack upon the Supreme Court, the fatuous assertion of popular power had been arrayed against honesty and good citizenship. But the heart of the Commonwealth was sound.

"Gen. Buckner was born April 1, 1823, before this experiment in finance was finished. Its bitter lesson was fresh in the minds of men while his own mind was forming. His birth-place was the log house where he now lives, in Hart County, Ky., near Munfordville. His father was a farmer and iron manufacturer, operating one of the early furnaces in Kentucky. The family was of English descent, having come into Kentucky from Virginia. Young Buckner received his early education in an excellent school in Munfordville. His father having removed to Muhlenburg County, he was appointed to a cadetship at West Point. At the military academy he met his old friend and schoolmate, Thomas J. Wood, who became a Major General in the Federal Army. Gen. Grant was also a cadet with Buckner. Upon his graduation in 1844 young Buckner was assigned to the 2nd Infantry. In August of the following year he was made assistant professor of ethics at West Point. Upon the breaking out of the Mexican War he asked for a transfer to the field, and being commissioned Second Lieutenant in the 6th Infantry, spent the winter of 1846 on the Rio Grande. He was at the siege of Vera Cruz; at Cherubusco he was brevetted First Lieutenant, Captain at Molino Del Rey, both brevets being won by gallantry on the field. He served in Mexico till the close of the war, when he was ordered to West Point as Instructor of Infantry Tactics. His next service was on the Western frontier, where, in 1852, he was commissioned Captain. He was afterwards sent to New York, where he remained till 1855. He resigned his commission and devoted himself to business affairs, his wife having large interests in Chicago. He also superintended the construction of the Custom House there. In 1858 he moved to Louisville, Ky.

“His military training had given this large-minded man strength, self-reliance, and self-control. He had not become a mere part of a military machine, but a man of the strongest personality, which made itself widely felt upon his return to Kentucky. He was elected Captain of the Citizens Guards, a company of the best men of Louisville, and in 1860 was appointed by the Governor, Inspector General of the Kentucky State Guard, with the rank of Major General. He framed the admirable militia law of Kentucky, greatly increased the efficiency of the State troops, and at the commencement of hostilities between the North and South was actively engaged in trying to maintain Kentucky's pronouncement that her soil must not be invaded by either side. This position was, of course, impossible, and when the State's neutrality had been disregarded, Gen. Buckner, in September 1861, went where his sympathies called him and cast his lot with the South, being appointed a Brigadier General. It is proper to state a similar appointment in the Union Army had been offered to him.

“On Sept. 17, Gen. Buckner, under orders from Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, occupied Bowling Green, Ky., around which point he was for several months engaged in checking Buell. Having been ordered to reinforce Pillow at Fort Donelson, Gen. Buckner arrived there with about 5000 men on the night of February 12, 1862. Gen. Floyd arrived the next day, when the battle commenced.

“This battle made Buckner a hero of the war. He was third in command, but the brunt of the fighting, the odium of the surrender and the hardship of imprisonment fell upon him. After two days' of incessant fighting, it was determined to try on the third day, to open a way for the garrison to fall back on Nashville, and thus avoid the danger of surrender due to the increasing

Union force. On the morning of the third day the attack was made by the Confederates, and the way of escape was opened after the severest fighting. Then the superior generals ordered Gen. Buckner to retire with his men into the intrenchments. It was a complete reversal of the plan agreed upon and already partly executed, and it resulted in the surrender of the garrison. Gen'ls. Floyd and Pillow, the former with some of his command, escaped from the fort on a steamer, but Buckner refused to escape, saying he would share the fate of the men who had fought so bravely for three days. Gen. Buckner, on the morning of February 16, surrendered to Gen. Grant. His generalship and his loyalty to his men increased the esteem in which he was held by his people.

"The distinguished prisoner was conveyed first to Indianapolis and soon afterward to Ft. Warren in Boston Harbor. Although harshly treated by order of the Federal Government, and kept in close confinement, Gen. Buckner did not allow his misfortune to disturb the dignified equanimity of his bearing, the calmness of his mind, making a sort of triumph of defeat. On July 30, he was released, and coming to Richmond he was exchanged Aug. 16, and immediately promoted to a Major Generalship. He reported to Gen. Bragg at Chattanooga, where he was heartily welcomed by the troops. He was assigned to the command of a division in Hardee's corps, the army moved into Kentucky, and Gen. Buckner was assigned to the organization of new troops in the State, but was recalled to his command, which he rejoined just before the battle of Perryville. In this battle, and in the operations around Perryville, Buckner displayed generalship of the highest order. He urged Gen. Bragg to concentrate his forces at Perryville, overwhelming Buell at that point, intercepting him from Louisville, and fighting him in detail. Instead of following this counsel, Gen. Bragg scattered his army and threw away an opportunity that would, if availed of, have changed the result of the campaign in Kentucky.

"Gen. Buckner was next placed in charge of the defenses at Mobile, where he remained four months, having converted an open town into a formidable fortress. His next duty was the command of the Department of East Tennessee, where the preponderance of Union sentiment rendered the position one of great delicacy and difficulty. His duties were discharged with prudence, firmness, and with admirable regard for law and justice, which, during his whole public career, military as well as civil, he has held constantly in view.

"In the fall of 1863 Gen. Buckner was ordered to join Gen. Bragg in Georgia. He commanded his corps in the battle of Chickamauga. Here again he showed the superior character of his military genius by his apprehension of the disposition and movements of the opposing forces, a clearness of view not shared by the General in command. Buckner's conduct in this battle is thus described by the Rev. Dr. Cross, an army chaplain who was at the scene of action:

"He rode through the fiery tempest as calmly as if he knew himself invulnerable, and seemed as thoughtless of danger as if he were out on an equestrian pleasure excursion. He was every where among his troops, in front and flank and rear, directing their movements and cheering them on to victory. To his cool courage, in connection with Longstreet's superior strategy and heroic resolution, more than to the management or energy of their compeers, is attributable the triumph of the Confederate arms on the field of Chickamauga.'

"Upon the opening of the campaign of 1864, Gen. Buckner was assigned to the charge of the district of Louisiana, and commanded a corps of the Trans-Mississippi army with the grade of Lieutenant General. Here there were but few active operations after Buckner took charge. Upon the surrender of Lee and Johnson, Gens. Buckner and Price negotiated their surrender with Gen. Canby.

"The Rev. Dr. Cross, in closing his sketch of Buckner's military career, says:

"His moral character is irreproachable. During the months of my intimacy with him, I never saw in him an act, nor heard from him a word, which would not become the purest Christian on earth. Though not a communicant of the Church, his Bible and his prayer-book are his constant companions. In short, he is the most perfect gentleman I have found in the Confederate army; and of all the distinguished men, civilians or soldiers, whose acquaintance I have enjoyed, I have never known one whose private character was altogether so unexceptionable as that of Lieut. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner.'

"Under the terms of the surrender Gen. Buckner was not permitted to return to Kentucky. He therefore remained in New Orleans, becoming a writer on one of the daily papers there, and also engaging in commercial pursuits. No man ever exhibited greater equipoise of character, more moderation of thought and action, and finer self-control than did Gen. Buckner, both during the war, when more than his share of ungrateful duties fell to him, or than afterward, when he proceeded to retrieve his fortunes from the wreck of war.

“Through his wife, a Miss Kingsbury, whom he married in 1850, Gen. Buckner had become possessed of an ample fortune. When he went into the Southern army he deeded his property to his brother-in-law, Lieut. Kingsbury, of the United States army. The latter was mortally wounded in battle, and though he made a nuncupative will restoring the property to Gen. Buckner, it required several years of tedious litigation to recover the estate. Barely had this been accomplished, when the Chicago fire destroyed a greater part of the property. Ultimately, however, the General's efforts were successful and his fortune was fully restored.

“In 1870 or '71, Gen. Buckner retired to his farm in Hart County, dwelling in the old log house in which he was born. Here he lived the life of a country gentleman, seeing little of the world, but occupied with his books, and with the resources he finds so abundant within himself. His daughter, to whom he was devoted and who has since died, was his companion. The people of Kentucky, though they saw him seldom, still retained for him the highest respect and most affectionate regard. In 1883 his friends and neighbors urged him to make the race for Governor of the State. He had not sought this honor or preferment. In 1883 his name was presented too late, and the gubernatorial nomination of the Democrats went to J. Proctor Knott, who was elected. But four years later Gen. Buckner was nominated almost without opposition, and was elected by 17,000 plurality over W. O. Bradley the present Governor of the State.

“As Governor, Gen. Buckner gave the people a business administration. Being himself a fine Constitutional lawyer, he used the veto power with good effect, and his fearlessness in its exercise won the admiration of all disinterested citizens. Had his veto of the tax reduction bill not been over-ridden, the treasury of the State would not be empty, as for a year it has been. Upon one occasion when the State was in need of funds with which to meet its obligations, he himself advanced to the treasury $50,000. When he left office, a great meeting of citizens was held in Louisville to testify the popular approval of his administration. Republicans united with Democrats in this remarkable testimonial to a retiring executive. While in the office of Governor, Gen. Buckner's friends wanted to present his name as a candidate for the United States Senate, and though, no doubt, he would have been gratified at an election to that body, he absolutely refused to allow his name to go before the Legislature, declaring that his position as Governor rendered such a course improper. In Sept., 1891, Gen. Buckner retired to private life, but upon the urgency of his friends, was elected a delegate to the Constitutional Convention, in which he took a prominent part.

"No amount of public applause has ever seemed as grateful to Gen. Buckner, as the quiet of Glen Lily, as his Hart County farm is called.

"Just before his election as Governor, he married a second time, his wife being Miss Claiborne of Richmond, Va. They have one son. From the seclusion of his home, the Sage of Glen Lily makes occasional excursions into the world, and wherever he goes, honors and plaudits greet him. Before the death of Gen. Grant, he and Gen. Buckner had resumed their old friendship, and at the great soldier's funeral his aforesaid foe was a pall bearer. At the Grant memorial celebration in New York he was the most remarked of all the guests. At Indianapolis admiring crowds surrounded him. Yet, withal, he bears himself so modestly and gently, that he seems unconscious of his popularity and his power over men.

"Always alert when duty calls, though hidden from public view in his secluded home, he was first in Kentucky to sound the alarm when danger threatened in the form in which it has now come upon the people. May 6, 1895, through the medium of the press, he addressed the Democracy of his State, declaring that 'local self-government, sound money and free trade—the latter, subject only to the wants of government to collect Revenue to defray its legitimate expenses—is the shiboleth of the Democratic party.' He entered into a convincing discussion of the money question, showing the disaster that would follow the free coinage of silver. This position was taken at a time when he was prominently advanced as a candidate for the United States Senate, and when the position was thought to be a dangerous one in Kentucky.

"In his home, to which he is so deeply attached, Gen. Buckner leads a life of the utmost simplicity. A few books satisfy him, but he reads those constantly. He knows Shakespeare by heart, and has a fine Shakespearian library. He reflects much, is an accomplished scholar and most of his reading is of a serious character, but says that no man more than he loves a pretty love story. In his learning he is unobtrusive as in all other matters, and he once let a couple of young visitors engage in a heated and unsatisfactory dispute over the meaning and pronounciation of a French phrase without giving them the slightest intimation that to him French was a familiar language. He afterwards said he thought it would have been impertinence on his part. With his neighbors Gen. Buckner is on terms of the closest friendship, and is as approachable by the poorest of them as he is by any man whom he meets in the big world. His farm lies in a hilly and rough district, but he has improved it to its utmost capacity, except such part of it that is still in virgin forest. He has also improved the roads of his neighborhood, and to the work of road overseer brought as much earnestness of purpose as to any larger vocation.

"Gen. Buckner is as straight at 73 as he was at 40. He is tall and broad and strong, his step elastic, though his abundant hair is snow-white. His corn-cob pipe is an ever present part of the picture, whether on the 'verandah' at home or in the streets of a great city. It's a well smoked, Democratic looking sort of a pipe, too.

"When the Kentucky Democracy met on Aug. 20, 1896, to declare the faith in protest against the heresies of Chicago, the Kentucky delegation was instructed to present at Indianapolis, for the Vice-Presidential nomination, the name of Simon Bolivar Buckner. How the country took up the call and cheered on the Kentuckians, and how the Democrats of the Union named Buckner of the South, with Palmer of the North, and thus declared there was no longer either North or South, are incidents too recent to need repeating."

Thomas Buckner of Spottsylvania Co.

O Mrs. Priscilla Aylette Reardon, and Mrs. Katharine Edmondson Tuley, wife of the late Judge Murray F. Tuley of Chicago must be ascribed the credit of putting in booklet form a partial history of the Buckner family, with especial reference to the line of Thomas Buckner, from whom both of these ladies are descended.

The data given in the little brochure, "Reminiscences of the Buckner Family," is in great measure traditionary. In a recent search of the County records it has been proved that the traditions are in the main correct. The "Reminiscences" were prepared in the first instance solely for the entertainment of Mrs. Tuley and her husband, with no thought of publication. Amplified, and placed in chronological order by Mrs. Tuley, they have been incorporated in this volume, together with certain additional information inserted in the form of editorial notes.

Mrs. Reardon's narrative is as follows :

A Story of the Past

For my Children and Grandchildren

"My children have often urged me to write what I can remember of my own early days and the stories told me by my grandmother, Hannah Burton Buckner, and by my own father and mother. My father, Simeon Buckner, was the seventh child of Thomas Buckner, who was born in Virginia, probably about 1765 or '66, I think, since he married Hannah Burton in 1787, who was also a Virginian by birth. Eight years later, in 1795, they gathered together their little ones and goods and chattels and emigrated to Kentucky. Other children were born to them, twenty in all. They owned a fine farm in Jefferson County, not far from Louisville. I remember grandmother as a beautiful old lady, always dressed in black, wearing spotless white cap, with high crown and ruffles around the face, sitting by the open fireplace, with its tall, brass andirons and red-painted hearth, and I remember the reflection of my face in the shining brass of the andirons and fender. I remember, also, the 'Love Apples,' or tomatoes, which grew in her garden, and later, it was at her table that I first ate them cooked—and what a dainty and well furnished table she kept. At the time of which I speak grandfather Buckner was dead, and the three youngest children, Aunt Louisa, Uncle Eliphalet and Aunt Helena, were living with her, and Uncle Eliphalet was studying law.

"I was her oldest grandchild, and, I think, a favorite one, for I was an absorbed listener to her stories. You can fancy us sitting round the fire, while she told this story, which was, as nearly as I can remember, about as follows :

Grandmother's Story

"When our family emigrated from Virginia to this country, we traveled in emigrant wagons; those big covered things sometimes called 'Schooner' wagons. The country was full of Indians, most of them hostile to the whites, who were taking possession of the hunting grounds, and some of them had old grudges to settle after their encounters with Simon Kenton and Rogers Clark, and so the men of our party were well armed and constantly on guard. When we camped at night the wagons were arranged in horseshoe form, the wheels chained together, the cattle in the centre, and the men standing guard by night, taking turns, two at a time. The roads were awful, and we crawled along, the feet of the horses and oxen sticking in the mud at every step. Sometimes we would hear the whoops and yells of the Indians, which terrified the women and children almost to death, for there were several families of us traveling together for mutual protection. We had been within the borders of Kentucky some time when, at one of our camping places, a poor, frightened, hungry woman came into camp, with her clothes hanging in rags and tatters, with bare and bleeding feet, and a wild look in her eyes, which made us afraid of her. We gave her food and some articles of clothing, and allowed her to take a good sleep before she told her story.

"She said she had been captured by the Indians the year before, who kept such close watch on her that it was impossible to escape. During that time she had to perform the hardest labor, and was often beaten when her strength failed. A few days previous the Indian braves had gone on a big hunt, leaving her guarded by an old Indian, who kept close watch on her. To put him off his guard she pretended to be cheerful and contented. When he finally fell asleep, she made her escape noiselessly and in all haste. She had no idea which way she should go to reach the nearest settlement, but ran on in frantic haste to escape pursuit. For several days she subsisted on roots and berries, and was growing very weak when she came to a swamp; there hearing the whoops of the Indians in pursuit she crawled inside of a big, hollow log, lying in the swamp, and prayed fervently for deliverance. She heard the Indians running, and one of them stood on the log within which she was concealed, whooping and calling. At last she heard them going away, and after a long time, when all was quiet, she crawled out, and walked for hours till she came to a road, which she followed till it parted in two directions. Fearing that one of them might lead her to the Indian camp, she hid in the bushes and prayed to be directed. Soon a little bird came chirping and fluttering about her, then flew off up one of the roads. Believing that God had sent the bird to guide her, she followed that road till it brought her to our camp. We were the first white people she had seen for a year, and she cried for joy, poor thing! For awhile she journeyed with us, then, with our assistance, she finally reached her home and kindred.

"The farm which Thomas Buckner owned was in a beautiful and fertile region, twenty miles from what is now the city of Louisville, but which must have been a small town then, as it was founded in 1778, only seventeen years before grandfather emigrated to Kentucky. On that farm his children were raised, and later I myself was born there. I have heard some of the aunts and uncles say it was a busy community, where besides the farm work—in which grandfather and the bigger boys took part, as well as the negroes—there was the weaving, spinning, dyeing, knitting and sewing to be done for that large family of whites and blacks. The shoemaker in those days traveled from farm to farm, making and repairing shoes for the family, for his board and wages, and he must have found the Buckner farm the most profitable one in that region. Uncle Ben, one of the youngest sons, used to tell of how the mischievous ones, of whom he was the leader, would beg the shoemaker to put 'squeaks' in father's, mother's and grandmother's shoes, that the children might have warning of their approach when they were in mischief. For all that, they grew up a fine-looking, energetic and capable set of men and women, much respected in the communities in which they lived. After my father and mother had settled in Louisville, a distant cousin of the family called 'Colonel Nick,' or Nicholas Buckner, used to come to our house, and he told us many stories about the Indians. He was a great Indian fighter, and hated the 'red devils,' as he called them, and we children were spell-bound listeners to his tales. He had a dramatic way of acting them out, taking aim with his gun at an imaginary foe in a way which thrilled us to the marrow. One of these was about the

Chineworth Spring Massacre

"Not far from the Buckner farm was a beautiful spring of water called the 'Chineworth Spring,' from the family who owned the place. One day a report reached Col. Nick that a party of Indians had been seen near the Chineworth place. In great haste he started with his company of Indian fighters, armed with shot guns and rifles, for the Chineworth farm. No Indians were found at the spring, but when they reached the cabin, seeing no signs of life about they pushed open the door, and there, to their horror, saw Mr. Chineworth on the floor dead, and his murdered children around him—all had been scalped. One child only had escaped death. Pursuing their search they found in another room this child, a little girl, trying to kindle a little flame by blowing on a few coals left in the fireplace. With sobs she told of hearing the dreadful cries and blows, and knew that the Indians were killing them all, and had slipped out of bed on the side next the wall and hid behind the bed curtain, by which means she escaped the tomahawk and scalping knife of the Indians, who passed through the room without seeing her. Being asked about her mother she said, 'They are all dead but me!' Pursuing their search they found in the yard traces of blood, following which they reached the spring house, a rude cabin built over the outlet to the spring, in which milk and butter were kept. Here they found Mrs. Chineworth, covered with blood from a wound in the body, and her head scalped. She said the Indians drove a spear through her body as she ran, which pinned her to the earth, and taking her scalp, left her for dead. Bye and bye she returned to consciousness and managed to pull the spear from her body, then swooned again; but finally crawled on hands and knees to the spring, bathed her wounds, and with a piece of her skirt managed to bind them up, and waited for help.

“About forty years later there passed through Little Rock a lady missionary bound for the reservation of the Indian Nation, where she was going to devote herself to the civilization and conversion of the Indians. She stopped at Mrs. Roswald Beebe’s house, where she told them the gruesome story of the massacre at Chineworth Spring, as told by Col. Nick B. She was the child who escaped the fate of the rest of the family, going in the spirit of Christian love and forgiveness, to help the race that had killed hers.

“How little Col. Buckner could have imagined such a finale to his story!

“Grandfather Buckner died in 1827, when I was only six years old, so I remember nothing very distinctly about him, except his death. When his children were grown, and most of them married, he sold his farm to a man named Hoffman, and moved into Louisville. I remember that my mother and Aunt Priscilla Tuley once took me with them to the old farm, to visit the family who bought it. The house was a two-story brick, and the farm was large and well cultivated. I remember more distinctly the town house, however, with its garden and fruit trees. The soldiers’ barracks were not far away, and I had a wholesome terror of the soldiers, and ran away when I saw them, as I had been told they were bad men. I remember distinctly when Lafayette was in Louisville, which I think was not long after grandfather’s death, so I must have been between six and seven years old. I remember as he passed our house how my mother caught me up in her arms and held me so that I could see the great man for whom all good Americans felt such gratitude and love.

“I think my grandfather must have lived rather handsomely for those times—for I remember he kept a carriage and horses and that my mother and I were upset in it once going to campmeeting at Bear Grass Creek, which has made me timid to this day about riding in a closed carriage. After grandfather went to Louisville he was elected High Sheriff of Jefferson Co., a very honorable position in those days, for which the best men were sought; you may be sure he filled it worthily, for he had a high sense of honor and justice. He was a tall man with a red head and a quick temper, but a just man when his temper was over, in illustration of which I will tell you a story told by Uncle Ben which I had from Cousin Kate Tuley, who heard it from his own lips."

Uncle Ben's Story

"One day, said Uncle Ben, my father got into a heated discussion with a man on the streets of Louisville, and for some insulting remark made by the latter, my father knocked him down and punished him severely. Whereupon the man sued him for assault and battery. I was present and saw the whole thing, and was summoned by my father to testify in his defence, without any previous examination as to the character of my testimony. Greatly to his surprise my testimony went dead against him as the first aggressor. So the other man won his suit, and father had to pay the fine and costs. I thought I saw fire in the old man's eyes as I told my story, and I tell you as soon as I stepped down off that witness stand I got out of there in a hurry, and was cutting around a corner to escape the thrashing I expected when I felt a slap on my shoulder, and turned to face my father. And what do you think he said? 'Ben, my son! I'm proud of you! I'm proud of you! You told the truth and shamed the devil, if you did beat your father in that suit, you dog you! Now, sir, you go straight to my tailor, and tell him to make you a fine broadcloth suit and charge it to me, do you hear?' With a hearty handshake we separated, and away I went, thanking my stars I had missed the thrashing, and mighty glad to get the present. I won't say but what the water got into my eyes, too, as I turned away."

The Tragic Wedding Feast

"In 1834, seven years after grandfather's death, a dreadful tragedy was enacted in the Buckner family, which shook the whole city of Louisville; it was at the wedding of Helena, the youngest daughter of grandfather, who was married to a Mr. Clark at her mother's house, rather quietly. Among the refreshments served was 'Floating Island' or custard, of which there were two large kettles. One of these was set away in a cool place, and was not used at the wedding. Next day, however, it was partaken of by the family, and portions were sent to the houses of several of grandmother's married children. That night grandmother was taken ill, and shortly after Aunt Adeline Foster, then Aunt Emily Fontaine, also a son of Uncle Milton Buckner, and some others—I don't know how many—were affected. The symptoms grew so alarming that doctors and friends were running to the aid of the sufferers, and the wildest alarm prevailed. The night was dark and the dogs of the neighborhood set up a doleful howling, and as the death of first one member of the family and then another was announced a terror seized that part of the city, and spread like wild-fire. The wildest rumors prevailed—'It was cholera.' 'The wells were poisoned by the negroes!' 'An uprising of the negroes would follow,' it was said, but finally, as no more deaths followed, it simmered down to the statement that 'the custard was poisoned by the negroes.' Aunt Louisa, however, who was present and knew all the facts (she was then unmarried and living with her mother) says that the kettle containing the custard which caused the tragedy was of brass, and it was supposed had corroded in the twenty-four or more hours in which it had been set away. It is to her I am indebted for a description of the horrors of that night which laid low dear old grandmother and all the others who had eaten of it, save one cousin, now living in St. Louis, who merely tasted it. Long was that night of terror remembered by the old citizens of Louisville.

"My father was at this time owner of a line of boats and captain of one of them. He was absent from home at this time; his boat had been aground in the Arkansas river for three months, and he had heard nothing from home. After he got off the sandbar he was one day hailed by one of his old pilots on another boat. This man was named Shaddock. When the boats were landed Shaddock said, 'Captain Buckner, when did you hear from home?' 'Not for three months,' said my father. 'Come ashore then, I have something to tell you.' They seated themselves on a big log, facing the boats, and Shaddock began hesitatingly, 'So you have not heard about your sister Helena's marriage?' 'No!'

*Then, Captain, prepare yourself for bad news! At the wedding, poison was put in the food, and your mother, your sisters (Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Fontaine) are dead, several children and a servant, and—and—your wife and children—all dead! At that my father fell to the ground as if struck by a cannon ball, and never knew the truth till he got home some time later and clasped us all in his arms, the truth being that none of our family were there, else I might not have been here to tell the story.

“Some time before this tragedy, my father having gone into the mercantile business in Louisville had failed, along with many others. It was at the time when so many of the United States Banks broke; in 1832, I believe. He and my mother were Whigs, and ardent admirers of Henry Clay. They thought that the failure of the banks and the misfortunes of the country were due to General Jackson and the Democratic Party. My mother was a woman of a great deal of character and of very pronounced views—political and otherwise. She had a kind heart and cheerful disposition, and was idolized by her nephews, and nieces who considered ‘Aunt Nancy’ their refuge from parental displeasure, and their best friend. She was a Buckner before marriage, and she and my father were cousins. She was a daughter of Philip Buckner and Elizabeth Watson Buckner, his wife, both born in Virginia, where my mother herself was born in 1803. I do not know the date of Elizabeth Watson’s marriage to Philip Buckner. The Bible of the latter which was given to my mother, and contained such entries, was unaccountably lost when we moved to Clark Co., Arkansas. They had four children—Aylette, Jane, Harry, and Nancy Watson Buckner, my dear mother. Aylette, the eldest, became guardian to my mother on the death of grandfather Philip. All of our branch of this family were fond of the name of Aylette; the boys were apt to have it for the first name, the girls for a middle name; hence my mother called me Priscilla for my Aunt Priscilla Buckner, and Aylette for the middle name. It seems that at an early period Judith Aylette (whose first husband was a Hawes (daughter of Wm. Aylette, living in King Wm. Co., Va., married Wm. Buckner of ‘the Neck,’ in Caroline Co., and after that, there were many marriages between the Aylettes and Buckners. There are some of the Aylettes in Virginia now, for I have seen in the New York Herald a notice of a fancy ball in Richmond where a Miss Mary Aylette appeared in the dress and jewels of her ancestress, Mary Aylette, the wife of one of the Governors of that period."

My Mother's Story

"My mother used to tell me this story of the old days in Virginia during the Revolutionary War, told her by her mother, who was Elizabeth Watson before she married Philip Buckner. It was something like this:

"The family was living on a plantation in the eastern part of the State, in what county I know not—it may have been Spottsylvania Co., since Thomas Buckner is said to have come from there, and Philip, my grandfather, was related to him—but it was certainly in the eastern part of Virginia. There were a few Tories in that county, though most of the people were ardent supporters of the cause of Independence. You remember that Virginia was the first colony, even before Massachusetts, to enter her protest against the levying of unjust taxes on the Colonies by Parliament. John Fiske, in his 'Virginia and Her Neighbors,' makes this clear. You will find it also in Howe's 'Historical Collections of Virginia.' There had been rumors of a probable descent of a detachment of the British army on that locality, and the people were uneasy and troubled. About this time a report spread that some British soldiers had been seen in the neighborhood. Greatly excited, immediate preparations were made to save their property from the depredations of the enemy, and her father, Mr. Watson, hastily gathered together his stock of cattle; taking one or two servants with him, and leaving the rest to protect the family, he hastened to find some safe place among the mountains. He had not been gone long when a British officer in full uniform rode up to the gate and dismounting, was seen talking earnestly to one of the negroes. Presently he approached the house and demanding admittance, was shown into the best room, where her mother awaited him. She rose and greeted him with cold civility. He stated that he wished to see the owner of the plantation. She replied that her husband was absent and could not be seen. He said he had urgent business with him—what time would he return? She, believing he meant to capture him or do him some harm, replied somewhat evasively. 'Then,' said he, 'I will wait till he comes;' and pleading great fatigue threw himself on a sofa and covered his eyes with his hand. My grandmother left the room with as much dignity as she could command, though sorely troubled as to the meaning of this strange visit. The news penetrated to the negro quarters, and an old darky, whom his master had charged with the special care of his young mistress, suddenly appeared in the doorway of the room with his master's drawn sword in his hand. Believing the stranger was able at any moment to rise and slay the household, (as he observed he was only feigning to sleep,) he never took his eyes from him. The hours dragged on wearily and still the officer slept, or feigned to, and the faithful servant stood guard, till at length the master arrived, and was soon closeted with the intruder. He at once avowed that the uniform he wore was a disguise, assumed for the purpose of learning how many Tories there were in that vicinity. That he was an officer in the Continental Army, acting under orders of his superior officer, and was in fact on a secret mission. He mentioned also that he had been talking with one of Mr. Watson's servants, and that he, believing him to be a British officer, had revealed to him the place where he, Mr. Watson, had concealed his stock, also their number and value. 'But there is one old fellow you can certainly trust,' he added; 'the one who stood guard over me with a drawn sword. I was afraid to close my eyes'—he laughed—'for fear he'd chop my head off.' Being assured of the truth of his story, Mr. Watson pressed him to stay all night, and my grandmother made ample amends for her former lack of hospitality.

"There used to be a number of mother's branch of the Buckners living in Greensburg, Elizabethtown, and adjacent parts of the interior of Kentucky. In the summer of 1837, when I was sixteen, I spent my vacation visiting among them. Judge Richard Aylette Buckner of Greensburg was one of them. He was a United States Senator in Andrew Jackson's time, and was distinguished both as a lawyer and judge. His wife was a Miss Taylor, and their eldest son was named Aylette B., his second son, Richard Aylette Buckner, both lawyers. Richard Aylette Buckner was afterwards a judge, and lived in Lexington, Kentucky. There were two other sons, Arthur and Luther B., and two daughters, the eldest of whom married Mr. Barrett, and lived in St. Louis, Mo. The youngest daughter was named Betty. They were a charming family.

"The sister of Judge Richard Aylette Buckner, senior, married, a Taylor also, and her eldest son, Richard Aylette Taylor, was my mother's first lover when she was going to school, and boarded at their house. Years after this, Richard A. Taylor, having moved to Arkansas, rode 40 miles to see my mother when she was in her last illness at our house, in 1851. But she was too ill to be seen, and died shortly afterward. Judge Buckner told me after he moved to Arkansas that he had a perfect record of the Buckner and Aylette families, and the coat of arms of the latter. His granddaughter, living in Little Rock, furnished me with this record of the births and deaths in the family of my mother's old sweetheart :

RICHARD AYLETTE TAYLOR, born 1802; married Rebecca W. Williamson 1824. Issue :

John Young Taylor, born 1826; died 1846, unmarried; 20 years old.

Daniel White Taylor, born 1828; died 1846, unmarried; 18 years old.

Sally McGee Taylor, born 1830; died 1862; married B. J. Emby, 1847; married at 17; died at 32 years.

Richard Aylette Taylor, Jr., born 1833; died 1862; married Juliet A. Dowdle, 1853.

Catherine Buckner Taylor, born 1835; died 1852; married Geo. W. Vaden, 1852; married and died same year.

Rebecca Aylette Taylor, born 1840; died 1858; married Robert A. Dowdle, 1858; died same year.

"My mother's brother Aylette married Miss Morehead of Tennessee, and they had three children—Turner, Simon Bolivar, and a little girl. I remember the first visit I made in company with my mother to Uncle Aylette's. We travelled by stage. The house, I remember, was on a knob or hill near Green river, Hart county, Kentucky. It was a substantial and commodious log house. In the front room hung the portraits of Uncle Aylette and Aunt Elizabeth. They had an old house servant, Uncle Jerry, who had a superstitious awe of those portraits, for whenever he moved, their eyes watched him. I can hear him say now: 'Ye needn't tell dis child dat dem pictures ain't alive! Don't ye see how dem eyes follows me ev'y place I go! Fore God! I'se afeard ov' em I is!' There was a loom in one of the back rooms, and I remember seeing my mother weaving a counterpane to take home with her. I remember the great forest trees about the house and how Uncle Aylette lifted up Cousin Bolivar and put him on a tall stump, telling him to make a speech. He was a little fellow then, about my age, and when he recited 'You'd scarce expect one of my age,' etc., I looked at him with admiring eyes.

"The last time I was there was in 1837, and then my uncle's home was in the valley. He had a large house, and owned an iron foundry, and was considered a rich man for the time. The boys had grown tall, were well educated, and refined in manner. I was charmed with Cousin Bolivar's pigeons, which would come flocking about him when he fed them, as tame as chickens. When I left, Cousin Turner, who was the eldest, was my escort to Elizabethtown, Kentucky, and Cousin Bolivar from there to Louisville. This was the last I saw of the boys for many years. Later Cousin Bolivar entered West Point, and remained till he graduated. He was afterwards in the Mexican war and was at the capture of the City of Mexico.

"His father, mother and sister were with me in Little Rock at the time, for I was then married, and they used to read his letters to me, which I found very interesting. After the war was over he visited me on his way to West Point. Cousin Bolivar afterwards married a Miss Kingsbury of Chicago, who was, I believe, well off, and some years after her death he married a Miss Claiborne of Virginia, who I hear is a devoted wife. His public career is part of the history of our country, as General Buckner, on the Confederate side in the Civil War, then as Governor of Kentucky, and later as candidate for the Vice-Presidency of the United States, nominated by the Gold Democrats and defeated by Republicans—of which defeat he and the Presidential candidate had a full assurance before they consented to run. He continues to live in his father's old log house I have heard, though probably this is only in the summer, as I believe he has also a residence in Louisville. A reporter who visited him in the old family home describes it as tastefully adorned with many interesting old relics, and there he smokes his corn-cob pipe in peace. It is many years since we have met, and it is not likely I shall ever see him again.

"Cousin Turner grew to be one of the tallest men I have ever seen. He had to stoop in entering any ordinary door. Though born in the backwoods of Kentucky he had a good knowledge of Latin, and knew some Greek. His voice was pleasant and his manner gentle; but he was a man of strong and independent ways of thinking—quite original. When his brother Bolivar was stationed at West Point he invited Turner to make him a visit. Turner said as this was his first visit North, he wanted to see the country, and he preferred to walk. And so he did, every step of the way from Hart County to West Point, where the officers received him with open arms.

“When Uncle Aylette Buckner moved at length to southern Arkansas he sent the cattle and servants on foot, but he and his family went by carriage or stage, with the exception of Cousin Turner; he put his servant on his horse, a fine blooded one, preferring to walk the whole way, ‘and see the country.’

“When he reached Little Rock he was detained some weeks; meantime his servants encamped near town, and he set them to work making charcoal, and was sometimes seen driving the charcoal wagon into town himself. His maxim was, ‘all work is honorable,’ and he lived up to that principle. I think Cooper might have taken him for one of his heroes in his novels. He made more than one trip to California on foot with servants and cattle. At length, when crossing the Arkansas river at Fort Smith, though an expert swimmer, in attempting to rescue one of his herdsmen, both were drowned together. The officers at the Fort buried him there with their own dead. So perished a noble hearted man in his prime.

“I have spoken of spending my summer vacation with my mother’s relatives in Elizabethtown in 1837. It was while I was there that an unexpected summons came for me to return home at once. My dear mother wrote that my father had been awarded the contract by the United States Government to remove the Cherokee and Seminole Indians to the large tract assigned them, known afterwards as Indian Territory. Vicksburg was to be the point of debarkation, and he thought the time required might be about three years; so, as he wanted his family near him, we were to remove to Little Rock, Arkansas. Cousin Bolivar escorted me home, and I remember my father was greatly surprised to see how rapidly I was developing. ‘Almost a young lady, Nanny!’ I heard him say to my mother. He charged her to fit me out with everything I required, and accordingly I had all, and more than I needed given me. Our family then consisted of three children besides my mother and father. I, Priscilla, being the eldest, next my brother Perry, then 14, and my sister, Josephine Preston, the youngest. My mother was very busy for some weeks making preparations for our journey, while my father was engaged in purchasing boats for the removal of the Indians. He bought six steamboats. I remember only the names of three—The Kentucky, The Cin- derella and The DeKalb. The names of the others can be found in Pope's book. I had once before had a perilous ride on one of my father's boats, the Daniel Boone, purchased about 1825 or 1826, when my father started to New Orleans with my mother and myself, and I was not anxious to try another. These boats were very different from our boats of the present day. They were very slow, and it took one month to go to New Orleans and return to Louisville. The ladies' cabin was in the hull of the boat, and in the gentlemen's cabin the staterooms resembled our sleeping cars when the births are made up at night. They were concealed by curtains which were let down at night, and looped back in the daytime. We got safely down the Ohio, but after we entered the Mississippi the Daniel Boone ran on a snag somewhere, I don't remember the place, and sunk. I remember they had to tie the boat up to some trees on the shore, to keep her head out of water, while the passengers were got on shore, the women and children first of course. Tents were pitched for our accommodation, and we had to stay there several days till a boat came along and took us back to Louisville. I remember we were devoured by mosquitoes in our tents.

"It was on The Cinderella that we travelled leisurely and safely to our new home, having abundance of time to cultivate the acquaintance of many Little Rock people going home after their summer 'in the north,' as St. Louis and Louisville were called. There were the Johnsons, Ashleys, Peays, Cunninghams, Fultons, Trapnells, Beals, Clendennings, Reardons, Waits, Nolands and Hempsteads, besides Mr. Cook, Col. Fowler, Capt. Pike and others. We went to the hotel kept by Major Peay and wife, old friends of my father. We were visited and cordially treated by many delightful people, both at the hotel and at our next home, which was with Dr. Watkins. The population of Little Rock then was somewhere between three and five thousand, and strangers were coming from Missouri, Kentucky, Maryland and Virginia.

"After my father had fulfilled his contract with the Government, for which he received $80,000, with $40,000 more for the demurrage of his boats, he purchased a large cotton plantation called 'The Rich Woods,' not far from Archdelphia on the Ouachitah (or Washita river), or rather 7 miles from there. On the high ridge, running through the center, he built our house. On this ridge also were the garden, orchard, negro cabins, and the cotton gin. A lane a mile long led from the woods to the house, and another back of the house led to Archidelpia. The country folks travelled this road, and often stopped to get a meal or to beg for a little coffee, sugar or medicine, which my father with his open-handed ways never refused.

"I have a vivid remembrance of our first arrival at the plantation. We made the journey from Little Rock, a distance of one hundred miles, by stage, till we were within fifteen miles of Rich Wood. There the overseer met us with saddle horses for the party, and we proceeded on our journey much interested in the new scenery. When we reached the place we found the colored folks lined up on each side of the lane, the men on one side and the women on the other, dressed in their Sunday clothes, the latter with gay bandanas on their heads. As we rode down the lane the men doffed their hats, and the women ducked a courtesy, with cheerful salutations, 'Howdy Marster,' 'Howdy Mistus,' and to me with broad smiles, 'Pooty little Mistus!' The overseer had arranged this spectacle I suspect, though it was quite in consonance with negro ways. My father and mother were kind to their slaves, and I think the negroes probably found no reason to regret the change of masters. Here I looked for the first time on the cotton fields, stretching on both sides the lane.

"On this plantation a few years later I was married to your father, Lambert Jeffries Reardon, of Little Rock, formerly of Baltimore, Md. Mr. Reardon was a tall, handsome man, with soft brown eyes, and of good family, and we loved each other dearly. My father gave me five negroes for my marriage portion. By this time our means were becoming restricted, my father in his lavish way having loaned 30,000 dollars to the Vice-President of the United States, Col. Richard Johnson, and later he had to pay a security debt for $6,000 and another for $30,000, with various gifts to the family, and other like matters, and it was not long before he became bankrupt.

"Before this came to pass my brother Perry had been sent to Mr. Hallowell's school in Alexandria, and my sister Josephine to an expensive school in Washington. There Col. Washington was made her guardian. He was very kind to her and claimed kin with her. I have since learned that a granddaughter of Wm. Buckner of 'The Neck' married a John Washington in 1770, and that there have been several intermarriages between the two families since then. My brother Perry, who was always a good student, and stood high in mathematics and Latin at his school, was able to enter the Naval Academy at Annapolis in 1841. His first cruise was on the Marion to the West Indies; then he was transferred to the Bainbridge, and went to the coast of Africa; after that he was for three years on the old Constitution, where he made the tour of the world. During all this time he was studying while the necessary buildings were being erected at Annapolis, at the end of which time he graduated with honor. This was the Constitution's last cruise and my brother's last voyage. For nine years after this he acted as teacher, and after awhile as Professor of Mathematics. He had spent much time on the coast of Africa and at the Philippine Islands, and I have a large package of most interesting letters sent me by him from these and other points, also many curiosities from foreign parts. He was considered one of the best navigators in the Navy at that time. During the Civil War he remained in the service of the United States. He thought secession wrong, but his heart was with his kindred and friends in the South, and I think the struggle between duty and love broke his heart. He was Captain in the Navy when he died in 1869, and was put on the retired list about two months before that event.

"After my marriage to Mr. Reardon we built a comfortable two-story house, commanding a beautiful view of the Arkansas river, and the green woods, crowning the hills, with an occasional house in view. The long howl of the wolves and the song of the whipporwill lulled us to sleep at night. Four children came to keep us company in time—my two boys, Buckner and Walter, and my two girls, Annie and Lallie, who were to be my unspeakable comfort and stay in old age. We were very happy in each other and our children. About 1843 my dear father, while on a visit to Louisville, died at the home of Aunt Louisa Hughes, aged forty-six years. This was the beginning of many partings for me. Between the years of 1843 and 1855 I had lost father, mother, sister and husband; none left of our immediate family but my brother Perry, myself and my husband's brother, and they left me some years later. Some time before Mr. Reardon's death in 1846, he assumed editorial charge of a newspaper in Little Rock, called the 'Banner,' which he continued to edit for some years. He was considered a fine writer. Afterward the name of the paper was changed to 'The True Democrat.' Later Mr. Reardon accepted the office of Commissioner of State Swamp Lands, which he filled till his death. My two boys, Buckner and Walter, died in 1892, my darling, Annie Raleigh, died in 1895, leaving six sons. Lallie, my youngest, was married to Dr. J. A. Dibrell, eminent as surgeon and physician in many States, and beloved and revered wherever known, who died November 1, 1904, a great loss to the community as well as to his family and friends. He was kindest and truest of men, to whom and to her two sons, John and James, she was the tenderest of wives and mothers, like my dear Annie. She, too, has now withdrawn her sweet face from the home which she blest with her presence. What a meeting there will be in the sweet-bye-and-bye.

"I neglected to say that my dear mother remained at 'Rich Wood' some time after Pa's death, then went back to Louisville, her old home, but at last consented to make my home her own.

"But now I want to tell you something about

Slavery Times

"In Louisville, Ma hired by the year a young colored girl named Mary, who had a little girl named Susan, Mary's husband being owned by someone else. When Ma was about to break up housekeeping and come to me, Mary's master offered to sell Mary and her child to her, but Ma refused, saying that she did not want to part husband and wife. When Mary was consulted, however, she seemed to be perfectly willing to belong to Ma and to go South with her, provided Ma would buy her husband and take him along. But the husband stoutly refused to leave Louisville unless forced to do so. This refusal made Mary angry, and as she was really attached to my mother she went without a murmur. Afterwards she became my property, and I always found her a trusty and loyal servant, a good cook, and kind hearted, though hot-tempered.

"And here I want to say that I often ask myself whether freedom and education have made the negro morally better. I confess that they disappoint me greatly when I find that the educated ones can't be trusted as we used to trust our servants in slavery times. When my mother was living alone on the plantation with the negroes she could sleep securely, with neither bolt or bar on the door; and she used to drive in safety many miles along lonely roads to visit me, alone with her negro coachman. What white woman in the South would dare to do such a thing now? If slavery is a wrong, which I do not deny, yet it bred in our colored people such loyalty, such unselfish devotion to the families of their masters, such trustworthiness as I have never found in those of their race born in freedom. No race could have behaved better than they did during the Civil War. No insurrections, no outrages, but the most extraordinary fidelity to the women and children left to their care while sons and fathers were away on the battlefield.

"One Christmas I remember Mary came to me to ask a favor. She wanted to have a dance in my kitchen, and to have the house servants on some of the neighboring plantations, 'none o' yo' common low down niggers,' and she 'wouldn't give me no trouble,' and 'Wheeler (her brother) would bring her the eggs and sugar, etc., she needed.' I gave my consent willingly, and Mary went to work with a will. When we built the house I planned for a fine, large kitchen, and Mary soon had that floor and the tables snowy white, and the tin and copper vessels shining brightly among the bunches of holly evergreen stuck here and there. I had given her permission to use the dining-room and my best linen and silver, knowing she would take good care of everything. Perhaps I had a little pride in having our servants outshine those on the other plantations. When the table was set Mary, proud and delighted, called me to come and see it, and I must say it was beautiful. In the middle of the table there seemed to be the largest cake I had ever seen, from the center of which sprang a branch of evergreen, sprinkled with flour, which looked as if powdered with snow. 'Why, Mary!' I said, 'what a big cake! They can't eat all that!' 'Laws, Miss P'rcilla! that aint no cake! 'taint nothin' in the worl' but cawn bread! an' them niggers is goin' to eat ever' single morsel of it, cause it's aig-bred an' I got some little cakes for 'em 'sides that!' Away into the night I heard the strains of the fiddle, the calls of the fiddler, the thumping of feet on the floor and the hearty laughter. Next morning Mr. Reardon said to me, 'Priscilla, I wish some of those Northern abolitionists who are so concerned about the down-trodden negroes South could have looked into this dining-room and that kitchen last night!' A few more Christmases came and went, and then the old home where we had spent such happy years together was broken up, and we went to Little Rock to live. Susan (Mary's daughter) had grown to be a smart, handy girl, and I kept them both, though only one was needed. After my husband's death one day Mary said to me, 'Miss P'scilla I wish you'd please ma'am let me go an' hire myself out? You can get along with Susan, and I might as well be gittin' some wages and bringin' it to you.' So I told her she could be looking around and if she could find a good home I was willing. A few days afterwards she came and told me that old Mr. Fenne, an old bachelor, wanted her to work for him. She said he had no one to work for him and he was 'liven' like a hog,' but she said she would clean the house up and make things look decent and comfortable, and he offered her good wages, and she thought he would treat her well. She went, and after awhile he wanted to buy Mary of me, and as Mary was willing I sold her, but kept Susan. He gave Mary her freedom, and she lived with him as his wife till his death—and no wife could have taken better care of him. This went on for some time, till he was taken with a severe illness, and Mr. Fenne sent for a lawyer, who was also a friend. He had a large amount of property for the times, and he wanted a will drawn in Mary's favor. The lawyer remonstrated and asked if he did not want to leave some to his relatives. No! he did not! He had left home when he was a boy, had worked hard and saved, with no help from his relatives. Mary had done more for him than anybody else, and she should have it. She was the only person in the world that cared for him. The lawyer was preparing to obey when Mary entered her protest, 'Look here Old Marse! where that brother o' yours you tol' me about? Didn't you say he helped you oncet? 'Tain't right for you to give all that money to me. What I goin' to do with all that money? Now jist you give him some of it, please Sir?' 'Well, all right, Mary, I reckon you're right!' And then she mentioned someone else who had claims on him, and prevailed on him to divide with them also, and it was done as she said. After his death she still had more than enough for herself and her two children (for she had one child by him, named Mary Fenne). She bought her a home in Little Rock, and when Susan and Mary married she built homes for them in her own yard. Mary married Rector, an educated negro, who went to West Point, but failing in his examination, got a place in the Post Office.

"Mary used often to tell me that she had never known a happy day since she came into her property, and that she was happier when she belonged to me than at any other time of her life. She died suddenly, of heart disease, one day, in going from a neighbor's home to her own. I was sent for, but found she was past help.

“ Before I stop to-night I want to tell you of another instance of the fidelity of our slaves—one owned by my dear mother, who called himself Joe Buckner. She bought him in Kentucky, after my father's death, and after her death he became the property of my sister Josephine. My health being bad, Mr. Reardon thought a change would do me good, and we went together to Annapolis to see my brother Perry, then stationed there. On leaving home my last charge was ‘ Joe, take good care of Miss Josephine and the children!’ ‘ I'll take good keer of 'em Miss 'Scilla sho!’ And he did till unfortunately poor Joe got into a fight with another darky and was struck on the head with a hoe. He was sick for several days, and sister called in our family physician. While she was talking with him Joe became suddenly and violently insane. His screams were so loud and terrifying that it was not long before at least a hundred people were gathered in the yard. My sister and children fled in terror to a neighbor's house, and Joe was put into a straight-jacket and confined. A few days afterward Mr. Reardon and I returned home. Somehow Joe managed to make his escape after he had quieted down, and came straightway home, and for a long time we were kept in a constant state of fear and anxiety about him. But at length, on sister's marriage to Mr. Clements of Maryland, her husband sold him down the river. Though Joe seemed to have recovered and only had occasional spells, he always made his way home after them; he said he wouldn't be contented any other place. It was during the Civil War, and after Joe had been gone a long time, and the Federal troops had taken possession of our place, one day as we all stood talking I said to the children, ‘ I wonder if poor Joe is alive! if he is, I'm afraid he will come back to us.’ A few minutes later who should enter the gate but Joe, with a big bag of something over his shoulder. He came with a broad grin on his face, and a ‘ Howdy, Miss 'Scilla!’ and set down the bag at my feet. ‘ Here I is at last!’ he said. ‘ I done heerd dat Mass Lambert was daid, and Miss Josephine too, so I's come home to help you, I is! an' here's some sweet-taters I brought yer!’ So he staid, and all that winter he chopped my wood and made my fires, and did not want me to pay him a cent. He worked in the hospital the rest of the time. When the war was ended, Joe got his back pay to the amount of several hundred dollars. He brought it straight to me and wanted me to accept it. 'No, Joe,' I said, 'I can't take your money, you have earned it and you must keep it yourself.' 'Well Miss 'Scilla, if I was to die an' leave it to ye, would ye be too proud to take it then?' I replied 'No Joe, of course not, but I think you'll need it all.' Not long after that Joe bade us good-bye and left town with a white man, and we never saw him again. We always believed he had been murdered for his money. Poor Joe, so good hearted and loyal to our family; he deserved a better fate.

The Genealogical Line of Thomas Buckner*

I. JOHN BUCKNER, the immigrant, Essex Co., 1667.

II. RICHARD BUCKNER, son of above, Clerk of Essex Co., 1703; afterwards of Caroline Co.; married Elizabeth Cooke. Richard Buckner's will was proved March 4, 1733. Issue:

1. Richard, of Caroline Co.
2. William, of "The Neck," Caroline Co.
3. Philip.
4. Elizabeth.
5. John.

III. The Philip above named, date of whose birth is unknown, lived in Louisa Co., where his will was proved in 1762. He married Jane, sister of John Aylett of King William Co., by whom he had issue seven children, viz.:

1. William, of whom presently.
2. Ann.
3. Thomas.
4. Mary.
5. Philip.
6. Elizabeth.
7. Aylett.

In the records of Louisa Co., there is a deed dated Oct., 1767, from Jane Buckner of Orange Co., to William Hughes of Louisa, conveying part of a tract of land formerly belonging to Mr. John Aylett of King William Co., and by him left to the said Jane Buckner, his sister.

The will of Philip Buckner is dated July 14, 1761, and is proved in Louisa Co., Aug. 10, 1762. In it he mentions his wife Jane; son William, to whom he leaves land in Orange Co.;

* EDITORIAL NOTE.—According to family tradition, Thomas Buckner belonged to Spottsylvania Co. His father's name was William, and his grandfather's Philip. A careful examination of the records of Gloucester, Essex, Louisa and Orange counties enables us to carry the pedigree back to the original immigrant, John Buckner. The oft-recurring names of Thomas and William are apt to be confusing, but the recorded evidence, combined with family tradition, shows the line of descent to be as above.

daughter Ann; son Thomas; daughter Mary; son Philip; daughter Elizabeth; son Aylett.

From the above will, it is probable that the names of the children are given in the order of their birth. There is also no doubt but that William was the eldest child. In confirmation of this supposition, we turn to a deed of conveyance, which is in Deed Book 14, of the Orange Co. records :

"27 June, 1765. Jane Buckner (late Jane Robinson), to her "eldest son and heir-at-law, William Buckner. Whereas, sd. "Jane Buckner, while sole being possessed in her own right of "sundry negro slaves, together with Christopher Robinson, after- "wards her husband, did make a certain deed of trust dated 28 "Feby. 1740, whereby sd. Christopher and sd. Jane did convey "the sd. slaves to Ann Aylett of King William Co., in trust for "the sd. Jane (in case she survived the sd. Christopher) during her "life, and after her death, in trust to and for the heirs lawfully "begotten of the body of the sd. Jane forever, and whereas the sd. "Jane having survived the sd. Christopher and intermarried with "Philip Buckner, by whom she hath issue the said William "Buckner, her eldest son and heir-at-law, who is now of the age "of 21 years and married, conveyance of sd. negro slaves, etc., etc."

Here we have evidence that William was the eldest child of Philip and Jane Buckner, and as William was of the age of 21 years in 1765, he must have been born about the year 1744. William's brother Philip was born in 1753, and from the latter is descended General Simon Bolivar Buckner of Kentucky.

Tradition has it, that Thomas Buckner's father (ancestor of Mrs. Tuley) was named William, and that the latter's parents were Philip and Jane Buckner. The before-mentioned Philip and Jane Buckner are the only ones found bearing those Christian names who were living at that time. The family tradition states William to have been of Spottsylvania Co. The records of the latter county contain but two references to William Buckner. He was a witness to a deed in 1769, and again in 1775. In 1789 Thomas Buckner of Spottsylvania Co., is mentioned as one of the executors of the will of Francis Purvis. This Thomas, born 1765 or '66, may have been the son of William Buckner.

William Buckner of Orange and Spottsylvania counties married Sally Thomas, a daughter of Edmund, Jr., and Sally (Pendleton), Thomas. Both the Pendleton and Thomas families were very prominent in the above-named counties. In 1767 Sarah Buckner was witness to a deed in Spottsylvania, and it is extremely probable that she was then the wife of William Buckner, as the eldest child of the latter was born about 1765.

There is a deed in the Spottsylvania records dated Dec., 1739, in which "Joseph Thomas, Gent., and Sarah his wife convey to Zachary Lewis part of a tract of land in Spotts. Co., which was granted by patent 16 June, 1727, to Rowland Thomas, father of said Joseph."

No evidence has been found as to the parentage of Hannah Burton, wife of Thomas Buckner. The only record of Burton in the Spottsylvania records is of one Thomas, who was witness to a deed in 1730. It is possible he may have been the father of the above-named Hannah.

The line of descent of Thomas Buckner as prepared by Mrs. Tuley is given below, together with certain additions and corrections which have been forwarded by members of the family since Mrs. Tuley's record appeared in print.

This is the Thomas Buckner pedigree as far as known to his grandchildren. Mrs. Unetta Childs of Frankfort, daughter of Thos. Buckner's sister, Sally Buckner, who married Mr. Sutton, gives this account obtained from her mother, long deceased. In Spottsylvania Co., Va., Wm. Buckner married a Miss Sally Thomas; her mother's maiden name was Sally Pendleton, who married Edmund Thomas, Jr., son of an eminent lawyer, Edmund Thomas, Sr. This Wm. Buckner was the father of Thomas Buckner. Mrs. Unetta Child's record is as follows:

WM. BUCKNER married Sally Thomas. Issue 10 children:

Thomas Buckner, born about 1765 or '66, married Hannah Burton, 1787; died 1827.

Wm. Buckner, Junior, "went to Nashville."

George.

Robert.

John, "died in Bolivia Expedition."

Ambrose.

Betsy, married Mr. Grant.

Sally, married Wm. Sutton, who lived in Shelbyville, Ky., and died there.

Kate Buckner.

Fanny Buckner, married Henderson.

Of these brothers and sisters of Thomas Buckner who were born, and presumably raised in Spottsylvania Co., Va., we know nothing, except in the case of his sisters: Betsy, married to Mr. Grant; and Sally, married to Mr. Sutton; Fanny married a Henderson, and the fact that the brother next to Thomas "went to Nashville." He probably emigrated to Kentucky with his brother Thomas, then went farther south to Tennessee. There is a Mr. Matt Buckner living in Nashville now, with his son, Dr. Matt Buckner, who may be descendants of Thomas Buckner's brother William. The following is the record of Thomas Buckner's children, obtained from Mrs. Adelaide Defrees of South Bend, Indiana, who had it from her mother, Louisa Buckner, one of the youngest daughters of Thomas Buckner, who married Mr. Jesse Hughes of Tennessee. If the date of the emigration to Kentucky is correct, 1795, the five eldest children of Thomas Buckner must have been born in Virginia, and the rest in Jefferson County, Kentucky. This is Mrs. Defrees' record of the names and order in which Thomas Buckner's children were born. The dates of births of a few being known, together with the date of marriage of Thomas and Hannah Buckner, the date of birth of the other children is completed by allowing one and a half years between each child, as tradition asserts.

acteristics. She was helpmeet to such a man as one may not meet once in a lifetime; like a Damascus blade—fine, strong, keen, incisive, supple; only one of his own type and level could describe and interpret him. From his well stored mind treasures of knowledge poured forth in conversation with unflinching memory, and one left his presence enriched and stimulated to new and higher thought. Never ponderous or tiring, but flashes of humor and drollery made him irresistibly charming. True and tender as husband and father was he; loyal, upright, good and kind. As a lawyer he was recognized as one of the greatest in Missouri, if not in the entire West. He died January, 1884, and we shall not see his like again. Mrs. Glover died June 27, 1905.

To you of the rising generation of our family I wish to say that you come of a good, sound stock, not titled or particularly brilliant perhaps, but so far as I can learn they have for the most part belonged to that sturdy middle class which is always and everywhere the backbone of the social system and the bulwark of national greatness. See that you keep the name clean, and make it revered. A few Buckners have distinguished themselves here and there, and there are doubtless those who have disgraced their kin, but on the whole they have been a self-respecting and honest people, with proper pride of character, which would not let them do a mean thing, doing their duty in the station to which they are called as private citizens or public officials, for

SPRING HILL—HOME OF JOHN WASHINGTON FIRST HOME OF THOMAS AND LUCY (FITZHUGH) BUCKNER

John Buckner of Caroline County

JOHN BUCKNER, third of that name, was a son of Richard and Elizabeth Cooke Buckner. His wife's name was Sarah, and she is believed to have been a Buckner before her marriage. We know, positively, that the above John and Sarah Buckner had a son Philip, and there is a tradition that they had other children. It has been impossible, however, to find any trace of them; neither can anything be ascertained regarding John Buckner and his wife, owing to the destruction of the court records.

Philip Buckner of Kentucky

Philip Buckner was born in Caroline County, Va., on May 13th, 1747. Early in life, being fond of travel and adventure, he engaged in commercial pursuits and frequently crossed the Atlantic to England, the home of his ancestors. The scraps of history and anecdote concerning his life in England that have been handed down in the family have led some persons to suppose that he was the immigrant ancestor, but such is not the fact. On Sept. 9th, 1772, he married Tabitha Ann Daniel, the daughter of Captain William and Elizabeth Daniel, of Port Royal, Caroline County, a lady of culture and of fine family.

During the Revolutionary War, Captain Buckner's patriotism was unswerving, and he expended his energies and his private fortune in the cause of Virginia. He held the position of Commissary, and in payment for the supplies which he furnished the army from his own means, he received numerous Land Office Treasury Warrants from the Commonwealth of Virginia, which was then poor in money but rich in prospective lands.

By virtue of these Warrants he obtained, at different periods, large grants of Kentucky and Ohio lands, consisting of many thousands of acres. One grant alone was for seven thousand acres situated in what is now Fayette County, Ky., and which at that time included a vast territory.

It will be remembered that at the close of the Revolution Kentucky was a part of Virginia, and known as Kentucky County. It was provided that lands to satisfy the Warrants issued should be located in Kentucky County, and when suitable lands were no longer available there, they could be located on the north of the Ohio River between the Sciota and Big Miami rivers.

Captain Buckner made his first visit to Kentucky in 1783, and at least one more trip prior to 1793, in which year he brought out his family and servants, forty negroes, and a party of his neighbors. He had located a large tract on the South bank of the Ohio, the site of the present city of Augusta. He had originally selected this land for a home when the party was traveling down the Ohio in keel boats, and it was his intention to land at this point; but finding that the Indians were giving trouble, Captain Buckner continued on down the river to Bear Grass Station, then a frontier military post, and now the site of the city of Louisville, Ky.

Leaving his family there in safe quarters, he returned to Virginia and inducing other families to enter into the expedition, he piloted them down the river, and they, with others who rapidly followed, established a colony at Augusta; and soon the cabins of civilization sprang up in place of the Indian wigwam. The colony having in due course become a safe place of habitation, Captain Buckner removed his family to his own land.

His services were also demanded at Fort Washington, now Cincinnati, Ohio, and through this post of duty he received a large grant of land in Ohio.

Being an enterprising business man and equipped with these Treasury Warrants from Virginia his transactions in land were extensive; and through various manipulations, as shown by land office records in Virginia, and in Frankfort, Maysville, Lexington and Brooksville, Kentucky, and also in Ohio, he acquired enormous possessions of land.

In 1795 he built for his family the first brick house in the town of Augusta, the foundation of which has now disappeared. On the 2d day of October, 1797, Captain Buckner gave six hundred acres of land to the town of Augusta and vested the title in Trustees appointed by the County Court, thus founding the present city of Augusta.

A portion of the plot being divided into city lots and sold at auction, the proceeds of which were to be devoted to the improvement of the site, Captain Buckner purchased a large proportion of them, and thus again acquired possession of a part of the city which he again donated at different times to public institutions—one being the College Lot, where the present magnificent school building stands; another, the old Court House lot, which is now the city park.

The officers of the first court held in Bracken County were his sons-in-law; John Blanchard, Judge; Willis Hord, Clerk; John Pickett, Attorney and Dickinson Morris, Sheriff.

Captain Buckner represented the County of Bracken as Representative, in which capacity he served for two terms, and as Senator for four years. Among the names appended to the second Constitution of Kentucky, adopted 1799, is that of Philip Buckner.

In 1799 the General Assembly of Kentucky, of which Captain Buckner was a member, donated six thousand acres of land to educational purposes. This land was sold and the proceeds were vested in Trustees who fixed the seat of the institution in Augusta, upon a lot donated by Captain Buckner. By this act the first college in the United States west of the Alleghenies, was located in Augusta.

On the 21st of December, 1821, the Ohio and Kentucky Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church entered into a contract with the trustees and established "Augusta College," the first college in the world to be established under the care and patronage of the Methodist denomination. From this great school of learning was graduated a host of distinguished men. Thus the public career of Philip Buckner speaks for itself, showing his influence towards the education and development of his fellow men.

That he was a man of originality and courage is self-evident. His philanthropy and generosity are shown by the official records, still preserved in the archives of Bracken and Mason counties, of farms given away to poor men for such considerations as "Fifty cents," "A spotted calf," or "A sorrel colt."

His home was noted far and near for its hospitality. It was a place of feasting for his friends and neighbors, and a harbor of refuge for the poor and needy. Simon Kenton was a frequent and welcome visitor, and on one occasion was there nursed through a serious illness.

As Captain Buckner grew older his love of retirement asserted itself. He wanted more space in which to live, to hunt and fish and follow the chase, and, still having the pioneer spirit, he went fourteen miles into the wilderness, where he built another home.

For years it was a great hunting seat, where game was plentiful and sport fine. Many anecdotes have been handed down of the quaint humor and entertaining wit of this eccentric old gentleman.

On the day preceding his death, feeling the premonition of its approach, he ordered a feast prepared for his friends, according to his old custom. At its close, in bidding them farewell, he told them to go to their homes and he, too, would go to his last resting place.

Heroically and calmly he fell asleep that night, and true to his word passed into the great "Beyond." His death occurred October 24th, 1820. His wife survived him a number of years and died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Orr, Sr., near Augusta, Ky., Sept. 19th, 1838. She was born Jan. 15th, 1756.

On the second day of October, 1897, the city of Augusta celebrated its centennial when due honor was paid to its founder, Philip Buckner, "Who," in the words of Governor W. O. Bradley, at that time Governor of Kentucky, and the orator of the day, "had one hundred years before rode his gallant steed over the Virginia hills to the beautiful river and marked the spot forever for his home." Thousands of people assembled for the occasion from far and near, and appropriate addresses were made giving the history of the early settlers; and an Original Centennial Ode was recited by Mrs. Mary Armstrong Bayless, a great granddaughter of Philip Buckner.

Thus after many years a just and merited tribute was paid by a grateful community to the memory of a truly good and great man.

William Buckner of Caroline County

WILLIAM BUCKNER of "The Neck," Caroline County, was a son of Richard and Elizabeth (Cooke) Buckner of Essex, and afterwards of Caroline County. He is believed to have married a widow—Judith Hawes, who was the daughter of William Aylett of King William County.

William Buckner may be considered as the founder of the branch of the family located at "The Neck," but owing to the destruction of family records, little can be ascertained as to his life, or even the date of his death. It is possible he may have been the William who is mentioned in the court records as a Justice of Caroline County in June, 1768. His son, William, was a Justice, and in August, 1768, we find a record of William Buckner, Jr., serving in that capacity.

Judith Hawes Buckner was noted for her ungovernable temper, and family pride. It was no unusual occurrence for her to horse-whip her negro coachman, when she thought the occasion demanded such treatment; in consequence of which, she was universally known as—Lady Buckner. Her dying request was, that she be buried beneath the pavement of the aisle of the old wing of Rappahannock church—of which she had become a member—which was occupied by the poor; as an act of self-abasement for the pride she had manifested, and the contempt she had exhibited towards the common people during her life, alleging that—"she wanted those she had looked down upon, to walk over her when she was dead."

William and Judith Hawes Buckner had known issue:

- I. William Buckner.
- II. Francis Buckner.
- III. Richard Buckner, afterwards of "Albany," Westmoreland County.
- IV. George Buckner.
- V. Thomas Buckner.

Although William Buckner has been placed first amongst the above named children, no authority can be given for his right of priority. He is known, however, to have inherited his father's estate at "The Neck," although that fact alone, is not to be considered as conclusive evidence of his primogeniture; as it was of frequent occurrence in those days for a younger son to inherit the family estate. If he was the eldest son, he must have married rather late in life, as his first child was not born until 1766.

William Buckner, 2nd, married Dolly Roy, who is said to have been of the Roy family of Spottsylvania County. In the records of this county we find a Dolly Roy, who was the wife of John Roy of St. Mary's Parish, Caroline County, in 1733, but there is no mention of a daughter by that name. William and Dollie Roy Buckner of the "The Neck," had issue:

1. William Aylett Buckner.

3. Roy Buckner.
4. Richard Buckner.

William was a Justice of Caroline County in 1804. By her second marriage, Charlotte Buckner had issue three children:

Francis Buckner of Caroline County

ACCORDING to family tradition Francis Buckner was a son of William and Judith (Hawes) Buckner of "The Neck." We have, unfortunately, no documentary evidence to support it; but in the Spottsylvania records there is a deed under the date of Jan. 23, 1793, in which "Benjamin McWilliams and Letitia his wife of Spottsylvania County, convey to Francis Buckner of Caroline County for £192 currency, 320 acres, a part of a tract of land given the said Benjamin by his father, William McWilliams."

It is also claimed that the above named Francis was a cousin of the Francis Buckner who married Martha Upshur; their respective fathers being William Buckner 2d, and Richard Buckner 2d, two of the sons of Richard Buckner who was Clerk of Essex.

There is some conflicting testimony in regard to the name of the wife of Francis Buckner. One tradition states that she was Elizabeth Thornton, and another, that she was named Lucy Madison. The names of both Thornton and Madison were used by Francis Buckner as given names for three of his children. It is possible that Francis Buckner was married twice; his first wife being a Thornton and his second a Madison. We can find no data concerning his life, and the time of his death is unknown. He had, however, the following issue :

Richard Buckner of Westmoreland County

ICHARD BUCKNER of "Albany," Westmoreland County, son of William and Judith (Hawes) Buckner of "The Neck," Caroline County, was born probably about 1730-5. He was one of the signers of "The Westmoreland Protest," which Richard Henry Lee wrote and presented against the Stamp Act in 1765. He married Eliza Ariss, only child of Spencer Ariss and Sarah Ataway, and granddaughter of Richard Ariss.

From certain deeds, we learn that Sarah (Ataway) Ariss married one Pierce, and that her first husband died previous to 1792.

Will of Richard Buckner

In the name of God, Amen. I, Richard Buckner of the County of Westmoreland, being sick and weak of body but of sound mind and memory, thanks be to God for the same, do make and ordain this to be my last will and testament, in manner following, viz:

Imprimis, my will and desire is that a double tombstone be sent for to Great Britain nine months after my death, value about thirteen pounds sterling, with this humble inscription. "Underneath this stone lies the bodies of Richard and Elizabeth Buckner, who lived to a good old age, and then dropped like ripe fruit from the stock."

Item. I desire that my brother Francis Buckner's estate shall not be liable for any part of my Father's debts to Robert Giterest; property being left in my hands for that purpose.

Item. I desire that my Executors shall advertize in nine months after my death for Alexander Conntee to bring his account against me, so it may be paid, amounting as I suppose to about fourteen pounds.

Item. I give and bequeath to my son Ariss Buckner, the four following negroes at the death of his grandmother. Jenny, Milly, Betty and Billy.

The Buckners of Virginia

Item. I give likewise to my son Ariss Buckner my two guns, and confirm to him all the articles I have before given by letter.

Item. I give and bequeath to my grandson James Richard Miller, two negro boys, Jack and James.

Item. I give to my granddaughter Lucy Roy Miller, two negro girls, Les and Dinah and their future increase. These two bequests not to take place until after the death of my wife Elizabeth Buckner.

Item. It is my desire that a certain Mr. Scott a joiner who worked on a vessel of mine, shall receive out of my estate, one hogshead of tobacco, and Mr. Thomas Miller to see it paid.

Item. All the rest of my estate of what kind soever not already given, I give and bequeath to my loving wife Elizabeth Buckner, such as negroes with their future increase, also all the stocks of cattle, sheep, horses and hogs, with all the household and kitchen furniture, and all the crops of corn and wheat, tobacco, etc., with all debts due and demands of whatsoever kind or nature; to be disposed of by her in any manner she thinks proper, only subject to this restriction, that if she marries, she shall only be entitled to her thirds.

Item. It is my will and desire that my said wife shall be burthened with the payments of all my just debts.

Lastly, I nominate and appoint my loving wife Elizabeth Buckner my sole executrix of this my last Will and Testament in manner and form. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 15th day of October, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-three.

(Signed) RICHARD BUCKNER.

- F. Aylett Hawes Conway, son of Mary Hawes Buckner and Thomas Conway, married a cousin—Kate Fitzlugh of Caroline County.

BAILEY BUCKNER, second son and fifth child of Richard Henry and Charlotte (Hawes) Buckner, was born at "The Neck," Caroline County, Oct. 11, 1789. He removed to Culpeper County, where he met and married in 1814, Mildred, daughter of John and Helen (Piper) Strother of "Wadefield." (See Strother Family.)

Bailey Buckner was one of the most popular and prominent men of his time. Handsome in face, graceful in mien—he was considered the beau ideal of a Southern gentleman. Liberal and fond of entertaining his friends at his beautiful and hospitable home, "Wadefield," he was ably seconded by his accomplished wife, a woman of tireless energy, great vitality and strong personality. In those days of good house wives, she was known far and near for the excellent management of her household, the care and well-being of her servants, and for her well appointed and luxurious table. She took great pride in her husband's successful career, as well as in her boys at College, being a most devoted and tender mother, and it was her pardonable boast "that several of her sons could read Cæsar at the age of twelve." Upon the death of her husband she took entire charge of "Wadefield," which she managed so admirably as to rear and educate her large family of children in the manner their birth and position warranted.

Being a fluent and ready speaker, Baily Buckner naturally drifted into politics, and during his early manhood was appointed Deputy Sheriff of Rappahannock County, and was afterwards elected Sheriff. The old note book used by him in his official capacity, containing much interesting and valuable data relative to Rappahannock and Culpeper families of that period, is now in the possession of Henry C. Kirk, Jr., of Baltimore, Md., who is a direct descendant.

At the breaking out of the war with Great Britain in 1812, Bailey Buckner joined Captain Benjamin Cole's Company of the 5th Virginia Militia of Culpeper. He served as Serjeant at Camp Randolph and Camp Holly under Major William Armistead, and then as Lieutenant under Colonel John H. Cocke. He was promoted to the grade of Ensign, July 2, 1813, and Lieutenant, Dec. 7, 1813. After the war, he held a position of trust in the Treasury Department at Washington. The engraving of Bailey Buckner, depicts him in the uniform of a Lieutenant of the 5th Virginia Militia, and is a reproduction from the original painting on ivory.

Bailey Buckner died at "Wadefield," Rappahannock County, in 1832, aged 43 years, his early death cutting short the career of a most brilliant and popular man. His widow died at "Wadefield" in 1875, in the 80th year of her age. Issue:

Aylette Hawes Buckner received his finishing education at the University of Virginia, and while yet a mere boy was a teacher in the Washington Academy in Rappahannock County. He removed at the age of 21 years to Missouri and located in Pike County. In 1850 he moved to St. Louis and entered upon the practice of his profession, the law. He was chosen attorney for the Bank of the State of Missouri during the year following, and in 1854 was appointed commissioner of public works by Governor Sterling Price. He subsequently returned to Pike County and was elected Judge of the Circuit Court in 1857. In 1861 he was chosen by the State Legislature as a delegate to the peace congress. During the war he moved to St. Charles, but spent most of his time in St. Louis. He took an active part in politics and was a trusted adviser of the Democratic party during the reconstruction period. Although not permitted to vote, his counsel was sought by the anti-radical leaders of that period. He warmly advocated the coalition between the Liberal Republicans, led by Grattz Brown and Carl Shurz, in 1870, with the Democrats, which resulted in the election of Brown over McClurg, the election of the Democratic legislature which sent Frank P. Blair to the United States Senate, and the enfranchisement of thousands of ex-Confederates.

In 1872, Judge Buckner became a candidate for Congress in the district which then embraced Audrain, Callaway, Monroe, Lincoln, Montgomery, Pike, Ralls, St. Charles and Warren Counties. Judge A. J. King was serving his first term and he and Judge Buckner were residents of the same county, St. Charles. Judge Theodore Brace, now of the Supreme Court, was also a candidate and had the support of his home county, Monroe, and one of the three delegates from Warren. Judge King had St. Charles, and the remainder of the counties were for Judge Buckner. Judge Buckner was elected over Judge T. J. C. Fagg by a large majority. During the same campaign he was sent as a delegate to the National Democratic Convention, and refused to vote to make the nomination of Horace Greeley unanimous, and supported O'Conner for the Presidency. In 1874, 1876 and 1878 he was renominated and re-elected without opposition. In 1880, Hon. A. M. Alexander of Monroe, became a candidate and carried his home county and Lincoln, but Judge Buckner had an easy victory in the convention. In 1882 his only opponent in the nominating convention was the Hon. Champ Clark, who received the vote of his home county.

The Buckners of Virginia

In the redistricting in 1881, Callaway and Monroe Counties were taken from the district, and Franklin was added. At the close of his sixth term Judge Buckner voluntarily retired from Congress. For a brief period he resided on his farm at Saline, but soon returned to Mexico, where he spent the remainder of his life.

Judge Buckner died Feb. 5, 1894, at nine o'clock in the morning, just three months, almost to the hour, from the time he was stricken with paralysis. The funeral was held at the Presbyterian Church at Mexico, Mo., the services being conducted by the pastor, the Rev. A. A. Wallace. The attendance was extremely large and evidences of sorrow were everywhere manifest. The Circuit Court adjourned during the funeral services out of respect to his memory.

Judge Buckner was a tender and trusting husband and father, an unflinching friend, an unpretentious but sincere Christian, and a model citizen. Issue:

MAJOR CALDWELL CALHOUN BUCKNER

MAJOR CALDWELL CALHOUN BUCKNER, youngest son of Bailey and Mildred (Strother) Buckner, was born at "Wade-field," Feb. 9, 1829; died May 22, 1898; married at "Chestnut Valley," Caroline County, Nov. 22, 1853, Louisa Fitzhugh Dickinson, daughter of William I. Dickinson, and his wife, Jane Richard Buckner, who was a daughter of Thomas Buckner of "Lake Farm," Caroline County.

William I. Dickinson was a large land and slave owner, and a most successful planter. When a young man, he was elected Sheriff of Caroline County. His daughter, Louisa Fitzhugh Dickinson was a woman of sterling qualities. Her disposition was modest and retiring, and her axiom through life was "peace at any price, save with the loss of honor." She demanded from others, the respect she gave to them. Generous to a fault, universally popular, beloved by rich and poor alike, she was composed, dignified and patient in every emergency, and exercised a gentle restraining influence upon the strenuous nature of her husband, Major Buckner. Mrs. Buckner died Jan. 9, 1902, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. William G. Brown of Philadelphia, and is buried at West Laurel Cemetery in that city.

Major Buckner was educated at Rappahannock Academy, and afterwards entered into the mercantile business in Baltimore. Later on, he became a partner with Charles Bayne, the father of Howard R. Bayne of New York. Soon after his marriage, he removed to Spottsylvania County, and lived at "Marengo," where his second son, William Dickinson Buckner was born. In 1858 he purchased "Island View," in Orange County, and began raising thoroughbred stock, of which he was an excellent judge. He often joked with his neighbors by reminding them that "General Grant's men selected seventeen of his thoroughbreds, while they did not take any of theirs."

Although Major Buckner was a Southerner from head to foot, yet he did all in his power to oppose secession, but when war was declared, he felt that it was his duty to stand by his state, whereupon he joined General Rosser's Brigade of Cavalry, and was a member of the 7th Virginia Regiment. That he was gallant and courageous in the face of the enemy was but natural, considering the line of brave men from whom he was descended. The following letter addressed to him at the conclusion of the war by General Charles Henningson, is an attestation of his bravery under trying circumstances.

WASHINGTON, MARCH 3, 1877.

COL. C. C. BUCKNER,

Dear Sir :

In reply to yours, I have no copy of the document to which you refer, nor even the precise date of the order ; though there is a channel through which I may perhaps obtain it. Of the substance I have a very distinct recollection. It warmly commended the gallantry of McCulloch's Rangers in a skirmish with the advanced guard of General Rosecranz, which descending the Big Sewell attempted vigorously to drive in our outposts, and reconnoitre or establish itself in our position of Camp Defiance.

Special notice was deservedly made of the conduct of Lieut. C. C. Buckner commanding the company on that occasion.

I the more readily remember this because it was the only order of the kind I was called on to issue during my connection with the Wise Legion, and because of other peculiar circumstances. More than a week previously, General Floyd with several thousand men retired precipitately late in the afternoon from the Big Sewell, which he had been occupying, and abandoning some stores, retreated many miles eastward into an absurd position, notifying verbally General Wise that Rosecranz was coming up the valley with sixteen thousand men, and ordering the former to prepare to follow him and protect his rear. This Wise could only do by remaining where he was, on ground which had extraordinary defensive capabilities, for any one capable of appreciating them. Here Wise determined to make a stand at all hazards and despite all orders to the contrary, and it was hence called Camp Defiance, with double reference to Floyd's command and Rosecranz's advance. As an impression prevailed that our force was less than it really was at this time, I ascertained by personal count that we numbered over seventeen hundred bayonets and artillerymen. You may remember that Wise addressed the troops, as I did briefly afterwards stating the fact. Wise also left it optional with any man or officer who chose, to retire eastward as escort for some quartermasters stores then about to be sent off. He said further that he did not believe that Rosecranz had the force alleged, but whether he had or not, he meant to fight there to the bitter end, and believed he could "stay till the cows came home." No man or officer went to the rear, the troops cheered and the command seemed tolerably confident. There were, however, a few officers who had seen war before who privately expressed to me their misgivings that troops so utterly raw could make a stand against such an obviously great disparity of force. I had some anxiety myself as to the result for the first half hour, in case we were at once attacked in more than one direction. That affair at the foot of the Big Sewell dispersed all apprehension. The enemy were not only vigorously repulsed, but the McCulloch rangers under your lead drove them to the top of the hill, which we might have temporarily occupied had it been our purpose to do so. You were recalled to where originally stationed, and here several weeks afterwards when General Rosecranz was camped on the Big Sewell with 10,000 and General Lee in Camp Defiance with a larger force was many days opposite to him, when Rosecranz finally retreated down the valley, your company was still at the front, exactly where it had at first been placed. This affair therefore had a significance which did not attach to subsequent skirmishes, or even sanguinary engagements. It was no small merit to have been able to command those Rangers and reduce them to discipline and obedience, as was done by Imboden, their gallant captain and yourself. They had literally "kicked out the worthless officers" they had first elected ; they had set orders at defiance, plundered and were in a chronic state of mutiny. They would not have officers from their own ranks. They "wanted gentlemen over them," they said, but "gentlemen who were men." Imboden and you were selected and reluctantly undertook the arduous duty, which no one else could be found willing to attempt, and with the creditable success of rendering that company the most obedient and manageable in the whole force, I am, dear sir,

Very truly yours,

(Signed) CHAS. FREDERICK HENNINGSON.

At the end of the war, finding the day had gone against him, he accepted the inevitable with equanimity and resignation; bearing in his noble heart "malice to none." In after years, nothing gave him greater pleasure than to entertain as friends, those who had once been his enemies; and in this connection we quote from the "History of the 14th Connecticut Volunteers," who during the war had seen some severe fighting in the vicinity of the Buckner homestead, and who revisited their old battlefields in 1891.

" From this place we went to the ford, driving across with the water deep to the wagon body. Going over the hill to the Morton House we turned to the left and stopped to make inquiries at a house prominent in view on the hill. A man of elderly appearance and stately mien approached the gate to speak to us. He was the proprietor of the place, and announced himself to us as Major Caldwell C. Buckner. He pressed us to enter his grounds and prolong our stay. He was cordial, affable, courteous and intelligent, awakening our interest in him at once. When introduced to each of us in turn and told who we were, he seemed to enjoy the surprise given him, and he said with a merry twinkle of his eyes 'I should know you were not Southern gentlemen, for if you were a bottle would have been in sight before this.' He told us that he was in the Confederate service during most of the war. He said 'that when he got through the service he was thankful that he got through alive, and felt that he had had enough of war' that he was 'like the man who made a bargain with the devil, that if he would leave him alone, he would let him alone,' and that he had 'not been to a military meeting or a monument unveiling since.' He was surprised to learn from us how serious an engagement had taken place on his premises in February, 1864, having scarcely heard of it before. He regaled us with many witty stories and legends of the war days, and devoted himself assiduously to our entertainment, urging that we spend days with him. Failing to induce us to be his guests at table, he insisted on adding, on behalf of himself and his wife, sundry improvements to our lunch set out on his porch, such as conserves and relishes, and pitchers of milk and new cider, partaking with us somewhat for hospitality's sake. So, with such pleasurable sociability, resting on the grass in the shade, soldier fashion, looking over the battle-field and contrasting its appearance with that it bore on a certain chill and bloody day nearly twenty-eight years before, the halcyon hours of this unmatched day sped on until we saw that we must begone. Now our warm hearted host, loth to have us leave him, hunted up an excuse to detain us, and finding and bringing on some melons, we must, forsooth stay until these had been well discussed. When we in earnest started to leave, the Major accompanied us to his gate, showing signs of real regret at our departure."

This first meeting of the "Blue and the Grey,"—outside of battle—at the Buckner home, was followed by several others in the years to come, and that this chance meeting of "erstwhile" foes was cemented by a firm friendship is evinced by the following letters.

ISLAND VIEW, SEPT., 27, 1894.

REV. H. S. STEVENS, WASHINGTON, D. C.,

My Dear Friend:

Your valued letter of recent date is at hand, and I am gratified at the prospect of seeing the Fourteenth, and especially yourself and my other friends. It will afford me pleasure to turn my house, yard and farm over to them any day that you may come. I shall expect you, Col. Broach, Moore and eight or ten others of your own selection, to lunch with us on that day. . . . Since I saw you, I have given one of my daughters to a genuine, Simon pure Yankee, and a Pennsylvania Yankee at that, and after this I think I can be received as a member of your regiment.

Very truly and sincerely your friend,

C. C. BUCKNER.

THANKSGIVING DAY, NOV. 29, 1904.

MAJOR CALHOUN C. BUCKNER,
ISLAND VIEW, VIRGINIA.

Dear and Honored Sir:

Having at various times in very recent years enjoyed the hospitalities of your home and the courtesies of yourself and your family, we wish to indicate somewhat our appreciation of your kindness and our regard for you by sending you a clock—a Connecticut clock—right from the "Mint."

We hope our token will be acceptable to you, and that when at your fireside, enjoying your home with your dear ones, you gaze upon its face noting for you the halcyon moments as they pass, or when detained in your chamber by illness, or lying, mayhap, sometimes sleepless at the midnight hour, you hear its tone vibrating on the quiet air, you may be reminded that in distant homes men of Connecticut, who a few years ago were strangers to you have remembered you with feelings of the highest regard and the warmest and sincerest friendship.

(SIGNED BY 11 MEMBERS OF THE 14TH CONN. VOLS.)

At the close of the war Major Buckner returned to his estate, "Island View." He found his home swept of everything. Servants, blooded stock, machinery, barns, stables and fences all destroyed—only the house remaining. Being possessed of indomitable pluck and energy, he set himself to repair the ravages of war. His old black war horse, "Josh," and a yoke of oxen served him for a ploughing team, and he soon had crops growing. There was no meat to be had, but game was plentiful, so he picked up the army bullets which had peppered his fields and moulded them into gun-shot; and being a good wing shot he could fill his game bag and replenish the larder as often as necessary.

He was not the kind of man to repine at the adversities of war, indeed, adversity was simply a spur to higher achievements, but he set himself the task of preparing for the education of his children. Often has he said to them, "Boys, I'll mortgage my land to send you to school and college as long as you will be studious and diligent, for this is all you can expect to get from me, for a good education is the best inheritance an industrious boy can have."

Major Buckner was a most delightful host, and "Island View" a most hospitable home. Widely read, polished and refined in bearing, a deep and original thinker, his friends took especial delight in his entertainments and instructive conversation.

Worthy son of a worthy "Sire," he passed to his eternal rest May 22, 1898, meeting the end calmly and with Christian resignation. Issue:

WILLIAM DICKINSON BUCKNER, second son of Major Caldwell Callhoun and Louisa (Dickinson) Buckner, was born Aug. 4, 1856, at "Marengo," near Fredericksburg. His early education was derived at the Rappahannock Academy, he afterwards taking the scientific course at Randolph Macon College where he graduated in 1879. This course included Pure and Applied Mathematics, Chemistry, Geology, Physics, Philosophy, History, Astronomy, Political Science, and a special course in Engineering. He also took a three years' course in English, Latin and German. For two years after leaving college, he taught school and devoted his spare time to practical surveying. In 1881 he was assistant engineer on the extension of the Chesapeake & Ohio R. R. through eastern Kentucky. In Jan. 1882, was transitman-in-charge of a locating party and made the first surveys of the Kentucky Central R. R. between Paris and Winchester, Ky., and was later under Eppes Randolph, who was afterwards chief engineer of the Ohio River Bridge, Cincinnati and Western Division of the C. & O. R. R. He then became assistant engineer of construction on a Division of the Kentucky Central R. R.

In the Fall of 1883, Mr. Buckner went to Mexico as transitman on the Mexican and Western R. R., was advanced to be engineer in charge of location in 1884, and chief engineer of construction in 1885. While in Mexico, he became a fluent Spanish scholar. Being desirous of studying irrigation in California, he resigned his position in Mexico, and in 1886 was assistant to the city engineer of Los Angeles, Cal., and staked out the first electric railroad built in that city. He was chief engineer in 1888 of the Santa Ana & Pacific R. R., and had charge of the construction of the Southern Riverside Irrigation Canal, and various other large enterprises, while conducting a general engineering office in Los Angeles. In 1890, he went to Europe as assistant to the Vice-President of the Chino Land and Water Co., in establishing a plant and railroad connections for the Chino Sugar Beet Factory, which received the first bounty paid by the United States on beet sugar. During his sojourn abroad he studied and perfected himself in the French language.

LOUISE DICKINSON BROWN

Soon after his return to this country, Mr. Buckner was appointed chief engineer and superintendent of construction to the Cartagena-Magdalena R. R., of Columbia, S. A. Being much enfeebled in health through tropical fevers, he occupied himself during the years 1894 to 1897, in the promotion of real estate investments in New York, but in 1897 he once more turned to engineering, accepting the appointment of assistant chief engineer of the Guayaquil & Quito R. R., in the Republic of Ecuador. Owing to the poor health of the chief engineer, Wm. Finley Shunk, the responsibilities of the position were practically assumed by Mr. Buckner. He had charge of the engineering parties occupied in finding a way to climb the precipitous Andes, and was also made general manager of that portion of the road which was being operated by the Government of Ecuador.

Mr. Buckner's varied engineering life at the frontier has given him many novel experiences, some of which we take from the Worcester Telegram (Mass.) of February 9, 1902.

"William D. Buckner, New England manager of the Bond Department of Wood, Harmon & Co., with an office in the State Mutual building, has some extremely positive ideas on the Isthmian canal, based on three or four years' residence in Mexico and Central and South America.

"Mr. Buckner thinks the Panama route is by all means the best, and believes that the United States will make a great mistake if it decides upon the Nicaraguan way. The Panama route, he says, is not only much shorter, but the engineering problems presented are not nearly as difficult, and the ultimate cost, even with a bonus to the French company, will be much less. The Nicaraguan route is full of quicksands and the way lies through swamps where bottom cannot be found.

"The proposed Panama canal is to be nearly parallel with the Panama railroad, and at each terminus is a magnificent harbor and a great city. Viewed not only from the standpoint of an engineer, but also as a commercial problem, Mr. Buckner thinks that every advantage is with the Panama route.

"He went to Ecuador in 1898 as assistant chief engineer of the Ecuador Development Co., in which New York capitalists were interested, including former Mayor Abram S. Hewitt. The company obtained with much difficulty a valuable concession from the government of Ecuador, and extended a railroad running from Guayaquil to Chimbo through to Quito. Mr. Buckner witnessed a South American revolution and the story of his stay in Ecuador reads like a chapter from Richard Harding Davis' 'Soldiers of Fortune.'

"The chief engineer of the company was William F. Shunk, one of the celebrated engineers of the country. Mr. Buckner was assistant chief and superintendent of the railroad that was in operation when the company arrived in Ecuador, besides having charge of a section of the road that was building.

"The party left New York Oct. 8, 1898, on the steamer Advance, bound for Colon. The only particular happening of the passage was the knocking in of Mr. Buckner's stateroom door by a big wave one night, resulting in a salt water bath. The steamer passed near the Cuban coast, between Cuba and Hayti. The coast was rugged and mountainous and appeared to be uninhabited.

"Colon was reached Sunday, Oct. 15, at 7 o'clock, and one hour later the party took the railroad for Panama. Colon is an extremely unpleasant city. Its location was doubtless selected because of the fine, deep harbor. The country around is low and flat, with pools of black, stagnant water on every hand, and a rank tropical growth of vegetation in every space. The distance from Colon to Panama is 47 miles.

"The country is level most of the way, dotted here and there with small, coneshaped mountains, pushed up by volcanic eruptions in some pre-historic time. The country is thickly settled with negroes and Chinese, and a mixture of the two races. The only signs of agriculture are occasional gardens or banana groves. There were no signs of agriculture as a means of support.

"Before reaching Panama the mountains close together, forming a ridge, the connecting link between the Andes and Rocky mountains. Panama is a city of 36,000 people, with buildings almost entirely of wood, the chief building material of all South American cities. Fires are said to be common and destructive. The streets are narrow and come to a common center, like the spokes of a wheel. At the center is a park, the Spanish plaza. The people are slow and deliberate, this being especially noticeable to one accustomed to the bustle of New York. Bars, billiard and roulette tables at the hotels were doing a good business, for open gambling in various forms is licensed by nearly all the South American republics and is a considerable source of revenue. Sunday is a day of amusement. In Panama there is a lottery drawing every Sunday at 1 o'clock, a bull fight at 4 and the theatre at 8, with gay music by a band on the plaza between times.

"Mr. Buckner and party waited five days in Panama for a steamer, the Imperial, which carried them to Guayaquil, the seaport of Ecuador, in four days. Guayaquil, Mr. Buckner describes as an uncleanly city of about 30,000 inhabitants. Refuse matter of all kinds is thrown and allowed to remain in the streets, to the utter disregard of all sanitary law. The city is considered the third most unhealthy in the world. The two that are worse are Rio de Janeiro and a place on the coast of Africa, the name of which Mr. Buckner could not recall. The uncleanliness is apparent not only in the crowded streets of the city, but also in the country homes of the well-to-do. There seems to be no doubt but this uncleanliness is the leading cause of the terrible epidemics of disease that sweep the country.

"On the morning of Oct. 26 the party took the Quayaquil & Quito railroad, the only railroad in the country, for Chimbo, then its terminus. For 30 miles the way was over a dead level country, sometimes called the alluvial plain and fever district. The land was cultivated for sugar cane or grazed by cattle. Several large sugar-making plants were passed and one where a sort of brandy was made from sugar cane, called pisco. That is the drink of the common people. The Spanish gentleman drinks wine.

"This plain is frequently entirely submerged during the rainy season and the houses are built upon piles, from five to seven feet above ground.

"Beyond is a gentle rolling country, with higher elevation and better natural drainage. Here the banana and coffee are the staple products. These two grow on the same land at the same time, the luxuriant shade of the banana tree furnishing the necessary shade for the protection of coffee. Next came the foothills of the Andes, where the railroad takes the left bank of the Chimbo river, and begins to climb in earnest. Here, too, the vegetable kingdom seems to defy the power of man to subdue it. Plants, weeds and flowers of every description grow up to the very rails on either side of the track, forming almost a canopy under which the trains pass, with the leaves and branches brushing the windows.

"Chimbo is a small village located among the foothills of the Andes, owing its importance to the fact that it was the end of the railroad. Pack trains of horses, mules, donkeys and a few llamas came to the town from the mountain towns and cities above, leaving their burdens to be shipped by rail to the coast, and carrying back freight brought by rail from Guayamas. The pack trains brought down coffee, hides, roots, herbs and potatoes, which do not grow well in the hot climate around Guayaquil. The foothills are called hills in contrast to the towering Andes, but in reality are high mountains. The scenery is grand. The Chimbo river at Chimbo is nothing but a series of rapids, and is the only thing in the country that seems to be in a hurry.

"The work before the party was to continue the 55 miles of railroad from Guayaquil to Puente de Chimbo, and to Quito, a distance of 231 miles. The principal engineering difficulties were met between Chimbo and the plateau on which is situated Quito and other cities. After this plain was reached the work was comparatively easy. The construction work was in three sections, of which Chief Engineer Shunk was in charge of one, and Mr. Buckner was in charge of another. Mr. Buckner was also manager of the 55 miles of railroad already in operation, which was turned over to the American company by the government, according to the terms of the concession.

"Mr. Shunk was then 65 years old, an agreeable and entertaining man, with a vast and varied fund of information. It was his genius largely that constructed the elevated railroads of New York and Brooklyn, regarded among the greatest examples of engineering skill in the world.

"The concession to the American company was pushed through the Ecuador congress with great difficulty, as it was strongly opposed by the church party. The measure was finally adopted by a majority of one vote. The concession included the payment to the American company of 17,000,000 of Ecuador's silver dollars, worth 47 cents each in American money; the free right of way, together with immense tracts of land on each side of the railroad and other valuable privileges.

"The American company owns the railroad for 75 years, when it reverts to the government of Ecuador.

"Quito is 231 miles east and north of Chimbo, the terminus of the road at the time the concession was granted. There are only seven towns of any size between Guayaquil and Chimbo. The two largest have sugar factories with capacities of 50 tons each. These towns have a population of 1,200 and 2,200. The road is a narrow gauge. Before the railroad was built 70,000 mules and horses were used to bring freight from the mountains to Guayaquil. They traveled for the most part over a splendidly constructed national highway, with stone bridges over rivers and streams. After leaving Chimbo, going toward Quito, the grade rises rapidly, being 8,000 feet in 65 miles. The country in that direction is entirely mountainous and densely timbered with valuable hardwood, but without settlements of any consequence. From Sibambe the road runs across the center of the great plateau of central Ecuador to Quito, which is 9,350 feet above the sea level and has a delightful climate. It has a population of 65,000. The large towns of the plateau are Cajamba, 15,000; Riobamba, 60,000; Ambate, 30,000; Lacunja, 25,000; Manhache, 10,000. The plateau is 60 miles wide and 170 miles long, with an elevation of 9,500 feet, and is surrounded by snow-capped mountains. The snows feed the mountain streams, so there is an abundance of water all the year around.

"It is expected to equip the railroad with electricity some time soon and water will be relied on to furnish power. Along the line of the railroad are undeveloped coal fields and also traces of oil. Coal sells at from $10 to $18 a ton along the line of the railroad, and at Quito no fuel is used other than wood and charcoal.

"Mr. Buckner said yesterday that he couldn't begin to give an idea of the queer things he saw. One day, while ascending a steep mountain side, he met a rosy cheeked, buxom Indian lass driving three large black bulls loaded with cabbages. The road was extremely narrow, and he had to whoop and yell to keep the bulls from running into him and throwing him down the side of the cliff. The girl seemed to think she was having a bully time at his expense. She was about the color of a persimmon just turning. Nearly all the mountain people have a splendid ruddy color.

"Two nights of an engineering trip were passed in Indian huts or caverns made in the side of the mountains and thatched roofs thrown over them. 'The roads or trails I traveled over,' said Mr. Buckner, 'can never be described. Suppose you plant 500 deep churns closely on the side of a mountain cliff, fill them with oil, tar, mud and refuse two-thirds full, then try to ride over them as you come down the steep mountain side. It is not only exciting, but dangerous. Your mule must step into one of these churns each time, or else he will slip down the cliff. It was risky enough to undertake the descent of one of these slippery cliffs on a dark night, hoping to reach one of the engineering camps, and expecting that my mule would see, but she fell seven times in the first quarter of a mile, and I then tried it on foot, but fell down the side of the cliff and brought up in some jungle 30 feet below the path. I then slid the rest of the descent like Balaam going through Jerusalem, and reached the camp a sight to behold.

"After reaching the valleys of the interior the aspect of everything changes and is entirely different from the coast district. There you will see an Indian woman driving a herd of graceful llamas, each laden with vegetables for the market at Riobamba. As she trudges along the road with a baby peeping over her shoulder, she works a primitive spinning wheel, so that by the time she is at the end of her journey she will have a good supply of yarn ready spun.

"Riobamba is a city of more refined people and the prettiest girls in Ecuador. We got mixed up in a revolution, like Davis' characters in his book, the 'Soldiers of fortune.' We met Col. Alfaro, brother of the president, just as he was going out to battle with the revolutionists, and had to celebrate before his departure. Wines and champagne were in abundance and toasts were in order, of which Uncle Sam received the greater number. They went so far as to wish that Uncle Sam would come down and take charge of the whole of Ecuador and annex it to the United States. Whether this spirit was sincere or not I am not prepared to say, but it shows the way they talk in that country.

"I was located in Duran most of the two years that I was in the country and had quarters on the upper floor of the terminal building of the railroad. We could stand on the front balcony and shoot alligators and pelicans in the Guayas river.

"Just back of Duran was a lake 10 miles wide with an average depth of four feet. The lake teemed with wild duck. The railroad ran along the side of the lake, and we sometimes shot ducks from a flat car as they flew across the track.

"ISLAND VIEW"

It was great sport, as it required accurate shooting to hit a duck from a moving car. We took a canoe on the car and occasionally sent out an Indian to pick up the game.

“One night we had President Alfaro, president of the republic of Ecuador, and his official staff, at dinner, my idea being that we should feast him with the wild ducks and other game from the lake. But the odor from the ducks we had in stock lifted the cover from the ice chest and let them escape. We had no time to shoot more, but managed to get together a good bill of fare, and our duck supper became a banquet instead. Everything passed off nicely, including a dozen bottles of wine. We were greatly pleased with the success and results of the banquet.”

“Mr. Buckner remained in Ecuador until he was stricken with the fever that is the scourge of the country. He was critically ill for some time, but finally recovered and is now none the worse for his hardships.”

In October, 1901, Mr. Buckner accepted a position as New England manager of the Bond Department of Wood, Harmon & Co., of New York, and was afterwards made office manager of the Title Trust Co. of New York, of which Mr. William E. Harmon was managing director.

In 1904, Mr. Buckner was the organizer of the Prospect Park Bank of Brooklyn, N. Y., of which he is the first Vice-President and executive officer. The noteworthy success attending this venture has more than justified the wisdom and forethought that originally prompted the establishment of the institution. Under the management of its first Vice-President it has steadily grown and prospered, and is destined to become one of the strongest financial institutions of Greater New York.

In addition to his other achievements, Mr. Buckner has been a leading factor in many New York real estate transactions, which have proven both successful and profitable. He also finds time to conduct a large stock farm and shooting lodge at “Island View,” the family seat in Orange County, of which he is the owner. It may also be remarked “en passant,” that it is entirely due to Mr. Buckner’s tenacity and zeal, that the history of “The Buckners of Virginia” has, after many discouragements, taken tangible form in the production of this volume.

II. CAPTAIN GEORGE BUCKNER of “Braynefield,” Caroline County, son of George Buckner, was born 1760, and died Nov. 18, 1828. He is said to have served as an officer in the Revolutionary army. In 1789 he was a Justice of Caroline County, and was also member of the House of Delegates in the years 1798, 1799 and 1800. He was twice married, but left no issue by either wife. His second wife was Dorothea Brayne Benger, widow of Col. William McWilliams of Fredericksburg. She was a granddaughter of Elliott Benger who married Dorothea Brayne in Spottsylvania County Jan. 4, 1733. His estate was administered in the above named county in 1759. His son and heir, John Benger, married Elizabeth Johnston of Spottsylvania. He died in 1766, his will being probated Nov. 3, of that year. He left two daughters, Ann, who married William Thompson of Spottsylvania, Gent., and Dorothea, who married Capt. George Buckner. By this marriage the Buckners are allied with the Spottswood family, as Dorothea Brayne, who married Elliott Benger, was an aunt of John Spottswood who died in 1758, and who mentions in his will, "my part of the estate in England which will descend to me and my cousin, John Benger, after the death of my mother and her three sisters." Governor Alexander Spottswood married Butler Brayne who was one of the four daughters and co-heiresses of Richard Brayne of St. Margaret's Parish, City of Westminster, Gent., and his wife Anne Bagnold, daughter and sole heir of James Bagnold of Shierre, County of Surrey. The daughters, through their mother, were heirs to considerable landed estate in England, contained in the Manors of Greens Hall, Tower Hill and Grunshall Netty, in the County of Surrey, and the Manor of High Cheer in the County of Berkshire.

By his marriage to Dorothea (Brayne) McWilliams, Captain George Buckner became the owner of "Braynefield," Caroline County, which was one of the finest estates in that part of Virginia.

III. ELIZABETH BUCKNER, daughter of George Buckner of Caroline County, was probably the eldest child, as she was married in 1770 to John Washington who is believed to have been very closely connected with the family of President George Washington. Issue:

"BRAYNEFIELD"

RESIDENCE OF CAPT. GEORGE BÜCKNER

"You tell a pedigree of threescore."

—Henry VI.

Thomas Buckner of Gloucester County

THOMAS BUCKNER, one of the four sons of the first John Buckner of Virginia, resided in Gloucester County, and was one of the most prominent men in the Colony. He occupied several official positions of trust and emolument, being Coroner in 1702, Justice in 1705, Sheriff in 1712, and was a member of the House of Burgesses in 1718. He was also a member of the vestry of Petsworth Parish, and was one of the signers "versus Transubstantiation" in 1714.

He married previous to the year 1698, Sarah, a daughter of Captain Francis Morgan, who was a Justice for York County.

Thomas and Sarah Buckner had issue at least three children—Francis, Thomas and Ann. There is a tradition that they also had a son named Samuel, who eventually married the widow of Thomas Buckner, 2d. The identity of this Samuel Buckner is a moot point, as there must have been two Samuels living at the same period in Gloucester County. There was a Samuel Buckner who was Sheriff in 1732, Justice in 1739 and a member of the House of Burgesses in 1744, in which year he died. This Samuel could not have been the one who married Mary Timson, the second wife of Thomas Buckner, 2d, as Thomas Buckner did not die until 1755, while the Samuel above died in 1744.

One argument advanced against the possibility of Thomas and Samuel being brothers is, that the canons of the Church of England forbade the marriage of a man with his deceased brother's wife. But this is not a strong argument, as this Church law was frequently violated, especially in early Colonial days. One must bear in mind the exigencies of the times, and that the clergy of those days were extremely lax in upholding the rules of the church—as far as intermarriage was concerned.

If Samuel Buckner, who married the second Thomas Buckner's widow, was not the son of Thomas Buckner, 1st, then whose son was he?

Prof. William Carter Stubbs of New Orleans, has devoted much time to tracing the line of Samuel Buckner, and considerable weight must be given to his conclusions.

Prof. Stubbs is of the opinion, that the immigrants, John and Philip Buckner, had a brother Thomas who settled in Gloucester County, where he patented 1,000 acres of land in Petsworth parish in 1669, in conjunction with Thomas Royston, and that this Thomas may sometimes be confused with the Thomas Buckner who married Ann Morgan, and who was a son of the first John Buckner. Dr. Stubbs states that this Thomas Buckner lived near the "Dragon," and that he had issue, a son Samuel, a daughter Ann, and perhaps other children.

At the time of the Buckner search in the English records, the Editor had not received the data collated by Dr. Stubbs, and he was, therefore, in ignorance as to the latter's conclusions, neither had Dr. Stubbs any knowledge of what the English search might reveal, as it had not been finished at that time. A glance at the Buckner pedigree chart shows that John and Philip Buckner had an elder brother named Thomas, who was baptized in 1628, and it is quite possible that he also came to Virginia. This is strong evidence in favor of Thomas Buckner being a brother to John and Philip, but there is also no shadow of a doubt but that John Buckner had a son named Thomas. The descendants of Thomas Buckner of the "Dragon," will be enumerated later on.

Thomas and Sarah (Morgan) Buckner had issue:

I. FRANCIS BUCKNER, a member of the vestry of Petsworth parish in 1729. He died in 1730, and was succeeded by Samuel Buckner. If he left issue, nothing is known of them.

II. ANN BUCKNER, of whom presently.

III. THOMAS BUCKNER.

THOMAS BUCKNER was born about 1692. He was a Justice and Vestryman of Petsworth parish, Gloucester, and Sheriff of Caroline County in 1747. He is believed to have married twice, his first wife being a daughter of Philip Smith and granddaughter of Baldwin Mathews of York County. He married (2d) Mary Timson, daughter of Samuel and Sarah (Mathews) Timson. She was also a granddaughter of Baldwin Mathews, and she married for her second husband Col. Samuel Buckner. Thomas Buckner died about 1756. His will is dated June 2, 1755, and was probated in 1756. He had issue by his first wife:

I. MARY BUCKNER, married in 1763, John Chisman, and had issue:

1. Mary Chisman, born about 1765.
2. John Buckner Chisman, born about 1768.

John Chisman married (2) Elizabeth, daughter of Major Miles Cary and Ann, his wife, and had:

1. Miles Chisman, born 1781.
2. George Chisman, born 1783.
3. Charles Chisman.
4. Mathew Chisman.
5. Patty Chisman.

II. BALDWIN MATHEWS BUCKNER, son of Thomas and Mary (Timson) Buckner, died in 1778. He was married twice, his first wife being Dorothy (born 1730; died 1757), daughter of Col. Samuel Buckner.

Will of Baldwin Mathews Buckner

In the name of God, Amen. I, Baldwin Mathews Buckner of the Parish of Ware and County of Gloucester, being weak in body but of perfect and sound mind and memory do make and publish this my last will and testament in manner following (viz.) first, it is my will and desire that if my executors can't raise as much money from my estate as will purchase each of my younger sons a tract of land as they shall come of age, that then they either swap or sell my land and the land swapped for or bought with the money that they sell my land for be equally divided among my four sons, them and their heirs forever. Also it is my will and desire that after all are paid the remainder of my personal estate and slaves be equally divided among my sons as they shall come of age, also if my executors can provide a Tract of Land for each of my younger sons as they my executors think is sufficient. Item. I give my land wherein I live to my son Thomas Buckner to him and his heirs forever, also if my son Samuel shall choose to be a Ship Carpenter that then my executors choose five negro boys out of my estate and bind with him to such master as they shall think proper which said I give my son Samuel, he being accountable for the appraised value as they were appraised taken of the Inventory when he receives his proportion of my estate, also it is my will and desire that each of my sons pay Sarah Lemmon twenty-five shillings annually for her maintenance and that she be at liberty to live with which of my sons she chooses.

Lastly, I constitute and appoint my brother John and Mordecai Buckner, my friends John Cary and John Chisman, my sons Thomas, Samuel, Robert and John Buckner my executors of this my last will and testament, and that my brothers John and Mordecai be guardians to my sons and have full power to act for the benefit of my children in the same manner as if I myself was present, and that they give no security for their administration, In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and fixed my seal this 5th day of April, 1774.

BALDWIN M. BUCKNER [SEAL].

Witnesses: John Elliot.
John Tompkins.
Geo. Booth, Jr.
John Buckner.

At a court held for Gloucester County on Thursday the 5th day of Nov., 1778, this will was this day proved in open court by the oath of John Buckner a witness thereto, who also made oath that he saw John Tompkins and Geo. Booth, Jr., the other two witnesses who are dead, sign the said will as witnesses in the presence of the said Testator, and thereupon the same was by the court admitted to record and is recorded.

Teste. Thomas Nelson, Jr. [C.C.].

Baldwin Mathews Buckner had issue by his first wife, Dorothy Buckner:

He was afterwards a member of the Order of the Cincinnati. He married in 1780, Elizabeth, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Cooke) Throckmorton, and they had issue:

John and Dorothy Buckner had issue, a daughter, Ann Timson Buckner, who married the Rev. Servant Jones. She is a legatee under the will of her uncle, John Scrosby of Gloucester, Feb. 8, 1791; and also under the will of her uncle, James Scrosby of Mathews County, April, 1792. After the death of John Buckner, his widow married (2d) John Russell, and (3d) John Dunn.

V. COLONEL MORDECAI BUCKNER, son of Thomas and Mary (Timson) Buckner, resided in Spottsylvania County. Living at a period when the Colony was continually at war with the French and Indians, his trend was towards a military career, in which capacity he gained an enviable notoriety.

The Buckners of Virginia

The following notices of him are found in Crozier's Virginia Colonial Militia:

"Mordecai Buckner, Gent., Quarter-Master till properly discharged in 1755 in the forces raised for defence of this State."

"Mordecai Buckner, Captain in Col. Adam Stephen's regiment raised in 1758 by this State."

"Mordecai Buckner, Gent., Captain till properly discharged in a regiment raised for immediate defence of this State, under command of Col. Stephen, in 1762."

"Mordecai Buckner, entitled to 3,000 acres of land agreeable to the King's Proclamation of 1763."

Mordecai Buckner's military renown during the various Colonial Wars, brought him to the personal attention of General George Washington, under whom he had served in several campaigns. At the breaking out of the Revolution he was tendered the command of the Sixth Virginia Regiment, Feb. 13, 1776. The heirs of Colonel Mordecai Buckner have still a claim against the Government of the United States for services rendered by him in the Revolutionary War. The amount adjudged by Congress as due Colonel Buckner was $36,000 with extensive possessions in the Public Lands in Ohio. Under the system inaugurated in the Act of 1785, passed by the Continental Congress, the State of Virginia in her cession of territory, reserved 4,204,800 acres of land between the Scioto and Little Miami rivers, nearly one-sixth the area of the State, to satisfy the claims of the officers and soldiers in her Continental Line.

In 1742, Mordecai Buckner was a Justice of Spottsylvania County, and was also appointed in the same year Justice of Gloucester County. He was married in 1768 to Elizabeth Beverley, the widow of Beverley Stanard, whom she had married April 19, 1750. Beverley Stanard's will is dated Feb. 20, 1765, probated July 1 of same year. In it he mentions his wife Elizabeth, and his children, William, Larkin, Elizabeth, Mary, Sarah and "the child my wife now goes with." Elizabeth's parents were Larkin Chew and Mary Beverley of Spottsylvania County, their marriage license being dated Sept. 30, 1733. Mary Beverley was a daughter of Captain Harry Beverley and Elizabeth, daughter and heiress of Robert Smith of "Brandon," Middlesex County. Harry Beverley was captain of a sloop which was captured by the Spaniards. He escaped, however, in 1717. His will was proved Feb. 2, 1730. Captain Beverley was a son of Major Robert Beverley who died 1687, and Mary, widow of George Keeble. His brother Robert was the celebrated historian of Virginia.

Larkins Chew's will is dated March 27, 1770, probated in Spottsylvania County Sept. 21 of same year. His son-in-law, Mordecai Buckner, being one of the executors. With other legatees, he mentions his daughter Elizabeth, wife of Mordecai Buckner, and to her children he leaves land in Orange County.

By his marriage with Elizabeth Beverley Stanard, Mordecai Buckner became allied to three of the most influential families in Virginia—Beverley, Chew and Stanard, besides bringing into the Buckner family the estate of "Roxbury" in Spottsylvania County. The tradition in the family is, that Colonel Buckner was an extremely wealthy man; but whatever wealth he may have had during his lifetime, it is evident that at the time of his death his estate was but moderate, for in the Guardians Bonds, under date of Feb. 5, 1788, we find that Beverley Stanard was guardian to John Buckner and Baldwin M. Buckner, orphans of Mordecai Buckner, with William Stanard as security, the bond being in the sum of £8,000, which according to law, was placed at double the value of the estate.

The exact date of Colonel Buckner's death is unknown, but it must have been previous to 1788, for on Jan. 1st of that year, William Stanard is administrator of the estate of Mordecai Buckner of Berkeley Parish, Spottsylvania County, in which mention is made of John and Baldwin Buckner, the sons. It is probable that Colonel Buckner died the latter part of 1787, for on June 7, 1787, his mother, Mary Buckner, makes her will, in which she names as executors her sons John, Mordecai and William. In this will she mentions "My first husband, Thomas Buckner, who by his will dated June 2, 1755, devised his estate to me, leaving it to my discretion to divide the same among his youngest children at my death, I divide the same among the following: Son John, son Mordecai, son William. And whereas, during the time of my intermarriage with Col. Samuel Buckner, and at the same time holding the estate of my first husband, Thomas Buckner, the estate of Samuel Buckner became indebted to the estate of the said Thomas to a considerable amount in moneys, be the amount what it will, the same is to be divided between my three sons above named."

Ann Buckner of Gloucester County

ANN BUCKNER, granddaughter of John Buckner, the immigrant, and daughter of Major Thomas Buckner, Sheriff and Burgess of Gloucester County, and his wife Sarah, daughter of Captain Francis Morgan, 2nd, of York County, was born March, 1698. She married Thomas Booth of Gloucester County, whose will, dated 1756, is recorded in Hanover County, to which place he afterwards moved. Ann Buckner was the second of the four wives of Thomas Booth, the last two being Susannah Thornton, and Lucy Cooke, widow (1737), of Gregory Smith.

Thomas Booth was a son of Thomas Booth (born 1663; died 1736), the immigrant, who came from Lancashire, England, and his wife Mary, a daughter of Mordecai Cooke of "Mordecai's Mount" 1650. Thomas and Mary (Cooke) Booth lie buried on Ware River, Gloucester County, at the old Booth House, now Jarvis' Farm. Thomas Buckner of Gloucester County

THOMAS BUCKNER, who lived near the "Dragon," Gloucester County, is believed to have been a brother of John and Philip Buckner the immigrants. He is in all probability the Thomas who was baptized in 1628 in Oxford, England, and was the elder of the three brothers—John being baptized in 1631, and Philip in 1639.

He patented 1,000 acres of land in 1669, in Petsworth parish, on the "Cheesecake" branches, and 2,000 acres in 1670, both grants were taken out in conjunction with Thomas Royston. He is said to have been a member of the Petsworth vestry in 1695. It is not known whom he married, but he left a son Samuel.

1. Samuel Buckner lived near the "Dragon," and died in 1745.

He was a member of the Petsworth vestry and a churchwarden in 1730. Was Sheriff of Gloucester in 1732, and Burgess in 1744, vice Lewis Burwell, who became one of the Council. His wife's name is unknown, but he had issue, Ann and Samuel, and possibly others.

1. Ann Buckner, married Major Miles Cary (his second wife). Her will was probated in York County in 1768. She left her estate as follows: "To Mr. John Cary, son of my consort, Major Miles Cary; to Mrs. Ann Tomkins, wife of Capt. Bennett Tomkius; to Mr. John Chisman, and to my nephew, Baldwin Mathews Buckner."
2. Colonel Samuel Buckner of Gloucester County, was a Justice from 1748-59. His will is dated Nov. 5, 1763, and was probated in 1764. His first wife is thought to have been Ann Alexander.

In the York records under date of Sept. 26, 1638, there is an agreement suit brought by Thomas Buckner and Sarah his wife, and David Alexander and Anne his wife, the said Sarah and Anne being daughters and co-heirs of Captain Francis Morgan, son of Francis Morgan.

In Hening, Vol. V., p. 399, we find an act docking the entail of the above property which was the share of Ann Alexander. Amongst others, Samuel Buckner and David Alexander, gents., are named as trustees. This David is said to have been a brother of Ann Alexander who married Col. Samuel Buckner.

By his first wife, Ann Alexander, Samuel Buckner had issue:

The Buckners of Virginia

- A. Dorothy Buckner, born 1730; died Dec. 8, 1757; married Baldwin Mathews Buckner (first wife), son of Thomas and Mary (Timson) Buckner. She had issue;
- aa. Thomas Buckner.
 - bb. Samuel Buckner.

For detailed pedigree see Baldwin Mathews Buckner.

- B. Mary Buckner, born 1732; died 1765; married 1760, Rev. Charles Mynn Thruston of Gloucester County. (See Thruston excursus.)
- C. Elizabeth Buckner, born 1735; married Col. William Finnie of York County. By the will of Mordecai Cooke, Jr., Ware Parish, Gloucester, July 25, 1769, probated April 5, 1776, he left a legacy of £500 to Ann Finnie, the daughter of William and Elizabeth (Buckner) Finnie.
- aa. Ann Finnie.
- D. Ann Buckner, born 1739; died Oct. 30, 1757.

Colonel Samuel Buckner married secondly, Mary, daughter of Samuel Timson, and widow of Thomas Buckner. He does not seem to have had issue by this marriage. Mary Buckner's will is dated June 7, 1787, and probated in Spottsylvania County. In it she mentions "her second husband, Col. Samuel Buckner, whose estate was indebted to that of her first husband, Thomas Buckner."

At "Marfield," in Gloucester County, is a tomb which reads: "Here Lyeth ye Body of Dorothy Buckner, the wife of Baldwin Mathews Buckner and daughter of Colonel Samuel and Ann * * * * who Departed this Life the 8th of December, 1757, Aetat 2 * * * . Philip Buckner of Stafford County

HILIP BUCKNER was a younger brother of the first John Buckner, and he is believed to have been the Philip Buckner who was baptized at St. Mary's Church, Oxford, Eng., March 19, 1639. The name of his wife is uncertain, but it is possible she may have been Elizabeth Sadler, who we find married a Philip Buckner, July 15, 1667, at St. James, Clerkenwell.

In his will, Philip Buckner mentions but two sons—Robert and Andrew, and he expresses a desire that "they may have learning." This would indicate that they were quite young, or at least in their 'teens in 1700, and as their mother's name is not mentioned, she was evidently deceased at that time.

The existing county records reveal but little concerning Philip Buckner, and practically nothing in regard to his children. There was a Robert Buckner in Gloucester in 1722, and he may have been the son of Philip.

The earliest land warrant to Philip Buckner was for 517 acres in Gloucester County granted to Mr. John Vickers and Mr. John Buckner, in which Philip Buckner has a headright. Feb 19, 1669.

On Oct. 10, 1692, Philip Buckner patented 90 acres of land in Chotank Parish, Stafford County. There is also a Mr. Anthony Buckner who had a grant of 2,506 acres in Stafford County, Sept. 20, 1678, and who had previously in conjunction with Lawrence Smith, March 17, 1672, patented 716 acres of land in Rappahannock County. There seems to be no clue to the identity of Anthony Buckner, unless he was a brother of John and Philip. He may have been the ancestor of John Anthony Buckner, who was the founder of the West Virginia branch of the family.

Issue of Philip Buckner of Stafford:

- I. Robert Buckner, alive in 1722.
- II. Andrew Buckner.

The Buckners of Virginia

Will of Philip Buckner

In the name of God, Amen. I, Philip Buckner, of the County of Stafford, being sick and weak in body, but of perfect and sound memory, blessed be God, do make this my last will and testament, as follows:

First:—I bequeath my soul to God that gave it; my body to the ground from whence it came. To be buried with decent Christian burial. First, I bequeath to Judy Baltrup the mare "Bonny" and her colt and one great feather bed in the loft, and an old gold ring to be kept in her god-father's hands while the day of marriage or comes of age; and two brass kettles, one great and one little one and a copper skillet, one pewter candlestick, the rest are at her brother's and all her mother's wearing clothes in general of what sort soever that shall be found in my custody.

Second:—I bequeath my two sons, Robert and Andrew, all my land to be equally divided between them, and all the rest of my estate, movable and unmovable, to be equally divided between my two sons aforesaid, Robert and Andrew.

Thirdly:—I appoint my cousin, William Buckner, at York, to be my Excr., but if he shall refuse, then my cousin, Thomas Buckner.

COPY OF A LETTER FROM WALKER BUCKNER, ADDRESSED TO RICHARD BUCKNER, OAKLAND, CAROLINE COUNTY, VIRGINIA:

CANE RIDGE, BOURBON COUNTY.

DEAR SIR:

I have received yours of April 6th, 1852, which gave me great pleasure, particularly as I heard from Mr. Thomas Woodford and William Buckner that you and my cousin Catherine had been dead five or six years. It has been so long since I have heard from you that I would not readily have known from whom the letter came, if you had not named our relations, from whom I was greatly pleased to hear. I hope you will give me information in regard to them several times in each year as long as we may live, and you may depend on me to do so as long as I exist.

I now comply with your request to give you an account of each member of my father's family. Ben failed in business and about twelve years ago removed to Missouri, where he now lives, well provided for by Billy, Aylett and myself. Sam was not so much embarrassed, but the three of us above named paid his debts. Aylett gave him more than one thousand acres of fine land in Mo., and about three thousand dollars. Billy and myself gave him at least eight thousand dollars in money and property. He left us one year after Ben. He is now doing well. Aylett has a large fortune. Billy died two years ago last August, and left at least eighteen thousand to his four children. Nancy lives about twelve miles from me. She and her family have plenty to live on. Ellen has been dead many years and she left a large family; all of them are doing well. Now, to myself, I never had but one child, who married Sally Woodford, the daughter of William Woodford, who married Maria Archer, who is dead. William has been married about three and a half years and has three sons. I have just sold one hundred mules for nine thousand dollars and one hundred and ninety beeves for nearly seven thousand dollars. I have seventeen head of beef cattle left on hand on the 20th of March, 1852, and twenty-three large steers now preparing for market. Within a month I have bought a hundred and ninety-three mules, some of them are colts, and ninety-one steers and twelve other yearling steers and eight other mules left over from last year's foaling and raised at home worth nine hundred and ten dollars. I have thirteen hundred and eighty-five acres of land where I live, with twenty thousand dollars worth of brick and stone buildings upon it, which I suppose would sell for nearly or quite one hundred thousand dollars, three hundred and twenty-six acres of good land in Davis County, Kentucky, and in Texas a claim for thirteen hundred acres of as good land as I ever saw. I was in Texas five years ago to see it, and I do not suppose the earth affords better land. It is within twelve miles of the sea. I have lately freed five negroes, and have four left, and plenty of debts to pay, but I shall not be long about it. Mr. Thomas C. Woodford, who married my sister Molly, died about the middle of January last. He left a good tract of land of two hundred and forty acres, worth fifty dollars per acre, and seventeen negroes, all of which he left free at his death. And now sir, at the age of seventy-one years, I take leave of you for the present, and wish you a long life and prosperity to your children and your grand-children, with the greatest esteem and regard

I subscribe myself your relation,

WALKER BUCKNER.

After the war he returned to the practice of his profession, and in 1870 removed to Lexington, when he entered into partnership with the Hon. W. C. P. Breckenridge. One of his legal associates has said of him: "Trained in the law from his early boyhood, educated liberally therein in his young manhood, he brought to the profession when he entered it in 1857, a strong and vigorous intellect, a temperament sanguine and aggressive, an energy and industry that never flagged, all supplemented and adorned with the highest learning of the schools."

He was elected Judge of the Common Pleas Court and later of the Circuit Court. On the Bench he acquired an enviable reputation for his judicial ability, his wide knowledge of the law, his promptness and decision in the disposition of cases, in the determination of legal questions, and the fair and impartial conduct of the business of his Court.

COPY OF LETTER FROM WILLIAM THOMAS BUCKNER TO EDWARD POLLARD, OF AYLETTS, KING WILLIAM COUNTY, VA.:

NEAR N. MIDDLETOWN, KY., FEB. 15, 1843.

DEAR SIR:

I am almost worn out with age and long protracted disease, and have a particular desire to hear once more at least from my old and valued friends in King William. I do not know which of them are still in the land of the living, but I hope to hear that many of them are still in the enjoyment of their former health and happiness.

Taking it for granted that my old friends take as much interest in my welfare as I do in their's, I will proceed to give some account of the manner in which I have spent the last twenty years, for I believe it has been nearly that long since I held any correspondence with you; during that time I have changed my residence several times, but not beyond the limits of Bourbon County, where I first located myself. As time has rolled on there has been a large addition to my property, and notwithstanding the loss of fifteen thousand dollars within the last two years, I have still more than my full share of the goods and chattels of this world. I wish that I could say that my happiness had kept pace with the increase of my fortune, but unfortunately for me and for my family, recent dispensations of Providence have rendered me perfectly and entirely miserable. I had been confined at home for several years with a disease of the kidneys, by which I had several times been brought to the verge of eternity, but all that I bore patiently, although I had been repeatedly warned by the best physicians of our State that I could not be cured, but the loss of two children, the last on the 24th of April last, a daughter sixteen years of age, who was a thousand times dearer to me than life itself, has left me with a broken heart as well as a shattered constitution. I have now four children left. My son William, a native of King William, and a daughter and two sons, children of my present wife. My daughter is married and has one child. One of my sons is 14 and the other 7 years old. My son William was unfortunately injured by some accident during my residence in Va., from which he has never recovered. He enjoys good health, however, and is an industrious good manager. He has a valuable farm containing 550 acres equal to any land in the Union, and everything else to make him comfortable. I should not have spoken thus in detail of his situation had I not been sure that you would be gratified to hear of him. When the weather is good I am sometimes able to walk out of doors. This is seldom the case in the winter, when for weeks together I am confined entirely to the house, and for years past, I have been half my time in bed. I am greatly reduced and have the appearance of a person 65 or 70 years of age.

The people of no state in the Union have suffered more severely by what is generally termed hard times than the citizens of Ky. They engage more eagerly in speculation and adventure than any I ever saw, and the consequence has been, that a great many have been totally ruined. There are probably more than fifty persons in this county, mostly farmers, many of them once considered rich, who are now entirely ruined, indeed destitute of everything. The sudden revolution in the price of our produce has ruined all who were in debt to any extent. The price of pork here in December last was about $1.25 per cwt; beef, $2. Hemp, the staple of our country, is now worth about $2 when less than fine, would not compensate those who raise it. Corn is worth from 37 to 50 cents per barrel. Low as all descriptions of produce is selling, it cannot be sold for cash. Land that sold readily for $80 per acre 3 years ago would not sell for $30 now. Great sacrifices of property have taken place, under executions in some instances not one-fiftieth part of the price of 4 years ago has been obtained, and it is thought by many that we have not experienced the worst yet, but I hope this prediction will not be verified. The only remedy for this state of things in the opinion of four-fifths of the people, is the establishment of another United States Bank. They have been led into this foolish error by their oracle, Henry Clay, who is the most selfish and reckless man in existence. He was long a pensioner of the former bank which scattered corruption and ruin throughout the United States, and which I hope has sunk never to rise again.

My principal object in addressing this letter to you, as I before stated, is to hear once more from my old friends in your part of the country. Give me the information sought in detail. I desire to know which of them are still living and which not. Some of them for whom I entertained the highest respect, indeed to whom I was devotedly attached, I know are gone, and I fear that others are to be added. I beg to be particularly informed in regard to the family of my deceased and much respected uncle, Mr. W. Hawes. Is his widow still living? Is his son, Walker, living and where? Let me hear whether the country round Ayletts has undergone any favourable changes; whether the old system of farming still prevails; whether Ayletts and Dunkirk have improved any or gone still further to decay. Whether, as in days of yore, you get a good supply of fish and oysters. While I am writing my mind falls back to the occurrences of 1812 and 15, and produces a state of feeling that I cannot describe. Do not delay more than a few days your answer. It is not often that I am able to write, and fear or rather apprehend that my time in this world will be but short. You and all my other friends in Va. have my prayers for your welfare and happiness.

If Mr. Richard Hill is living please state where he is. Should anything prevent Mr. Pollard's writing to me, that is if he is not living, or if living, removed from Ayletts, some other friend please write to me.

Yours truly,

WILLIAM THOMAS BUCKNER.

- X. WILLIAM AYLETTE BUCKNER, tenth child of Thomas and Elizabeth (Hawes) Buckner, was born in Caroline Co., July 14, 1798. When he lost his father he removed with his mother and family to Kentucky, where he was educated and graduated in the profession of the law. With the spirit of adventure strong within him, he turned with the tide of emigration which had set in towards the South, and settled at Washington, Mississippi. It was while nursing his devoted friend, the only brother of Charlotte Ferguson, that he met and loved her. After their marriage he removed to Natchez, where he rose rapidly in his profession, until he stood among the foremost at a Bar, noted in that day for its brilliant members.

After practicing his profession for a number of years, he retired, his tastes and inclinations leading him toward a domestic life. He invested the considerable fortune he had acquired, in real estate, and this, he managed so carefully and successfully, that at the breaking out of the Civil War, he possessed estates which ranked him among the wealthiest cotton planters of the South. At the conclusion of the war, these estates, so far from being remunerative, became a burden, involving him in debt and leaving him with thousands of acres of land which for the time being were practically useless. This burden he shouldered manfully, refusing to avail himself of the universal custom of compromise, for he said, "I accepted the obligations in good faith, and shall endeavour to discharge them dollar for dollar." To this task, he successfully devoted the remaining years of his life, leaving his children with worldly wealth diminished, but rich in the legacy of an honorable record.

Col. John Alexander Buckner attended the schools of Covington and Cincinnati, and Center College, Danville, Ky., graduating in 1852; after which, having determined to enter the ministry, he was sent to the Theological College at Princeton, N. J. He also attended a course of medical lectures in New York in order to prepare himself for the missionary field. In this work he went to Rio de Janeiro, remaining until the fall of 1856, when he returned to his home in Kentucky. He later purchased a cotton plantation in Louisiana and became a successful planter.

In September, 1863, he enlisted in the Confederate army at Hopkinsville, Ky., and was made Captain of Company A, 8th Kentucky Regiment, commanded by Col. Henry C. Burnett, afterwards Confederate States Senator from Kentucky. At the battle of Fort Donelson the regiment was commanded by Col. H. B. Lyon and Maj. P. W. Henry. Upon learning that surrender had been determined upon, Capt. Buckner disbanded his company, telling them he would not surrender, and with Lieut. Pressley Davis he crossed the Cumberland River and made his way back to Nashville and to Murfreesboro, where he joined Gen. A. S. Johnston's army, and was in the battle of Shiloh as volunteer aid to Gen. Charles Clark. In his official report of that battle, Gen. Clark complimented Capt. Buckner for his promptness, intelligence, and courage in the execution of his orders.

In July, 1864, Capt. Buckner was selected by Gen. John C. Breckinridge to succeed Maj. J. T. Pickett as assistant adjutant general upon his staff. When Col. Hunt was shot down at the battle of Baton Rouge, La., Capt. Buckner was, by unanimous consent, placed in command of the Second Brigade, in which position he displayed a high degree of skill and courage; and when Gen. Clark was thought to be mortally wounded, and the troops began to fall back in confusion, Capt. Buckner, with the assistance of Maj. Wickliffe, of the Nineteenth Kentucky Regiment, faced the brigade about and resumed the attack. Following the report of this action, by Gen. Breckinridge, he was promoted to rank of major, and subsequently brevetted lieutenant-colonel for gallantry in battle. He was also in the battle of Stone's River, and in his mention of the officers of his division who had distinguished themselves in the three days' bloody conflict Gen. Breckinridge says: "It gives me pleasure to name Lieut.-Col. Buckner, Assistant Adjutant General, who was absent on leave and returned on the first rumor of battle."

During 1864 Col. Buckner was in the Trans-Mississippi Department, and subsequently was on Gen. S. B. Buckner's staff, and placed in charge of the Cotton Bureau, discharging the delicate and difficult duties of the office with entire satisfaction to the government.

After the close of the war, Col. Buckner returned to his plantation home in the East Carroll Parish, La. Like all brave soldiers of the Confederacy, he counseled the acceptance of the inevitable, and set a good example by turning his attention to the raising of cotton and rebuilding the broken levees of the Mississippi River. He served for many years upon the Levee Board without compensation, and to his good judgment and industry, assisted by equally enthusiastic members of the Board, the planters from Greenville to Vicksburg are much indebted for their fine levee system.

Col. Buckner was a man of unyielding perseverance, and was eminently successful in business life.

JAMES HENRY BUCKNER, M.D., of Cincinnati, Ohio, fourth child of Henry M. and Ethaline E. (Conn) Buckner, was born Nov. 25, 1836, at Burlington, Ky.

At the age of two years he was sent to Covington, Ky., where he attended private schools. At the early age of nine years he entered the Preparatory Department of Cincinnati College, and afterwards was placed under the tutorship of Prof. De Soto, of Centre College, Danville, Ky. He subsequently went to the Academies at Exeter, N. H. and Groton, Mass., matriculating the following year at Dartmouth College. He returned home in the spring of 1857, and began the study of medicine with Dr. Evans, a prominent surgeon of Covington, Ky; soon afterwards removing to Cincinnati, and continuing his studies with Drs. Taliaferro and L. M. Lawson. In 1858 he entered the Ohio Medical College, where he took three courses of lectures, graduating in the spring of 1861. He then formed a partnership with his preceptor, Dr. Taliaferro. On Oct. 17th, 1861, Dr. Buckner married Miss Jane Olivia Ramsey, step-daughter of his preceptor and partner. Two sons were the result of this union, William Thornton, born April 19, 1863 and Henry Alexander, born Aug. 24, 1866. His estimable wife died May 3rd, 1892. In Sept., 1861, he was appointed Examining Surgeon of the United States for Naval recruits at Cincinnati, where he was associated with Captain, afterwards Commodore Winslow, who, as Commander of the "Kearsarge," participated in the famous fight with the "Alabama." Dr. Buckner was afterward assigned to duty as surgeon of the gunboat "Cairo," which, after the fall of Fort Donelson, was the first of the fleet to reach Nashville.

In the summer of 1862, Dr. Buckner resigned from the service and resumed his private practice at Cincinnati. In 1862-3 he was demonstrator of Anatomy in the Ohio Medical College; from 1866 to 1871 Professor of Physiology in the Cincinnati College of Medicine and Surgery. In the latter year he was elected to fill the chair of Ophthalmology and Otology, made vacant by the death of Dr. Taliaferro. He was at the same time on the staff of the Good Samaritan Hospital, where he delivered clinical lectures on diseases of the eye and ear. He resigned his several positions in the fall of 1872, in order to take a foreign tour, during which, he visited the principal capitals of Europe, and took a special course of studies on the eye and ear at Vienna. After traveling through Italy he returned via England and Ireland to America. He then resumed his place in the Hospital and was subsequently elected to the staff of St. Mary's Hospital, in special charge of Ocular and Aural diseases, which position he held for fourteen years, resigning in the spring of 1890. In 1878 he was elected President of the Academy of Medicine of Cincinnati, and in the summer of 1882 he was elected Professor in the Toledo Medical College, delivering a course of lectures on the eye and ear. Was elected President of the Walnut Hills Medical Society in January 1887, and in 1894 he was elected Vice-President of the Ohio State Medical Society, and is a permanent member of the American Medical Association and the State Medical Society. He has contributed to the literature of his profession a number of valuable articles on diseases of the eye, ear, throat and surgery, and on chloroform.

COLONEL JOHN A. BUCKNER

The Buckners of West Virginia

ABOUT the year 1720 George Byrn, a man of some wealth and good family, left Ireland, and located in Prince William Co., Va. The name in all early records was spelled with only four letters, the addition of the final e, being added by his descendants.

It is very probable that George Byrn was a brother of Edmund Byrne, of Spottsylvania Co., whose will dated 17 Aug., 1744, probated 4 September, 1744, recites that he was from the county of Kilkenny, Ireland. He mentions as legatees his two brothers, George and Thomas Byrne.

In 1729 Thomas Byrn was one of the securities on an administration bond (Spotts. Records). On Dec. 17, 1728, a deed is recorded of a lease of two adjoining plantations in the fork of the Rappahannock River in St. George's Parish, to Thomas Byrn and Martha, his wife (Spotts. Records, Deed Book A.). After July 6, 1731, at which time Thomas Byrn is witness to a deed, the name disappears entirely from the records of Spottsylvania Co.

From the Prince William records we find that George Byrn was the General Surveyor for the county. Many of the drawings and maps made by his pen are still on file in the clerk's office.

In 1744, George Byrne and Lydia, his wife, gave bond, with Cuthbert Harrison as security, in the sum of £500 as guardians of William Brown, an orphan son of William Brown, late of Prince William county.

In 1766 Lydia conveyed her right of dower away in a tract of land called "Spiller's Neck" on Occoquan waters, to her son Samuel Byrne.

George and Lydia Byrne had three children :

Elizabeth Byrne.

Mary Byrne.

Samuel Byrne.

I. ELIZABETH BYRNE married first a Buckner. Tradition states his name was Bolivar. The use of Bolivar as a Christian name in the Buckner family seems hardly probable at this early date, as Bolivar, the Great Liberator, was born in 1783, and was unknown to fame at the time the above Buckner must have been born. Elizabeth's husband is said to have been descended from the Buckners of the "Neck," Caroline Co. The issue of this marriage was three children:

1. John Anthony Buckner.
2. Ann Buckner.
3. Clarissa Buckner.

About 1756 Elizabeth, widow of Bolivar (?) Buckner, wedded William, orphan son of William Brown of Prince William Co., born 1722; died in 1806. He was Captain under General Green in the Revolution. Issue:

1. John Brown, clerk of Prince William Co., 1805 to 1838; married, — Thorpe and had issue: William, John, Jr.; Mark.
2. Thomas Brown, born Sept., 1760; died 1844 in Preston Co.; married Nancy Ash, Oct. 20, 1785, and had issue, Elizabeth, John Buckner, George, Lydia, Samuel Byrne, William, Mary Ann, Thomas F.
3. Lydia Brown, married Uriah Burns; died in Fauquier Co.
4. Mary Ann Brown, married Moses Tibbs; removed to Indiana.

II. MARY BYRNE, second daughter of George and Lydia Byrne; married George Ash of Prince William Co., and left issue.

III. SAMUEL BYRNE, son of George and Lydia Byrne; married his niece, daughter of Elizabeth and Bolivar (?) Buckner, and by her had seven children:

1. Peyton Byrne, married Barbara Linn, migrated to the mouth of Salt Lick, on Little Kanawha River, and there died May 11, 1824. Col. Benjamin W. Byrne, who was a State Superintendent of Free Schools for West Virginia, was a grandson. One of Peyton's sons was named Peyton Buckner.
2. Charles Byrne, Major of Militia; died 1843.
3. Thomas Byrne, physician; married Rebecca Dorsey of Morgantown, was a Member of the Legislature from Monongalia; went to Missouri in 1820, and there died.
4. John Byrne, went to Missouri, and there died.
5. Sarah Byrne, married (1st) Thomas Bland, and had issue: John, Samuel, Thomas. Married (2nd) Jacob Zinn, and by him had: Major William B., Charles, Clara, Pamelia, Peyton.
6. Mary Byrne about 1760 married Colonel John Fairfax, from whom descended General Buckner Fairfax of Terra Alta, Preston Co., West Va., who died in 1880.
7. Elizabeth Byrne, married Archibald Anderson of Little Kanawha, and had issue three daughters and a son, Samuel.

Elizabeth Brown, formerly Widow Buckner, née Byrne, Dec. 29, 1783, made her will with these words: "Item. I give and bequeath unto my son Anthony Buckner, one negro girl named Esther, with all her increase to him and his heirs."

"Item. I give and bequeath unto my daughter, Ann Cornwall, one negro woman named Juda."

"Item. I give and bequeath unto my daughter Clara Byrn, one negro named Hagar." This Clara Byrn married her uncle Samuel Byrne, and later became the wife of Col. David Scott, of Monongalia.

Anthony, or John Anthony, as many called him, married — Seal. With his two daughters, Clara and Mary, he moved west of the Allegheny slopes. He was then immediately from Hardy, and prior to that from Prince William Co., where he was born July 15, 1748. He made his home near the banks of the Little Kanawha river, within the territory of Wood county. He is often mentioned in the county records, aiding in some internal improvement, or serving his neighbors in a confidential or public capacity.

In 1799, he is given as one of the purchasers at a public sale, July, 1801, he was appointed Road Surveyor, and in 1806 he was overseer to succeed Samuel Allen.

In 1807 he was one of three to allot and value the estate of Robert Thornton. In this year he was summoned as one of the twelve jurors from Wood county, in the famous Burr-Blennerhassett treason trial at Richmond, before Chief Justice Marshall of the U. S. Court. Anthony Buckner had been open in his denunciation of Burr. Upon being interrogated in court as to any expression of guilt or innocence in the pending case, he promptly and energetically replied that, "He had frequently declared the opinion that any man who did as it was said the prisoner had acted, should be hung." He was further asked, "Did you not say that you would give five pounds for Colonel Burr's head?"

Looking keenly at the prisoner, he said: "Yes, by G—d, and I'll do it yet."

As he poured out these emphatic words his piercing brown eyes seemed to look through one, and even the marbleized face of the distinguished defendant was seen to flush.

Of course, at the instance of the accused, who was his own counsel, Buckner was rejected from the panel.

About the year 1809 he married as his second wife, Catherine, widow of John Gibbens, and resided on a farm where Davisville now stands. Soon after, he purchased a tract of uncleared land four miles above, on the north side of Little Kanawha river, where he built a log cabin.

By his first marriage we have record of only two daughters, and by his last alliance of eight children, three of whom are living at this date (1905). Issue of the first marriage:

Lewis and Washington Families

Washington Arms. Argent, two bars, and in chief three mullets gules.

IN 1653 John Lewis patented land in Gloucester County on a branch of Poropotank Creek, which branch was then called Lewis' Creek. The names of those on account of whose importation he was entitled to the land (i. e., 50 acres for each person) were, John Lewis (probably himself), Lydia Lewis (probably his wife), William Lewis, Edward Lewis and John Lewis, Jr., probably his sons.

Edward Lewis patented lands on the Rappahannock, and John Lewis, Jr., patented April 22, 1668, 100 acres in New Kent, and in 1677, 2,600 acres in New Kent and Gloucester, "next below the plantation of said John Lewis," 600 acres of which were granted said John Lewis by patent dated Nov. 23, 1663. His residence in 1676 was near Major Thomas Pate's, where Bacon the rebel encamped, and he suffered severely from the depredations of Bacon's troops. In 1680 he was a Captain of horse in the militia of New Kent, and one of its Justices. In 1675 he was termed Major of foot, and with Lt.-Col. John Smith, Captain Philip Lightfoot, Mr. Thomas Royston and Mr. John Buckner, patented 10,000 acres of land in New Kent.

- I. JOHN LEWIS, married Isabella ———. Some writers state that her name was Warner, but no conclusive evidence as to its correctness is forthcoming. It is probable that John Lewis was the son of John and Lydia Lewis, above mentioned.
- II. JOHN LEWIS, son of John and Isabella Lewis, was the founder of Warner Hall. He was born Nov. 30, 1669; died Nov. 14, 1725. He married Elizabeth Warner, daughter of Col. Augustine Warner, and Mildred Read, his wife, daughter of Col. George Read and Elizabeth Martian. She was born Nov. 24, 1672, and died at Warner Hall Feb. 5, 1719-20.

In 1715 Colonel Lewis became a member of the Council. It is probable that Warner Hall came to the family through his wife. At the Hall are the tombstones of Augustine Warner, the elder, and of Mary, his wife. Augustine was member of the Council 1659-1667. He had a daughter Sarah, married Lawrence Townley, and a son, Augustine Warner, Speaker of the House of Burgesses. The latter married Mildred, daughter of Col. George Read, and had issue:—

John and Elizabeth Warner Lewis had fourteen children, but the names of the following are the only ones to be ascertained. It is probable that some of those lacking died in infancy.

1. Catherine Lewis, baptized Nov., 1702.
2. Elizabeth Lewis, baptized Nov. 26, 1702.
3. John Lewis, born March 22, 1702.

Stith Family

ARMS.—Argent, a chevron engrailed between three fleur-de-lis sable.

HE first of this family of whom anything is known was Colonel John Stith of Charles City County, who patented land there in 1663. In 1676 the House of Burgesses, which met under Bacon's auspices, accused him of having been one of the chief causes of the existing troubles, and disfranchised him. He was a practising lawyer in 1680; Sheriff of Charles City County in 1691, and Burgess in 1685, 1692 and 1693. The name of his wife is unknown, but he had issue, a son, Colonel Drury Stith, who had a patent for 680 acres of land in Charles City in 1703; Sheriff in 1719-20, and 1724-5. He removed to Brunswick County about 1725 and was the first clerk of the county in 1732, holding the office until 1740. He married Susannah, daughter of Launcelot Bathhurst, who emigrated from England to Virginia in the latter part of the seventeenth century, and who was the second son of Sir Edward Bathhurst, knighted in 1643 by King Charles I. Drury Stith is mentioned by Colonel William Byrd in "A Journey to the Land of Eden" (Westover MSS.), in the paragraph wherein the author, under date of September 13, 1733, says: "By the way, I sent a runner half a mile out of the road to Colonel Drury Stith's, who was so good as to come to us. We cheered our hearts with three bottles of pretty good Madeira, which made Drury talk pretty hopefully of his copper mine. We easily prevailed with him to let us have his company, upon condition we would take the mine in our way."

Of the descendants of Colonel Drury Stith, at least eight became county clerks, certainly the following: Griffin Stith, one of the early clerks of the County Court of Northampton; Drury Stith, Charles Turnbull, Edward Randolph Turnbull, Robert Turnbull, respectively the ninth, fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth clerks of the County Court of Brunswick; Edward Randolph Turnbull, Jr., the first clerk of the Circuit Court of Brunswick after the separation of the offices ; David Meade Bernard, the second clerk of the Corporation Court of Petersburg, and John Randolph Stith, one of the clerks of the County Court of Northumberland.

Colonel Drury Stith and Susannah (Bathhurst) Stith had issue, Drury Stith of Brunswick County, Burgess 1744-53 ; vestryman of St. Andrews, 1755 ; married about 1718 Elizabeth Buckner, his first wife, daughter of William and granddaughter of the first John Buckner.

His theological studies were completed in England, where he was ordained a minister of the Episcopal Church. On his return to Virginia in the year 1731 he was elected Master of the Grammar School in the College, and Chaplain to the House of Burgesses. On July 16, 1736, he was installed as Rector of Henrico Parish, and resided at Varina, where he wrote his "History of Virginia." In 1752 he was elected

Thruston Family

HERE is in the possession of the Thruston family, an ancient vellum bound, metal-clasped book, containing on its time-stained yellow leaves a combination of recipe, prescription and family memorandum. From this repository we are enabled to give some authentic data relative to the early history of the family.

The first entry upon its pages runs thus: "John Thruston, ye son of Malachias Thruston of Wellington in Somerset was baptised in ye parish church of Wellington, ye 8th day of June 1606, being Whitsonday." This John Thruston, whose hand, it is supposed, made the first entry in the book, was Chamberlain of the City of Bristol, England, for eleven years and eleven months. His son Edward was twice married, and was the father of twenty-four children, only a small proportion of whom arrived at maturity.

The name in England is spelled both Thruston and Thurston, and the arms used by them are very similar. The Thurstons of Anderton, County of Lancaster, use "Sable, three buglehorns argent, stringed or" (See Glover's Ordinary; Cotton MS. Tiberius, D.10; Harleian MSS. 1392 and 1459).

The Thrustons of Talgarth, County Merioneth, and the Thrustons of Market-Weston Hall, Suffolk, formerly of Hoxne Abbey, Suffolk, use "Sable three buglehorns, stringed or garnished azure," which coincides with the blazon used by the American family of Thrustons.

Malachias Thruston, of Wellington, County Somerset, was born previous to 1600. His wife died Feb., 1651, and is buried in the Parish Church of Buckland. John Thruston, their son, was baptized in the Parish Church of Wellington, June 8, 1606. He was Chamberlain of the City of Bristol for nearly twelve years. His first wife was Thomasine Rich, daughter of the Rev. Peter Rich, who was some time "Preacher of God's Word," in the town of Heytesbury, County of Wiltshire. Thomasine Rich was baptized in the Parish Church of Heytesbury, Aug. 24, 1604; died Nov. 30, 1647, and is buried in St. Thomas' Churchyard, Bristol.

John Thruston married a second time, Jan. 12, 1648, according to his own entry in the little account book. He does not, however, mention his wife's name. Of his children two, viz.: Malachias and Edward, settled in Virginia. John Thruston died April 8, 1675, and is buried on the south side of St. Thomas' Church, Bristol, by the side of his first wife.

Col. John Thruston, son of Edward Thruston, the younger, was born Oct. 24, 1709; died Feb. 20, 1766. He made his home in Gloucester County, where the quaint homestead of "Landsdowne" is still standing, and has for its inmates two of his last descendants—Thruston sisters. He married Dec. 6, 1737, Sarah Mynn, born 1717; died May 12, 1786, whose first husband was a Mr. Hanes. Issue :

10. Robert Thruston, born Jan. 14, 1759; was living in 1802; had a daughter married to Prof. Bracken of Batterton School, which was allied to William and Mary College.

The Rev. and Colonel Charles Mynn Thruston, known as "The Fighting Parson," was born Nov. 6, 1738. He was one of the most celebrated men of a celebrated period. Nothing shows more clearly the enterprising spirit of Virginians, and more thoroughly explains how the old families of the State became scattered and interwoven with those of the South and West, than the history of Charles Mynn Thruston of "Mount Zion," near White Post, Frederick (now Clarke) County, Va.

Mr. Thruston was educated at William and Mary College. When twenty years of age he acted as Lieutenant of Provincials, under the command of Washington, in the campaign which resulted in the evacuation of Fort Duquesne. He afterwards studied for the ministry, was ordained by the Bishop of London, and chosen rector of a parish in his native county. In 1769 he removed to Frederick County, Va., where he continued in his calling until the commencement of hostilities with the mother country. He had been among the most prominent in repelling the attempt to introduce the Stamp Act into Virginia, and he now embarked in the common cause with unconquerable zeal. He exerted himself to produce arms and ammunition, and addressed the people at public gatherings by the most spirit-stirring and eloquent harangues. Not content with this, Parson Thruston threw aside the gown, and, seizing the sword, raised a volunteer company composed of the élite of the young men of the county, he being chosen Captain, and marched to join Washington in New Jersey. He had his arm shattered in making a bold and vigorous attack on a strong Hessian redoubt near Amboy, and upon being carried from the field was attended by the surgeon of General Washington. He was afterwards promoted to the rank of Colonel.

He never resumed his pastoral relations, but held various public offices, among which were those of Presiding Judge of the Court of Frederick County, and member of the Legislature.

In 1809, consulting the interest of a numerous family, which, besides his own children, embraced a number of grandchildren, he removed to Louisiana, and purchased the plantation upon which was afterwards fought the Battle of New Orleans. The descendants of the invaders whom he had encountered in 1776 in 1815 perished over his grave. He died in 1812, and was buried at the spot where the battle which afterwards occurred raged fiercest.

A number of interesting anecdotes might be told of Col. Thruston, but one, which has been already published, will suffice to illustrate his character. A party of four soldiers was reported to be at his mill in the act of removing his flour, which, they claimed, they had been ordered to do by Col. Nelson. He immediately armed himself and ejected them from the premises. The next day a Lieut. Graves with fifteen troopers appeared at the mill, and threatened, without proper authority, to remove the flour. Col. Thruston, who, in the meantime had learned of their approach, stationed himself at the door of the mill, with loaded musket, determined to sacrifice his life rather than submit to an oppression which he considered to be as iniquitous as the Stamp Act, which he had so vigorously opposed. The Lieutenant, after placing his men in various threatening attitudes, without avail, and observed that force on his part meant bloodshed, took the advice of bystanders, who warned him that the Colonel meant what he said, and would certainly shoot if he, the Lieutenant, persisted; so he relinquished his purpose. Afterward Col. Thruston, learning that the men were in need of food, gave the officer all the flour wanted, and invited him to dine with him. Several of the neighbors had offered to assist Col. Thruston in defending his mill, but he declined, saying that no one but himself should die in defense of his property.

Gen'l Charles Lee, lame from a wound, was staying at Col. Thruston's at the time, and learning of the trouble, hobbled down to the mill and re-inforced the Colonel with language clothed in very vigorous English, for which the Lieutenant threatened to throw him into the mill-dam. He changed his mind, however, upon learning who he was addressing.

Col. Thruston married twice. His first wife was Mary Buckner of Gloucester County, in 1760; she was the daughter of Col. Samuel Buckner, and died after bearing him three sons. Her cousin, Ann Alexander, daughter of Col. Alexander of Gloucester County, Va., took charge of the children, and shortly after became his second wife, 1766. She bore him nine children.

He was a distinguished lawyer, and in 1804 was elected United States Senator from Kentucky. He served in this capacity for several years, when he was prevailed upon by President Madison to accept a vacancy which occurred upon the bench of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, which position he held until his death in 1845. He had a highly cultivated mind, and Gen'l Charles Lee of the Revolution—an Englishman, who came to this country, and was remarkable for his great intellectual culture, as well as for his blunt eccentricities—left him his valuable library, remarking in his famous will that he bequeathed it "to the only man he had met in America who was capable of appreciating it."

The Thruston family of Cumberland, Ind., are the descendants of his oldest son Charles, who was for twenty years a prominent officer in the U. S. Army. He had other sons who became distinguished and useful citizens, and two daughters, who married prominent men.
3. Charles Mynn Thruston, born Aug. 3, 1765; died Dec. 11, 1800; married Jan. 20, 1796, to Frances Clark, daughter of John Clark, and widow of Dr. James O'Fallon, of Louisville, Ky. She was a sister of Gen'l George Rogers Clark and of Governor William Clark of Missouri.

Dickinson Family

ALTHOUGH little has hitherto appeared in print regarding the Virginia family of Dickinson, yet, an examination of the early records of the colony reveals the fact that the name is to be found amongst those of the first settlers. The present members of the family claim descent from John Dickinson, or Dickenson, as it was sometimes written, who was in Virginia as early as 1654. He is believed to have been one of three brothers, the others afterwards settling in Maryland and Pennsylvania. There were two John Dickinsons who were in Virginia in 1635, and there was a Benjamin Dickinson in Boston, New England, in 1627.

In this excursus of the family no attempt has been made to trace the name to its original source, but sufficient data is given to show the antiquity of the name in the Colony of Virginia.

Strother Family

THE name Strother is an ancient one, and is believed to be of Scandinavian origin. Whatever may have been its derivation, it has existed in its present form in the County of Northumberland, England, from the eleventh century, and by inter-marriage many of the descendants of the name have become allied with the most prominent families of the Borders.

Alan del Strother, by his marriage in 1350 with Constance, daughter of William de Lyam, obtained three messuages in Alnwick, as well as the Manor of Lyam. This Alan was the son of William del Strother, living in 1318, and who, according to the Calverly MSS. (British Museum), became of Kirknewton by his marriage with Joanna, daughter of Walter Corbet, grandson of Patrick, 5th Earl of Dunbar, by his wife Ada, natural daughter of William the Lion of Scotland (1165-1214).

The above William had a son, Henry del Strother, who received a grant for his services at the Battle of Durham, and succeeded to the estates at Kirknewton; and two other sons, designated Alan, Sr., and Alan, Jr. The former was the Constable of Roxburgh Castle, and lived until 1408. The younger Alan married Constance de Lyam and became the progenitor of the Strothers of Wallington. He died about 1381. There were two other sons, John and William. The latter was Mayor of Newcastle on several occasions, from 1354. He married Matilda, daughter of Peter Draper, Member of Parliament for Newcastle in 1348, by Agnes, daughter of Richard de Emeldon, Mayor of Newcastle in 1306. Joan—the only daughter apparently—married first—William, second son of William, Sire de Courcy, and secondly—the famous John de Coupland. Alan Strother, Jr., had a son, Alan, who married Margaret Jady's, and died during the lifetime of his father. In 1440 William del Strother, a grandson of William of Lyam, married a daughter of Robert Wallington, and lived at Castle Strother in Glendale.

The Buckners of Virginia

Coming to a later date, we find the following entries in Northumberland records.

ENROLMENT OF APPRENTICES AND FREEMEN:

WILLIAM STROTHER, apprenticed to Thomas Classon, merchant, date of indenture, 1544-5; enrolment as freeman, 1546.

WILLIAM STROTHER, son of William Strother of Kirknewton, Northumberland, Gent; apprenticed to Robert Corneforthe, boothman, Aug. 18, 1656; enrolment Dec. 3, 1656; admission to the Eastland Company of Merchant Adventurers, Sept. 24, 1664.

The Virginia Strothers

William Strother, the first of the name and founder of the family, is said to have emigrated from Northumberland, England. It is possible he might have been the William Strother of Kirknewton who was a member of the Company of Merchant Adventurers in 1664. He settled in Cittenborne parish on the Rappahannock River, near the present Port Conway. The first appearance of his name is on July 12, 1673, *when he came to the court of old Rappahannock to designate the mark of his cattle. This county was formed in 1655 from Lancaster, but abolished in 1692, when Richmond and Essex were formed from it. Among William Strother's neighbors were Captain Anthony Savage, and the latter's son-in-law, Francis Thornton (son of William Thornton), who were the Virginia progenitors of these two well known families.

The will of William Strother is dated Dec. 30, 1700, and was probated in Richmond County, Nov. 4, 1702. In it he names wife Dorothy; devises one-half the land he lives on with "mansion" to his eldest son William, after death of testator's wife. The other half to son James; rest of his lands to sons Robert and Benjamin, after providing for the education of his son Joseph; special bequest to grandson "Will" Strother; all the rest and residue of personal estate, with crops of corn, tobacco and servants, to wife Dorothy Strother, during the time of her widowhood, but if she should marry again, son James to order an account to be taken of the personal estate, that it may be equally divided between her and sons James, Jeremy, Robert, Benjamin and Joseph.

Executors: Wife and son James.

Witnesses: James Phillips, Edward Langdree, William Smith.

*In the Land Office, Richmond, there is a patent for 500 acres of land entered in 1658 to William Strowder. This is probably intended to be "William Strother," and as the land is in Rappahannock Co., next to where William Strother lived in 1673, it would make him to be in Virginia 15 years before he had his cattle mark registered.

- V. Benjamin Strother.
- VI. Joseph Strother.

WILLIAM STROTHER, eldest son and second of the name, was born probably before 1655. He was a planter, and lived at the family seat of his father, now King George County. In the Spottsylvania Records under date of Oct. 1, 1725, we find the following:

"WILLIAM STROTHER of King George Co., planter, to George Proctor of Spotts. Co., planter, £100 ster., 1500 acres in Spotts. Co., on ye Branches of ye Hasell Run—it being the fourth part of a grant to William Cocke, Esq., Chickley Corbin Thacker, Francis Thornton, Jur., and William Strother, party to these presents, in joynt partnership, by patent dated 20 Dec. 1718, joining the lands of Majr. Augustine Smith, Buckner and Rashton, and Mann Page, Esq."

WILLIAM STROTHER was a vestryman of Hanover parish; and Sheriff of King George County. His wife Margaret, born April 2, 1678, was a daughter of Francis Thornton (son of the first William Thornton of Gloucester County) and his wife Alice, daughter of Captain Anthony Savage, Justice and High Sheriff of Gloucester County. In 1722 he gave to his son, "Will" Strother, Jr., the land devised him by his father, except what had been sold to John Strother. On July 26, 1726, William Strother's will was admitted to probate, and his widow qualified as executrix. The contents of the will are unknown, as the Will Book (1720-44) of King George County containing it was lost during the Civil War.

On Aug. 1, 1727, Margaret Strother, widow, conveyed to her son William 300 acres of land given by her grandfather, Anthony Savage, to her father, Francis Thornton, and wife, Alice, on the Rappahannock River; except one-half acre for burying ground, including the graves therein.

On the same day she deeded to her son, Francis, of Hanover County, certain slaves, with reversion to her grandson, William Strother.

- I. William Strother.
- II. Francis Strother.
- III. Anthony Strother.
- IV. Benjamin Strother.

The Buckners of Virginia

William Strother (III.) was born about 1700. After the destruction of the old mansion house of his grandfather, the first William Strother, he sold his estate near Port Conway, and purchased one on the river, opposite Fredericksburg, in 1727. The latter place was sold by his widow and executrix, Nov. 3, 1738, to Augustine Washington, father of General George Washington. On May 26, 1727, he received a grant for 266 acres in King George County, and Sept. 12, 1731, as "Captain" William Strother, 372 acres in Prince William County. He was Sheriff and Justice of King George County, and vestryman of the parish. He married Margaret Watts, who, on his death, married (2nd) John Grant. In March, 1737, she asked for a reapportionment of the estate of her late husband, and Hancock Lee, Abram Kenyon and John Grant were appointed to make it and to set aside to her one-seventh of the estate. On Nov. 3, 1738, Anthony Strother (brother of William) qualified as "guardian to Elizabeth, Agatha, Margaret, Ann and Jane, five of the children of William Strother, deceased," and gave bond to pay five-sevenths of the debts of said William. He died in 1732, and in his will directs sale of his lands in King George and Prince William Counties, and names his wife as executrix. Issue :

1. Elizabeth Strother, married Nov. 9, 1738, John Frogg of Prince William County, who subsequently moved to the Valley of Virginia, and lived near the family of his wife's sister. A son, John Frogg, Jr., married Agatha Lewis, his first cousin, and was killed at the Battle of Point Pleasant.

 - E. George Madison, married Jane, daughter of Major Francis Smith, Madison.

F. Margaret Madison, married Judge William, son of Judge Samuel McDowell of Kentucky, and had among other children, Agatha, who married Hon. James G. Birney, first Abolition candidate for President.

MARGARET STROTHER, daughter of William Strother (III.), born in King George County, Sept. 3, 1726; married (1st), April 26, 1744, George Morton, who died in a short time; (2nd), Oct. 16, 1749, Gabriel Jones, born May 17, 1724, in Frederick County. He was the son of John Jones of Montgomery County, Wales, and his wife, Elizabeth, who emigrated to Virginia about 1720. John Jones died about 1727, and his widow and children returned to England. In April, 1732, Gabriel Jones was admitted as a scholar of the Blue-Coat School, Christ's Hospital, London, where he remained until 1739. Under the date of April 12, 1739, appears the following entry on the records of the school:

"Gabriel Jones is this day taken and discharged from the charges of this hospital forever, by Elizabeth Jones, his mother, and by Mr. John Houghton, of Lyon's Inn, in the County of Middlesex, solicitor in the High Court of Chancery, with whom he is to serve six years."

Elizabeth Jones, mother of Gabriel, was born in 1689, and died Jan. 1, 1745. At the age of twenty-one years Gabriel was admitted to the Bar, having served out his term of apprenticeship. The Jones family were of "gentle blood," but reduced circumstances. The arms on the book-plate of Gabriel Jones, viz.: "Argent a lion rampant vert, vulned in the breast gules. Crest. "The sun in splendour or," are identical with that used by Sir William Jones, the noted Oriental scholar (1746-94), and tend to show some degree of kinship with that celebrated man.

Gabriel Jones returned to America about 1746, and located in Frederick County, taking up a tract of land near Kernstown. In the same year he was appointed King's attorney for Augusta County. On Oct. 16, 1749, he was married by the Rev. James Keith to Mrs. Margaret Strother Morton, daughter of William Strother of King George. Gabriel Jones was a vestryman of Rockingham parish in 1752. He was for a long time so prominent at the Bar of the Valley of Virginia that he was called "The Lawyer." In 1757-58 and 1771 he represented Augusta in the House of Burgesses. When Rockingham County was constituted in 1777 he became a citizen there, and was immediately appointed prosecuting attorney.

The Buckners of Virginia

He was a member of the State Convention in 1788. Gabriel Jones was a man of great ability and integrity, his only fault, so tradition says, was an extremely irritable temper, which, when aroused, expressed itself in the strongest terms he could command, mingled with very pronounced profanity.

An anecdote is related of him which shows the estimation in which he was held by the Court. On one occasion, during the trial of a cause before the county justices of Rockingham he had Alexander Hugh Holmes, afterwards Judge, as his adversary. Mr. Holmes was mischievous and witty, and irritated Mr. Jones to such an extent that he became angry and profane. The Court abstained from interfering as long as possible. To think of punishing Lawyer Jones was out of the question; so the Presiding Judge gave it as the decision of the Court "That if Mr. Holmes did not quit worrying Mr. Jones, and making him curse and swear so, Lawyer Holmes should be sent to jail."

Mr. Jones was a very intimate friend of Gen. George Washington, as well as being a close friend of Lord Fairfax, and at the latter's death he became one of his executors. Gabriel Jones remained in active practice up to the time of his death in 1806 at the age of 82 years. His wife, Margaret Strother Jones, died in 1822, in her 97th year. Issue:

Thomas and Jane Strother Lewis have many descendants living in the South and West.

FRANCIS STROTHER, second son of William and Margaret Thornton Strother, was born probably in Richmond, now King George County. On Aug. 1, 1727, Margaret Strother gave by deed to her son Francis of Hanover County, certain slaves with reversion to her grandson William Strother. On Jan. 22, 1745, William Coleman conveyed to Francis Strother of St. Martin's Parish, Hanover County, 583 1-3 acres in St. Mark's Parish, Orange County, near the county seat of the present Rappahannock County. Here he removed and settled close by his son John, until his death in 1752. His will, dated April 17, 1751, is probated April 16, 1752, in Culpeper County. In it he mentions his wife Susannah; sons John, George, Anthony, Robert and Francis, and daughters Mary, Behethland, Elizabeth and Susannah. He married Susannah Dabney of the Hanover family of that name. It has been erroneously supposed that she was the daughter of Cornelius Dabney and his wife, Sarah Jennings, and much has been written and said as to the claim of her descendants to a share in a great "Jennings estate" in England. The absurdity of the claim will be apparent when it is understood that her son, John Dabney Strother, was born in 1721, the same year Sarah Jennings was married. The latter fact is proven by the following entry in the first minute book of Hanover County: "Ordered, that it be recorded that on — day of April, 1721, Cornelius Dabney, late of England, intermarried with Sarah Jennings." The Dabney family was in Virginia as early as 1664, as appears from Land Grants. In the Register of Saint Peter's Parish, New Kent County, are the following entries: "Nelthan, daughter of James Dabney, baptized ye 8 Jan. 1698-9. Elizabeth, daughter of George Dabney, baptized ye 11th of Nov. 1698. John, son to Cornelius Dabenie, deceased ye 7th of April, 1688. Elizabeth, daughter to Cornelius Dabenie, deceased ye 4th of April, 1688."

John Dabney Strother, born 1721, in Hanover County; died April, 1795. He married Mary Willis Wade, and removed shortly after his marriage to "Wadefield," Culpeper County. He was a Captain in the Culpeper Militia in 1756. His will is dated March 29, 1795, and is probated in Culpeper April 20, 1795. Issue:

A. Joseph Strother, married Ann Stuart, the daughter of Robert Stuart of Culpeper County, whose will was probated Sept. 21, 1789. In his will, which was dated May 14, 1770, he mentions his wife Mary, and his daughters, Lucy, who had married a Pulliam, Nancy Strother, and his son Robert. Joseph Strother was Deputy Sheriff of Culpeper in 1784 and 1795. In the "Va. Calendar of State Papers" we find that he petitioned the Legislature to require or permit the Land Register to issue to him a warrant for 900 acres of land, when he removed to Jefferson County, Ky., in 1800, as stated in the foregoing petition. His three daughters, Sarah, Mary Wade and Lucy, had married prior to his leaving Virginia. The children of Joseph Strother and Ann Stuart were as follows:

aa. Mary Wade Strother, born April 20, 1771; married William Menefee, Dec. 14, 1790. Her husband, commonly referred to as Colonel Menefee, was the son of John Menefee, born 1739-40; died June 2, 1832; and Mildred Johnston, died Dec. 27, 1792. In 1830 he was appointed United States District Judge for the Eastern District of Virginia, and in 1836 was Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, holding that position until his death. The arms used by the Virginia Barbours are identical with those ascribed to the Barbour family of Staffordshire, England, viz.: "Gules three mullets argent, within a bordure ermine, a canton or. Crest: A passion Cross on three grieves gules. Motto: Nihilo nisi cruce." Dr. Thomas Barbour died in St. Louis in 1849, of cholera, incurred in the course of his profession. Issue: Philip P., Thomas of Missouri, John of Missouri, Fannie, who married a Todd, of Louisville, Ky., Adele, Chalmers, Mildred.

"WADEFIELD"

WILLIAM STROTHER, son of Francis and Susannah (Dabney) Strother, was born probably in Hanover County about 1725. From the failure of Francis Strother of St. Mark's to mention him by name in his will, doubt has been expressed as to his being a son. But apart from this failure, the cause of which does not appear, there can hardly be a reasonable doubt on the point. On Aug. 1, 1727, Margaret (Thornton) Strother gave by deed to her son Francis Strother of Hanover County, certain slaves with reversion to her grandson William Strother. The connection here would clearly indicate that William was the son of Francis, rather than of anyone else, a conclusion further strengthened by the fact that none of the other sons, so far as can be ascertained from records and other sources, had a son named William of his age. In 1749, there was a grant of 400 acres in Orange County, adjoining Francis and John Strother, to William Strother, son of Francis, which grant was subsequently sold by William to John Strother. The Rev. George Strother of Trimble County, Ky., born in Culpeper County, Va. (son of John H. Strother and Anne, daughter of Capt. John Strother), was, consequently, a great-nephew of this William, and living in the same region, must have known him. The former has left a record in which he places William as a son of Francis of St. Mark's, and brother of his grandfather John, who, he says, was born in Hanover County. As will be seen below, the names of the children all show evidence of descent from a Dabney intermarriage—such as "Susannah," name of the wife of Francis of St. Mark's, and also of his daughter and William "Dabney" Strother.

He was a large landed proprietor in Culpeper and Orange. He married (1st) prior to Feb. 20, 1752, Mrs. Sarah (Bayly) Pannill, the widow of William Pannill. She was originally of Urbana, in Middlesex County. On Oct. 25, 1759, he as "of the County of Orange, Planter, and Sarah his wife, late widow and relict of William Pannill, late of the County of Culpeper," conveyed to her sons William and David Pannill, 400 acres in Orange. His wife died in 1774, and her will, dated Aug. 23, 1774, was probated Dec. 22, 1774, in Orange County. She leaves legacies to grandson William, son of David Pannill, to grandson Gerard Banks, son of her daughter Frances Banks, to granddaughter Sarah Bailie Hawkins, to Sarah Runnolds, daughter of Tabitha Runnolds, to first child that may be born to son Joseph Pannill; and balance of estate to be divided between son William Dabney Strother, and daughters Frances Banks, Susanna Hawkins and Sarah Strother. He married (2d) June 9, 1775, Anne Kavanah. Late in life he removed to Woodford County, Ky., where he died in 1808. Issue:

ELIZABETH STROTHER, daughter of Francis and Susannah (Dabney) Strother, married James Gaines, son of Henry Gaines and his wife, Isabella Pendleton, in Culpeper County, probably between the years 1766–1775. James Gaines was born in Culpeper in 1742, and after his marriage removed to North Carolina. His mother, Isabella Pendleton, was the daughter of Henry Pendleton, born 1683; died 1721, and his wife, Mary Taylor. He was the grandson of Henry Pendleton of Norwich, England, whose son Philip, born

ANTHONY STROTHER, son of William and Margaret Thornton Strother, was born Aug. 1, 1710, and died Dec. 10, 1765. He was named after his ancestor Captain Anthony Savage. He was a prominent merchant of Fredericksburg, Spottsylvania County, and lived across the river from the town. In 1751 Gov. Dinwiddie, who had appointed James Patton, Joshua Fry, and Lunsford Lomax Commissioners to treat with the Indians, wrote Col. Patton to proceed immediately to Fredericksburg, "and there receive from Anthony Strother the goods sent as a present by His Majesty to the Indians." On Jan. 27, 1734, he received a grant for 600 acres in Spottsylvania County, on "Goard Vine Fork." On May 17, same year, he purchased for £40, 387 acres in St. Mark's Parish from Benjamin Rush of King George County. In 1750 he purchased of Hancock Lee of King George for £175, Lots 35 and 36 in the town of Fredericksburg. On Nov. 3, 1760, Anthony Strother of King George County, Gent., and Mary, his wife, sold to William Lewis of Fredericksburg the above lots for £300, thereby making a profit of £125 on the original purchase. Feb. 2, 1764, he sold to Hon. John Tayloe of Richmond, 322 acres in Fauquier County, for £827. In 1739 William Thornton conveyed to Anthony Strother and Behethland his wife 250 acres below the falls of the Rappahannock in King George County.

His will, probated Oct., 1766, directs his property to be kept together as a whole for ten years, and then sold, and the proceeds equally divided between his widow and children. He married (1st) Aug. 25, 1753, Behethland Starke, born Dec. 27, 1716, who died Dec., 1753; and (2d) in 1754, Mary James, born Dec. 28, 1736. His widow, Mary, married (2d) Col. Henry Smith (brother of Daniel Smith, U. S. Senator from Tenn.) and removed to Russell County, Va. The names of the children, with dates below, are from the family Bible. but about 1807 removed to Russell County, Va., leaving descendants.

N. Mary Strother, born June 2, 1757, married Benjamin Ficklin of Fauquier.

O. George Strother, born Sept. 1, 1760, died Dec. 6, 1769.

P. Betty Strother, born July 20, 1763.

BENJAMIN STROTHER of Stafford, son of William and Margaret Thornton Strother, married Mary Mason, the widow of George Fitzhugh. She was a sister of George Mason of "Gunston Hall," and daughter of Col. George Mason and his wife, Mary Fowke. The latter, a member of the King George and Stafford family of that name. Col. Gerard Fowke was the first of his name who came to this country. He was Colonel in the English army, and Gentleman of the Privy Chamber of King Charles I. He came to Virginia about the time that his unfortunate monarch was beheaded. He had three sons—Gerard and Richard of Virginia, and Chandler, who settled in Maryland. Arms, "Vert, a fleur-de-lis argent. Crest, An Indian goat's head erased argent."

On Jan. 8, 1723-4, "Margaret Strother, wife of William Strother, Jr.," gave a power of attorney to "loving brother" Benjamin Strother to convey dower. This was Margaret Watts, wife of William, and the power of attorney fixes definitely the fact that Benjamin was a son of William Strother. On July 14, 1741, he received a grant of 419 acres of land in Stafford County. In 1756 Thomas Hurt executes a conveyance to him; and in 1760 he makes a deed of certain slaves to his daughter Anne. He was a vestryman of old Acquia Church in 1756. In 1790 John James, his administrator, asked for commissioners to settle his account.
Issue:

A. Mary Strother, married Col. William Bronaugh of London.

B. Alice Strother, married Dec. 16, 1756, Robert Washington, born June 25, 1729, son of Townsend and Elizabeth (Lund) Washington, who were married in King George County Dec. 22, 1726. A son, Lund Washington, born Sept. 25, 1767, was the father of Col. Peter G. and Col. L. Q. Washington.

C. ———, married Henry Tyler, who was clerk of Stafford County, 1764. His son, Thomas G. Strother Tyler, succeeded him.

D. Anne Strother, married John James, and had a large family. The third son, Hon. Benjamin James of Stafford, married Jean Stobo of Charleston, S. C., and had Susan, born May 9, 1804, who married John Garlington of Laurens, S. C.

II. JAMES STROTHER, son of William Strother (the founder of the family), and his wife, Dorothy, died in 1716—without issue, in which year his will was probated in Richmond County. He devised his property to his brother Joseph, his mother being one of the witnesses to the will.

III. JEREMIAH STROTHER, son of William and Dorothy Strother, was a freeholder in Westmoreland County, as early as 1703, as appears by a purchase from J. W. Smith; and subsequently a planter in King George County, but removed to Orange (now Culpeper) about 1736, where he died in 1741. As he was 86 years old at the time of his death it is evident he must have been born in 1655. As the first appearance of his father's name in the records of the colony is in 1673, there is a probability that he and his brothers were born in England. The will of Jeremiah Strother is dated June 7, 1740, and was probated March 26, 1741, in Orange County. He devised all his property to his wife, "Elener," for life or widowhood, and after her marriage or death to son Christopher; special legacies to sons James, William, Francis, Jeremiah and Lawrence; and daughters Catharine and Elizabeth. It is probable that the widow was either very much younger than her husband, or was his second wife, as it seems hardly feasible that she "should marry again" if she was anywhere near the age of her husband, Jeremiah, who was 86 years old at his death. Ashby Family

HE name of Ashby is found in the early records of the colony of Virginia, but the direct pedigree of the family in this country has been traced only from the beginning of the eighteenth century. John Asbie was one of the first settlers at Jamestown, August 6, 1607 (Brown's Gen. of U. S., p. 167). Edward Ashby is amongst the list of tithables for Northampton County, in 1666, but whether he was one of the forbears of the Ashbys of Fauquier is not definitely known.

Mr. John Ashby is mentioned as one of the corporators of the Royal African Company, 1673. (Va. Hist. Coll. vol. vi. p. 41).

The family is distinctly English in origin, the name being a derivation of the Saxon word "ash," and the Danish "bye"—meaning town. The ancient castle of Ashby in Leicestershire is first mentioned in the time of Edward the Confessor. At the time of the Norman Conquest, it was held by Hugh, under the Countess Judith, to whom it had been presented by her uncle, William the Conqueror. The ruined castle was rebuilt in 1480, by Sir William Hastings, and crowns a height to the south of the town of Ashby-de-la-Zouch. It was immortalized by Sir Walter Scott in his "Ivanhoe," and it was in this castle that Mary, Queen of Scots, passed several months in captivity.

The immediate ancestor of our Virginia branch of the Ashby family, was Captain Thomas Ashby, who located about 1700, in what is now Fauquier County, and removed later into the Shenandoah Valley. He died in 1752, his will being probated in Frederick County. His landed estate was quite large and was divided amongst the following children:

- I. John Ashby.
- II. Robert Ashby, of whom presently.
- III. Stephen Ashby.
- IV. Thomas Ashby.
- V. Henry Ashby.
- VI. Benjamin Ashby.

- VII. Elizabeth Ashby, married. — Harden.
- VIII. Sarah Ashby.
- IX. Rose Ashby.
- X. Ann Ashby.

Will of Capt. Thomas Ashby

In the name of God, Amen. I, Thomas Ashby of Frederick County, in the Colony of Virginia, being very sick and weak of body but of perfect mind and memory, thanks be to Almighty God, and calling to mind the uncertainty of this life, do make here my last will and testament in the following manner and form, revoking all former and other wills heretofore by me made, and this only to be taken for my last will and testament. Imprimis I resign my soul into the hands of the Almighty and most merciful God, trusting in and by the merits of his son my ever blessed Saviour, Jesus Christ, that it shall together with my body be raised, remitted and glorified, and as to my body I desire it may have a christian burial, and for such temporal estate wherewith it hath pleased my good God to bless me with I give and dispose of in the following manner, viz.: Item: I give unto my son Thomas Ashby one shilling sterling to have no other part of my estate whatsoever. Captain Ashby died in 1797, at the advanced age of 90 years, and was buried at Winchester. He was well fitted physically for the life of a frontiersman, being tall, erect, with eagle eyes and wonderful powers of endurance. It is said of him, that he knew not the sensation of fear nor pain.

Sketch of Captain John Ashby of Belmont

John Ashby, son of Robert Ashby, was born April 1st, 1740, in Fauquier County, and lived near Delaplane Station. Robert Ashby's house is still standing and is owned and occupied by one of his descendants, George Chancellor, Esq. It is a quaint old structure and has been often visited by persons interested in old homesteads. Robert Ashby left a considerable estate and was a man of rugged force, though of limited education. Brought up, as he seems to have been, on the confines of the settlements of Virginia, his childhood was spent amid the hardships and dangers of frontier life. When he was but twenty years of age, the Valley of Virginia was yet a tractless forest with a few settlers here and there without schools and churches. His son John was born not long after the time when attention began to be attracted toward the Valley, and grew up with the spirit of adventure that marked the period. John was precocious in the qualities that distinguished men in those times. He was early trained to the use of arms and horses. Constant contact with the Indians instructed him in all the arts of the woodsman, and as the frontiers were in these times subject to hostile incursions and sudden attacks, he early acquired the experience of the soldier. His abilities naturally ran to leadership. And we find him, when he was just a little beyond his majority, in command of a company of men, and well on in the possession of a reputation for courage, horsemanship and skill as a leader of men, that grew with his years to the end.

His name and career have been confused with those of an uncle who had the same name and who was likewise distinguished for courage and leadership in his day. In the historical accounts we have of these two men, little effort is made to distinguish between them, and one is at times at a loss to know which of the two men is referred to. They were for some years contemporaries and had much the same traits and the same devotion to their country. They had, too, the same military title. They lived, however, on different sides of the Blue Ridge, in different counties, and this circumstance sometimes serves to distinguish them. The ease with which they may be confounded may be seen from the account of the Ashby Family given in Hayden's Virginia Genealogies, p. 450, where not only most of the exploits and honors of the younger John Ashby, but even his father's wives, are bestowed upon the elder.

The following record gathered from the family papers, public records and historical accounts, has been prepared by one of his descendants, Howard R. Bayne, Esq., of New York.

In these times forts were established at certain points along the frontier which were manned by an apparently irregular body of troops in the service of the State of Virginia, and commanded by men who held their commission from the State. They were known as rangers and were selected to stand between the homes and settlements of their fellow countrymen and the hostile tribes of Indians in the wilderness beyond the frontiers. One of these forts was called Ashby's Fort and was commanded by a Captain John Ashby. It was situated on Patterson's Creek and had a garrison of sixty men in 1756. This Captain Ashby is frequently mentioned by Washington in his correspondence with Governor Dinwiddie. See Spark's life of Washington, Vol. 2, p. 107 (Ed. 1834), also p. 145. See also Memorial Edition of Writings of Washington published by Putnams, Vol. 1, letters to Governor Dinwiddie, dated May 22nd, 1756, and August 4th, 1756. See also Kercheval's History of the Valley, p. 85 (2nd Ed.). This Captain John Ashby, I have little doubt, was the uncle of the subject of my sketch, and seems to have held the title of Colonel at a later day. I have not been able to verify the family tradition that Captain Ashby, the elder, was actually in the engagement at which Braddock met his death. During all this period, however, he was in actual military service at one point or another, in one expedition or another. In the return of the 2nd Company of Rangers, commanded by him, dated October 21st, 1757, the earliest enlistment reported is that of Leonard Harper, August 18th, 1755. The next is that of Daniel Morgan, August 30th, 1755. the Daniel Morgan afterwards so celebrated in the Revolutionary War. These returns of course showed the constituency of the command at the date of the return. This particular return may be found in the Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, Vol. 2, p. 152. As the subject of my sketch was at the date of this return but 17 years of age, I conclude it was not he but the elder Ashby who is described in the return as the Captain of the Rangers. According to family traditions and the authorities below cited, it so happened that the younger Ashby was at Fort Loudon when the news of Braddock's defeat was yet fresh. Whether he himself bore the dispatches, or was detailed at that point is uncertain. Family tradition has it that he was one of the Virginia Contingent that under Washington's command did such good service in retrieving the disasters of that ill-fated expedition. I have not been able to find that any officer by the name of Ashby was present at the battle. But it is extremely probable that if not actually enlisted, the younger Ashby was hovering around the expeditions. (See Va. Hist. Coll. vol. xi. pp. 208, 216.) Though still young at this time, he was experienced and trustworthy, and his daring courage and splendid horsemanship, both perhaps well known to Washington, would have justified entrusting him with dispatches to Governor Dinwiddie or the nearest military station in the line of governmental communication, Fort Loudon. It was no light mission to bear such dispatches alone through many miles of uninhabited country, infested with hostile bands lying in wait for the remains of a defeated, disorganized army.

But by whomever the dispatches were brought to Fort Loudon, now Winchester, it is quite certain they were carried from that point to Williamsburg, the seat of Government, and returns made by John Ashby, the younger, with such expedition as to render his ride a marvel in that day and a historical exploit often mentioned since. Indeed, so remarkable was it, that on his return the commander of the fort was about to upbraid him for his delay when he was amazed at Ashby's presenting him with the answers to the dispatches. The service to the public was so highly prized that the fact was certified upon the records of the Frederick County Court. See Pollard's 2nd Year of the War, p. 46 (Ed. 1863, Richardson, N. Y.); Ashby and His Compeers, by Rev. James B. Avirett, p. 240-41 (Ed. 1867, Smith & Dulany, Baltimore); Force's Arch. 1, 373.

The materials to form a connected account of Captain John Ashby are slight and unsatisfactory. So, prior to the expedition ordered by Lord Dunmore, Governor of the Colony, against the Indians under Cornstalk, there is little recorded worthy of mention beyond what I have recited. From this time, however, his record though not full of details, is reasonably clear.

It will be recalled that the murder of the family of the famous Indian Chief Logan in the spring of 1774, caused an uprising against the whites on the part of the Indians on the Western Border that justly excited the apprehension of the entire Colony. Dunmore ordered two divisions to assemble for the purpose of crushing the hostiles. That in the lower Shenandoah Valley he himself commanded, while that in the upper Shenandoah was commanded by Andrew Lewis.

These two columns were to converge at the mouth of the Kanawha, Point Pleasant. Starting with the two regiments, numbering about 1,100 men, from the vicinity of what is now the beautiful Village of Lewisburg in West Virginia, in September, 1774, General Lewis began his arduous march to Point Pleasant on the Ohio. The hardships of such an expedition cannot be appreciated, can hardly be imagined in our day. The forests were trackless, and the difficulties of overcoming the barriers of nature were increased by the need of constant watchfulness against predatory bands of revengeful savages.

Arrived at the rendezvous, Lewis and his troops could learn nothing of Dunmore or the wing under him. While preparing to cross the Ohio, Lewis was attacked by Cornstalk and thus the Battle of Point Pleasant was fought. It was desperately contested ending in the defeat of the Indians, but with heavy loss to the Virginians. It was a memorable struggle and the last in the horrible series of the Savage assaults upon the Virginia frontier. The Indians largely outnumbering the whites, consisted of the best fighting men of the Delawares, Mingoës, Cayugas and Wyandots. It is often stated that John Ashby commanded a company under Lewis in this expedition and distinguished himself at the Battle of Point Pleasant. In the official accounts of the battle, he is not mentioned as an officer actually engaged. He may have been with the division under Lord Dunmore. There seems to be no doubt that he was actually in the expedition. He was reported to have been killed (Force's Arch. 1, p. 373), but this rumor doubtless arose from the fact that upon the cessation of hostilities, Ashby did not immediately return home. With some other companions, he took this occasion to pass over into Kentucky (October 10th, 1774) where he probably at the time had extensive tracts of land, taken up by patents under royal grants for public services. This excursion over, Captain Ashby and his comrades found the return home more difficult than they had imagined. The country was if anything wilder and more dangerous than when marching westward under Lewis. So Ashby and his friends kept to the river in a perrogue. But once trusting to the stream, they seemed to find no safe landing, for the banks swarmed with hostiles, from whom the wanderers had many narrow escapes. They passed on down the Ohio and once so far from home they found it more easy to go on with the current than turn back and attempt an unknown route through a strange land. So they glided on having more than one adventure, from the Ohio into the Mississippi, and upon her broad bosom they floated to the far South, landing at New Orleans, whence they returned home by way of Pensacola and Charleston. (Western Journal XII., 116, Collins, Ky., 1, 18). It was claimed of him, as the result of this trip, that he was the first white man who ever went from the Kanawha to New Orleans all the way by water.

When the minute men began to organize in those stirring days preceding the Revolution, Ashby came again to the front. He was in 1775 appointed Captain in the Culpeper Minute Battalion and in September marched from Culpeper Court House in response to the call of the Committee of Safety to join in the attack upon Lord Dunmore's forces at Norfolk.

The Buckners of Virginia

The flag of his Company bore the coiled rattlesnake with the legend "Don't tread on me." One of his lieutenants was a young man who afterwards far outstripped his Commander in fame—John Marshall. The Company participated in the engagement at Great Bridge near Norfolk, under Colonel William Woodford, December 9th, 1775, resulting in the overthrow of Dunmore's forces. See Cook's Virginia, 486 (Ed., 1892).

The troops wore "strong brown linen bunting shirts dyed with leaves, and the words 'Liberty or Death' worked in large white letters on the breast, bucktails in each hat, and a leather belt about the shoulders with tomahawk and scalping knife." Most of them had fowling pieces and squirrel-guns. Slaughter's History St. Mark's Parish, p. 107 (Ed., 1877).

The minute men were soon made a party of the regular troops of the Colony, and after the Battle of Great Bridge, Captain Ashby's company doubtless became a part of the Third Virginia Regiment. In February, 1776, he was commissioned a Captain in the Regiment in which he served through the Campaigns of 1776 and 1777 in the War of the Revolution. (Certificate of John Marshall, Joseph Blackwell, John Blackwell, V. Peers, Thomas Marshall, in my possession, copies in Archives New York Sons of Revolution).

A touching incident occurred when these now regularly enlisted borderers, having marched from the Shenandoah Valley under Morgan, were reviewed by Washington at Boston. As he was riding along the lines, Morgan saluted him and reported: "From the right bank of the Potomac, General." "Washington dismounted," says John Esten Cook in his History of Virginia, p. 450, "and with tears in his eyes went along the ranks, shaking hands in turn with each of the men." And well he might. For he doubtless knew most of them personally, since the days of Braddock, and how true and brave they were going to be to the cause he had so much at heart, no one knew better than Washington himself.

I do not know what were the movements of Captain Ashby's Regiment just preceding the Battle of Harlem Heights, but there is no doubt that the successful issue of that engagement was due in great part to the coolness and fighting quality of these Virginia troops under the command of Col. Leitch. When all the field officers fell, Captains Ashby, West and Thornton, acting in splendid concert, so managed their Virginia troops as to extricate the movement from defeat, and bring for the first time in many a day victory to the American arms.

The moral effect of this engagement was out of all proportion to the number of troops employed or the harm done the enemy. It revived the spirits of the American people to a point they had not hitherto reached, and showed that in spite of the disastrous Long Island campaign the British soldiers were not invincible, at least when confronted by Virginians well officered.

The letter of Lieut.-Col. Gustavus P. Wallace, 25th Virginia Regiment, dated September 18th, 1776, published for the first time in Hayden's Virginia Genealogies, p. 703, describing this battle, is so quaint and interesting that I cannot forbear reproducing it in full. It is as follows:

CAMP ON MORRISSES HEIGHTS, SEPT. 18, 1776.

Dear Brother:

On Sunday last one large ship and two small ones passed our battery on Powles Hook and came up North River about 3 miles—four others went up East River and at the same time five ships of the line drew up before the town and then ensued a very heavy cannonading from the shipping and our batterys. On the town being cannonaded our people were obliged to evacuate it but before they got out of the town a large party landed from the ships in East River and beat back a New England Brigade that was posted there to prevent their landing. Though our regiment had been out of camp under arms for two nights before, we were ordered to cover the retreat of the cowardly Yankeymen but before we could get up we were countermanded by General Green who commanded us. The enemy marched then to York and took some few that were in the town but a great many reached us; that night our regiment was kept under arms the whole night and in the evening about 9 o'clock we heard our picquet guard that belonged to a New England Brigade attacked by the enemy, on which our Regt. was drawn up in a small field that we had been in all night and about five or six minutes after we saw the picquet guard running like the devil, on which we were ordered to advance from seven companys over half a mile which we did and then formed in the woods on the side of a hill just above a meadow that was 50 yards wide. We then came in sight of our enemy who were posted on the opposite side of the meadow on a woody hill on which Capt. West, Capt. Thornton, Capt. Ashby and a rifle company from Maryland was ordered under the command of Col. Leitch to cross the swamp above the meadow and flank the enemy. After our seven companys of musketry were drawn up on the side of the hill the enemy fired upon our right-wing which brought on a pretty hot engagement across the meadow—the distance was so great that there was little execution done on either side until a Connecticut Brigade got betwixt us and the enemy in a thicket that lay on one side of the meadow from which they killed a few. This drew the enemy's attention to us & those that were in the thicket, on which Major Leitch was ordered to surround them and in attempting it he and his party fell in with about 1500 of the enemy who like to have taken Leitch and his party, but they made a manful stand and exchanged three rounds, when our poor Major received three balls through his side on which his party were obliged to retire, but did great execution. We had in that part of our Regt. 3 killed and 8 wounded—we had in the main part of the Regt. (where I was) 3 wounded, one thought to be mortally. The Major is thought to be in a good way. Thos. Hungerford got slightly wounded in the foot. Col. Weedon got part of the hilt of his sword taken off by a ball.

All of our officers and soldiers behaved with the greatest bravery, and the troops that were engaged got Gen'l Washington's thanks yesterday in public orders. I forgot to tell you that the enemy retreated from the field of battle and we took possession of it on which we found nearly fifty dead where Leitch engaged them, and a great deal of blood and two dead bodies on the place where we fired. They were seen to carry away their dead from the part where we fought them, by a deserter who came in last night we were told that they had lost in killed and wounded and missing 150 in all. We have about 40 killed, wounded and taken; in a little time we expect a general engagement, where there certainly will be on both sides a great number fall. When Leitch attacked them they retreated from us and we took the ground they occupied. The wood they lay in was cut to pieces by our balls. Though I say it that should not say it the Virginia Regiment has got great honor in this engagement 4 & 5 Virginia Regts. we pray for more Virginia troops & think success.

I have sent half my clothes to King's Bridge about five miles above this for fear of losing our camp. My compliments to the two Mr. Taliaferros & their Ladys, Vas Jones & his Lady & all my good friends in Virginia. You will please show this letter to the above gentlemen though they will be puzzled to read it. I am Dr Sir with many compliments to your Lady & family.

Your affect. Brother,

GUST B. WALLACE.

The high record of the 3rd Virginia was maintained throughout the trying New Jersey campaign. It was soon Washington's 10th Legion.

At Brandywine (September 11th, 1777) the 3rd Virginia behaved with great gallantry, remaining firm after both its flanks were turned (Cooke's Va., 1892, p. 450). According to family tradition, Captain Ashby was the first to succour Lafayette on being wounded in that battle. This incident was told to my uncle Turner Wade Ashby by Lafayette himself, at a reception given to the latter at Warrenton, Va., in 1825. Ashby was subsequently himself wounded in the same engagement. He, however, participated in the Battle of Germantown (October 4th, 1777). According to the certificates of his comrades in arms above referred to, he withdrew from active service in the winter of 1778, very much afflicted by severe rheumatic complaints contracted in the army.

According to Heitman-Historical Register, Officers of the Continental Army (1893), Captain Ashby resigned Oct. 30th, 1777. If this be the correct date of his resignation, he may have nevertheless continued in active service pending acceptance, or have withdrawn it, or requested action be postponed upon it. Certainly on that day he settled his accounts with the pay-master of the Regiment at Camp Whitpen. Certif. V. Peers; Va., Dec. 31.

Upon his retirement from the army to his death in 1815, there is little to record. The country during this period had entered upon an era of prosperity which was checked, and that but temporarily only, by the second war with England in 1812, which the gallant old veteran lived to see terminate successfully and honorably in favor of his country. Too old to take part himself, but true to his brave and patriotic instincts, he gave to his country's service in that memorable struggle, at least four sons, John, Samuel, Nimrod and Thomson (Pollard's 2nd Year of the War, p. 46 (1863), and it is stated a fifth, Turner, the father of General Turner Ashby, C. S. A. (Avirett's Ashby and His Compeers (1867), p. 16. Thomson was a lieutenant in Captain Benjamin Cole's Company.

The others, I believe, were all officers of higher rank.

So far as I am now informed Captain Ashby never sought civil or political honors of any kind. After a long and honorable military service, he retired to the easy, independent life of a country gentleman of good estate. He had inherited considerable wealth from his father to which in spite of the generous living to which he and all of the name were given, he had added a comfortable amount by judicious investments especially in the State of Kentucky, where his brother *Benjamin, after serving actively throughout the War of the Revolution, and others of the family had settled.

Captain Ashby lived at "Belmont," not far from Delaplane Station, in Fauquier, in the simplicity and contentment of the time. According to the fashion of his people he entertained all comers with simple but gracious hospitality.

Illustrative of this ingenuous and social life is a sweet little story which I have often heard from the past generation of the family and which I think ought to be preserved.

*Heitman—(Historical Register, Washington, D. C., 1893), gives the following as the record of Benjamin Ashby: Ensign 11th Regiment (Va.) November 30th, 1776; Regimental Quartermaster, January 1st, 1777; 2nd Lieutenant, June 1st, 1777; Regiment designated 7th Va., September 14th, 1778; 1st Lieutenant, March 13th, 1779; retired January 1st, 1782. See also Calender Virginia State Papers, 1, 410).

Sitting upon his portico one hot summer day and looking far across the green sloping meadow to the County Road that skirted his lands, the old soldier descried a weary traveller wending his way slowly along. Calling up one of the negro boys, of whom there were a number always in immediate attendance for general service about the house, the Captain told him to go out at once to the traveler and invite him in Captain Ashby's name, to come to the house for rest and refreshment for himself and his horse. The invitation was as graciously accepted as given, and the stranger, turning aside from the public road, entered the long lane that led to Captain Ashby's home, the darkey preceding him and opening the gates, with as much interest and pleasure in the occasion as if he were the master himself. The Captain was at this time a great sufferer from rheumatism as well as wounds received years before, in the service, but never quite healed. The traveller was gracefully and cordially received by the disabled soldier, who went as far as to greet him as his bodily infirmities would admit of. He was pressed to dine, and after dinner, he was pressed to spend the night. Next day he was pressed to abide yet longer that the civilities of the neighbors might be extended to him. The traveller yielded to the warm hospitality of his host and bided several days with him, receiving every attention that Captain Ashby and his friends could command. The stranger proved to be an English surgeon traveling in quest of health and information, a gentleman of great intelligence and professional skill. Becoming interested in Captain Ashby's ailments the kind gentleman volunteered his services to bring him relief from his suffering, and such was his application, that ere long the patient was greatly eased of his rheumatism and quite cured of his wounds. It was thus that the Captain entertained an angel unawares, but angel or not, he would have entertained him much the same. And so the traveller took up his journey, without leaving for us of this day any other record whatever of himself.

The following letter from Benjamin Ashby to Captain John Ashby is in my possession.

Dear Brother:

If Mr. Smith should bring my Horse out, you will oblige me in a particular manner if you would spare me a Bell, and endeavour to procure by some means a Saddle and Bridle of any sort for me and send them with the Horse, for it is impossible for me to get such a thing in this Country and you know there will be no doing without; I also should be glad of a pr. of Shoes and Stockings by the same opportunity, these articles perhaps you may get at my Fathers. Pray Don't Neglect getting the Land Warrants to the amount of two thousand Acres if you can spare the money as I think I can lay them upon good Land. You had also better by all means send them as soon as possible as the sooner I get them the better.

Pray let me hear from you by the first opportunity and write me how every-thing goes, my Comps. to Molly and all my other friends.

Yr. Brother,
BENJ'N ASHBY.

HOWARD R. BAYNE, son of Mary Ellen Ashby and Charles Bayne, was born at Winchester, Va., on May 11th, 1851. His father, Charles Bayne, was the son of Richard Bayne and Susan Pope of Westmoreland County, Va.

At the beginning of the Civil War, Mr. Bayne's parents were living in Baltimore, Maryland, where his father was engaged in the tobacco business. The sympathies of Mr. Charles Bayne being entirely with the Southern cause, his residence in Baltimore became uncomfortable, if not perilous to his liberty. He left Baltimore early in the War with his family and became one of that numerous class, known as refugees, which flocked to Virginia from all parts of the country. As the war progressed Mr. Bayne and his family constantly had to change their residence in order to keep within the Southern lines and finally, about 1863, he took up his residence in Richmond, where he remained until 1870. He entered his son Howard in the Preparatory School at Richmond College, from which, after taking the full college course, he graduated in 1872, receiving the academic degree of M. A.

Among the honors that Howard R. Bayne received at college was that of Salutatorian, Final Orator and Best Debater's medallist. After graduating, he taught two years at the University

HOWARD RANDOLPH BAYNE

School in Richmond, and for the next three years he was principal of the Pampatike Academy at the home of Col. Thomas H. Carter, in King William County, Va. He took the summer Law course under Prof. John B. Minor, at the University of Virginia, in 1878, and graduated in law at Richmond College in 1879, receiving the professional degree of B. L. He was admitted to the Richmond Bar in July, 1879, and shortly afterwards formed a partnership with James Alston Cabell, under the firm name of Bayne & Cabell, which continued until July, 1882, when Mr. Bayne left Richmond to take up his residence in New York City. He was admitted to the New York Bar in July, 1882, and has practiced at that Bar continuously ever since.

On April 27, 1886, he married Lizzie S. Moore, daughter of Dr. Samuel Preston Moore of Richmond, Virginia, Surgeon-General of the Confederate States Army. Dr. Moore had been Surgeon in the Old Army from which he resigned when his native State, South Carolina, left the Union. Mrs. Moore was the daughter of Major Jacob Brown, U. S. A., who was killed in the Mexican War at the attack upon the troops he commanded at Fort Brown, now Brownsville, Texas, named in his honor.

Mr. Bayne resided in New York City from 1882 to 1890, when he removed to New Brighton, Staten Island, where he has resided ever since. He is a member of the New York City Bar Association, Sons of the Revolution, the Society of Colonial Wars, Richmond County Country Club, Virginia Historical Society, Trustee of the Staten Island Academy, Vestryman of Christ Church, New Brighton, and President of the Staten Island Association of Arts and Sciences. He has been for a number of years one of the trustees of the New York Southern Society, of which he was one of the organizers, also of the Council of "The Virginians," in New York, of which Society he is at present Governor.

He was in 1905, appointed by Governor Higgins, a member of the Probation Commission of the State of New York.

While at the Virginia Bar he edited Converse's Indexes (Virginia and West Virginia Law).

In 1879 he and Rev. Dr. Peyton Harrison Hoge, now of Louisville, Ky., took a tramp of over 800 miles through the State of Virginia, writing letters in the course of their long walk, to the Richmond Dispatch under the assumed names respectively of "Ego and Alter." These letters attracted much attention at the time, and were afterwards published in book form, Mr. Hoge, being Ego, and Mr. Bayne, Alter. Mr. Bayne is also the author of Monographs "The Year 1619 in the Colony of Virginia," and "A Rebellion in the Colony of Virginia," published by the New York Society of Colonial Wars. He has also contributed numerous articles on legal subjects to the Railroad Gazette and other papers.

Mr. Bayne has taken a prominent part in numerous movements for the betterment of social and civic conditions in his community. His greatest activity in politics was in opposition to the famous "Snap Convention of 1892" which sought to shelve Grover Cleveland in the interests of David B. Hill, as candidate for the presidency. This movement caused a revolution in the Democratic party in New York State and brought forth the celebrated "Anti-Snap Convention" of May, 1892, to which Mr. Bayne was a delegate. He was then elected a member of the State Committee and was also sent as one of the contesting delegation to the Chicago Convention to voice the sentiment of New York for Mr. Cleveland. This movement was completely successful, securing not only the nomination, but also the election of Mr. Cleveland to the presidency. Issue:

C. TURNER ASHBY, Jr., General in C. S. A., was born in Oct., 1828, near Markham, Fauquier County. He commanded a cavalry company made up of young men of his neighborhood, and when Virginia seceded in 1861, Captain Turner Ashby with his company were among the first to reach Harper's Ferry to volunteer their services.

He was assigned to the 7th Va. Cavalry, and by his bravery and dash at once attracted the attention of General Stonewall Jackson, who promoted him to the command of the 7th Cavalry. His younger brother, Richard Ashby, was a Lieutenant in his company, and was advanced to a Captaincy when Turner was promoted to a higher grade. Captain Richard Ashby who was a brave and brilliant officer, was killed in 1861, in an engagement on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, near Hancock, Md. His death had a saddening effect upon his brother, between whom there were strong ties of affection. Arousing all the fire and fervor in his nature, he threw all the energy and passion of a wounded heart into the cause in which he enlisted. His reckless daring, contempt for danger and chivalric spirit were aroused to the highest degree of enthusiasm and activity, so that he soon became one of the most distinguished cavalry leaders in the Confederacy. In 1862 he was made Brigadier-General and had command of the cavalry under Stonewall Jackson in the Valley Campaign.

Superbly mounted, and conceded to be one of the best riders in the South, he virtually lived in the saddle, and undertook and performed almost incredible feats. He had many narrow escapes, and seemed to bear almost a charmed life, but he was instantly killed while leading the 58th Va. Regiment into battle on the afternoon of June 6, 1862, near Harrisonburg, Va.

The tribute paid to his memory by Stonewall Jackson, who never gave undeserved praise, is the best monument to his character and memory:

“As a partisan officer I never knew his superior; his daring was proverbial; his powers of endurance almost incredible; his tone of character heroic, and his sagacity almost intuitive in divining the purposes and movement of the enemy.”

General Turner Ashby and his brother, Captain Richard Ashby, lie side by side in the Confederate Cemetery at Winchester, Va.

Thornton Family

HIS family, one of the oldest and most prominent in Virginia, originally settled in Gloucester County. The first of the line in this country was William Thornton, who is thought to have been a native of Yorkshire, England.

About the earliest mention of him was on May 11, 1646, when "William Thornton" obliged himself by a paper recorded in York County (including Gloucester), to care for the cattle of a certain John Liptrot until the latter came of age. On Feb. 16, 1665-6, William Thornton received a grant of 164 acres of land in Petsworth parish, Gloucester. He was a vestryman of the above named parish in 1677.

In the Essex County records there is a power of attorney dated September, 1673, from William Thornton of Gloucester, to James Kay of Rappahannock, on the north side of the river adjoining the lands of Anthony Buckner, Col. William Ball and Mr. Richard Whitehead. There is also recorded in Essex in 1708, a deed dated July 16, 1675, from "William Thornton of Gloucester, gent.," to Francis and Rowland, "two of his sons." William Thornton resided in Stafford County in 1708. The name of his wife is not known, but he had issue: William, Francis and Rowland.

I. WILLIAM THORNTON, JR., of Gloucester, who was born March 27, 1649; died Feb. 15, 1727. He was married three times, but the names of his wives is unknown. Like his father, he was a vestryman of Petsworth parish. Issue by first wife:

- F. Judith Presley Thornton, born Oct. 3, 1731; died June 19, 1757, and is buried at Port Royal. She married Thomas Buckner of "Mill Hill" and "Mount Pleasant," Caroline County, and left issue.

Anthony Thornton, above, resided at "Ormesby," Caroline County. This estate was acquired by Anthony Thornton, Sr., who built in 1715, the oldest portion of the present house. Anthony, Jr., was Sheriff of Caroline in 1767, and was alive in 1778. He was married twice, first in 1764 to Sarah Taliaferro, and secondly, to Susannah Fitzhugh. Issue by first wife:

1. Anthony Thornton.

7. *Judith Presley Thornton, married Major Aylett Buckner of Fauquier County, and had issue:

III. ROWLAND THORNTON, son of William Thornton, Sr., was a witness to the will of James Yeats of Rappahannock, June 9, 1685-6. There is a deed in Richmond County in 1692, from Rowland Thornton of Rappahannock, planter, and his wife Elizabeth, daughter of Alexander Fleming, to Francis Thornton of same county, gent. Elizabeth, daughter of Capt. Alexander Fleming, sold land in what was afterwards King George, in 1699. In May, 1701, the bond of Elizabeth Thornton as administratrix of Rowland Thornton of Richmond County, deceased, was recorded. It is believed he left no issue.

*There is a difference of opinion in regard to the names of the children of Judith Presley Thornton and Major Aylett Buckner. Mr. Stanard in his "History of the Thorntons" states that they were (1) Thornton; (2) Richard; (3) James; (4) Elizabeth, who married — Taylor of Kentucky; (5) Louisa, who married a Thomas Buckner.

Mr. Wm. Buckner McGroarty, who has made considerable research into the family history, gives the following as the offspring: (1) Thornton; (2) Catherine Taliaferro; (3) Aylett; (4) Elizabeth Aylett; (5) Laura Lightfoot; (6) Richard Aylett; (7) John; (8) Anthony.

Mr. McGroarty has probably confused the last named with the Anthony Buckner and wife Amy, whose daughter, Parthenia, was born Oct. 14, 1758. (Register of St. Pauls, Stafford County.) Of this Anthony, I can find no trace beyond the above mention, neither can I find good evidence that Aylett and Judith (Thornton) Buckner had more than three sons.—(Editor.)

New England Buckners

According to Savage's Genealogical Register, the name of Buckner is found in New England in 1657, which is earlier than the first mention of the name in Virginia. In 1668 we find a Charles Buckner, schoolmaster, and his wife Mary, described as being of Boston, and who on April 12th of the same year, sold land in Dover to Job Clements. No further trace of them can be found, so that if they did not return to England, they probably left no issue.

In the expedition against Louisbourg in 1745, a Samuel Buckner served under Lieut. Geo. Gerrish, and he is probably the same person as Serg't Samuel Buckner of the 9th Company, 1st Massachusetts Regiment, Capt. William Warner, who was a member of the expedition. As the christian name, Samuel, is well known in the Virginia branch of the family, he may have belonged to that line. The above named are the only Buckners found in the New England records.
